NEW MYSTERY IN POISON QUIZ

POLICE SEEK "OUTSIDER" IN DEATH INQUIRY AT UNIVERSITY

Redouble Efforts to Identify Stranger in Strychnine Cases.

FOLLOW CLUES

Visitor Obtained Capsules in Columbus College of Pharmacy.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 7.—Information indicating that some "outsider"—a person not connected with the college of pharmacy—was seen in the dispensary, on the Ohio State university campus, a short time before one of the pharmacy students, in filling prescriptions for colds, issued capsuled quinine and aspirin, which might have included capsuled strychnine, was being followed up today by the police officials who are probing the mystery surrounding the deaths recently of two university students and serious illness of at least three others, all attributed to strychnine poisoning.

Students Face Grilling.

The investigating officials, it was stated, are endeavoring to identify this stranger who may possibly be responsible for distribution of the deadly poison among the university students. A number of students during questioning by the investigators, it was said, recalled having seen the "outsider" obtain capsules from a quinine bottle.

Police Prosecutor Chester expects that the investigation today will uncover the identity of the students who issued the fatal capsules which caused the deaths of Charles H. Huls, Logan and David I. Puskin, Canton.

When the examination of the students in the pharmacy class is completed, a stiff grilling at police headquarters awaits a small group of students whose stories thus far have not

Smallpox Develops From Flu in Four Cases at Newark

NEWARK, O., Feb. 7.—For the first time in medical circles, it is said, there is evidence in four instances here that smallpox can and has developed from flu. According to the statement of health commissioner W. H. Knauss, the four victims have not been exposed to smallpox, all living in widely seperated sections of the city.

Within the past few days they were each stricken with flu or grip, and shortly after there appeared the tell-tale smallpox pimples over the body. Medical science here can not understand how such could be, and a careful study of both diseases relative to each other is being made.

BRITISH NOTE URGES FRANCE TO PAY DEBT

London Does Not Ask More Than Pledge to U. S.

STRESSES ACTION

Invites Premier Herriot to Make Visit for Discussion.

LONDON, Feb. 7—The British note to France will not lay stress upon the immediate payment by France of its war debt to Great Britain, it was learned today in official circles. The text of the note will be published Monday.

The note will, it was said, lay down the general principle that Great Britain does not ask more from Europe than the amount Great Britain is pledged to pay the United States.

Britain presumes, the note will continue, that payments will be forthcoming from Germany. If Germany does not pay then Britain will not expect the allied debtors to make up for the German shortage.

The note will invite France to make a definite offer regarding the payment of its debt to Britain. The foreign office would welcome a visit from Premier Herriot to discuss the matter, the note will say.

CHINESE QUIT OPIUM PARLEY

GENEVA, Feb. 7.—The Chinese delegation today withdrew from the international opium conference, following the withdrawal yesterday of the United States.

The action of China was preceded by sharp criticism of America for withdrawing. At the opening of the plenary session this morning, President Zahle, Denmark, read a letter from the Chinese delegation. The letter gave reasons similar to those which prompted the American delegation to quit the conference.

Specifically, China said, the conference had been unable to reach an agreement for the suppression of opium.

Physicians Deny Amputation Report In Davidson Case

A large crowd attended faith healing services held in the First Presbyterian church last night by Rev. George Formby, of Grand Crossing, Fla.

Physicians today, referring to the illness of Attorney George E. Davidson, said there was no intention of amputating Mr. Davidson's leg. About six weeks ago, doctors said if gangrene developed, amputation would be necessary. However, in the meantime, they say, Mr. Davidson was assured he was on the road to recovery.

STATE REPRESENTATIVE WILL INTRODUCE HOUSE PROPOSAL THURSDAY

Gov. Donahey Pledges Support of Measure to Submit Question to Electorate in East Liverpool.

URGES AUTO TAG COST REDUCTION

East Rochester Legislator Says he Reserves Right, However, to Vote for Gasoline Tax Plan.

Establishment of a municipal court in East Liverpool will be subject to a decision of the electors under the provisions of a uniform court bill, which State Representative Ralph W. Emmons, of East Rochester, will introduce in the Ohio Assembly next Wednesday or Thursday, be announced today.

The proposal, sponsored by the Columbiana county legislator and which is believed to have the support of Governor Donahey, permits cities having a population of less than 50,000 to decide at the polls whether or not they favor a municipal court. Upon a majority vote, the bill automatically becomes a law without further action on the part of the state legislature.

Should this bill be defeated, Emmons as a last resort, will introduce an East Liverpool court measure. He believes, that such a plan would not receive the support of the governor inasmuch as the state executive vetoed a similiar measure two years ago.

Spends Week-end at Home.

Emmons, who is spending the week-end with his family at East Rochester, visited here yesterday afternoon, conferring with his constituents regarding matters before the legislature.

"Sentiment in East Liverpool favors the establishment of a municipal court as far as I am able to ascertain," he said. "The governor, however, has announced his opposition to municipal courts except for cities with a population of 50,000 or more, unless they are provided by a uniform bill. He has indicated that he will support a measure similar to that which I will introduce next week, permitting the voters of municipalities to vote on the issue."

The cities of Canton and Springfield are the only communities in the state with populations of 50,000 or more where municipal courts are not in operation, and bills establishing courts in these cities will likely be enacted at this session of the legislature. Ashtabula, Newark, Massillon and East Liverpool are among the smaller communities advocating such a bill.

Predicts Gas Tax Passage.

The Emmons bill would permit townships and communities adjacent to cities having a municipal court to be included within the jurisdiction of the court upon presentation of a pe-

MITCHELL ROW MAY CAUSE FEW HEADS TO FALL

Assistant Air Chief and Navy Secretary May Lose Posts.

RESULT AWAITED

President Coolidge Must Ultimately be Arbiter.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—The row between Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, assistant chief of air service, and the conservative heads of the army and navy, reached a point today where Washington began to look for some official heads to fall.

One of them may be Mitchell's. Another may be that of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur. There may be others.

This conflict between the advocates and opponents of the a greater air service, seething beneath the surface ever since the bombing tests off the Virginia Capes demonstrated the feasibility of sinking a battleship from the air, surpasses anything peace-time Washington has ever witnessed.

President Coolidge must ultimately be the arbiter of the row, it was said by administration officials today.

DEADLY DULL ROUTINE GRIPS RESCUE WORK AT SAND CAVE

Frayed Nerves Begin to Snap as Men Dig.

FRESH RECRUITS

Expect to Reach Floyd Collins Late Sunday.

BY CARL W. HARRIS.

CAVE CITY, KY., Feb. 7.—Deadly dull routine gripped sand cave today.

Gone were the chances for individual glory which had sustained many through sleepless days and nights of toil in icy, damp muck. The thrill of risk virtually had been eliminated. The newness was wearing off—and all that remained was the weary round of drilling, digging, drilling, digging while day turns into night and night gives way to another day.

Frayed nerves, too, were beginning to snap. Commands were barked in sharper voice. Hands twitched as they nervously lighted countless cigarettes. For there is relief only for the workers—those in command have had hardly an hour's sleep since the state assumed charge of the rescue efforts.

Digging Goes On.

The loss of contact with Floyd Collins, maintained in the early days of the rescue attempts also proved a depressing influence. Digging in these barren hills for a man buried for eight days 55 feet below the surface of the ground, a man whom you have never seen and whose existence as the hours wear on, you almost begin to doubt, has a most telling effect. It seems almost unreal to the workers

TWO CHILDREN BURN TO DEATH

Locked in, They Die, as Fire Sweeps Home.

TOLEDO, O., Feb. 7.—Bill, aged 4 and Isabelle, aged 2, children of Mrs. Bert Thone, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their home near Luckey, 10 miles from Toledo, today.

The children had been locked in the house while the mother went to the barn to do the chores.

Isabelle was tied in a high chair in the living room, adjoining the kitchen. A few moments after the mother had left the house little Billy called to Louis, another brother, aged 9, who was playing in the yard, that he had poured oil on the kitchen stove and that it was burning.

Within a few seconds an explosion followed and smoke and flames began to pour from the windows. The fire spread rapidly and by the time Mrs. Thone reached the house the entire lower floor was a mass of flames.

Mrs. Thone broke one window after another in an effort to reach the children, but was driven back by smoke and flames.

LONG ISLAND CITY ROWENITES STILL HOPE FOR END OF WORLD IN SIX DAYS

Robt. Reidt's Followers Spend Most of Night on Their Knees, Praying, But are Disappointed.

BY ROLAND KREBS.

EAST PATCHOGUE, N. Y., Feb. 7.—Within 35 Seventh Day Adventists' bosoms today there still burned a hope for the best—hope that the world would end on this or one of the following six days as forecast.

Although last midnight and the early hours of morning were disappointingly free of any of the miraculous manifestations predicted by Mrs. Margaret Rowen, of Los Angeles, "prophetess of God," her ardent followers here on Long Island were yet confident that the engulfing diseases, pestilence, storms and other things, she expects to blot out the earth would come.

Here in the home of Robert Reidt, "apostle of doom" and leader of New York's Rowenites—Reidt, his wife, their four children and a dozen of his most faithful followers spent most of the night on their knees, praying and chanting "O, Jesus, we are ready."

In Valley Streams another group of doom-woers waited and prayed. Still others were scattered about Long Island, the interior of the continent, and in the West.

Jibes Fail To Shake Faith.

About Reidt's home stood a crowd that at times was well above the hundred mark. It came to laugh but instead it had a little difficulty keeping its nerve combed down in place. The seriousness of the apostle's followers was a bit disconcerting. It made them figedty because their

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—New forward movements in the sugar, steel and motor stocks occupied the attention of the speculative list today while the oil and railroad stocks the backbone of the rally in the previous sessions of this week, received scant attention. Oil stocks were subjected to heavy profit-taking, and further uneasiness was caused by the summoning of oil leaders to Washington to explain the recent advances in gasoline prices. Meanwhile additional price adjustments were announced today by prominent oil companies.

Conspicuous strength in the motor stocks and the iron pipe manufacturers was the feature of the market in thef irst period. Mack trucks continued its spectacular upward course and sold at a new high at 141. General Motors also hung up a new high record at 78. United States Cast Iron Pipe went through all of its previous price records and sold at 196, a gain of 9 points. Universal Pipe ½ at a new top at 87⅞ on rumors that its stock is to be retired at par or better.

The Cuban stocks including Cuban Cane Sugar, Cuban American common and preferred and Punta Alegre pushed up to higher price levels, in some cases maksugar refining was also a strong spot ing new high records. Couzens Senatorial Committee Asked to Act in Tax Muddle

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The treasury department's "billion dollar" tax muddle, growing out of the sale of German marks by American banks was formally laid before the Couzens senatorial committee today for investigation.

Walter Holland, Washington attorney, who charged the banks with evading billions of dollars in taxes, demanded the investigation. He asked the committee to determine why the treasury department has failed to collect a 10 per cent currency tax levied against the circulation of all foreign money by the national banking act.

Treasury officials were in a fog of uncertainty today following the revelation that an opinion handed down by the solicitor general in 1893 held that the tax could be levied against the circulation of Canadian money. Holland contended the law would apply equally to German money. If the tax is ever applied, it would bankrupt every bank that has dealt in German marks.

"I neither ask you to condemn nor acquit, but I leave it to your conscience to decide whether justice should bow before pity."

months. He was appointed assistant at St. Malachi's church, Cleveland, remaining there one year, and then was transferred to Canton, where he was an assistant to Rev. P. J. McGuire, now deceased, who was pastor of St. John's church. He was stationed in Canton for eight years. He was appointed pastor of the St. Aloysius church here on Oct. 23, 1914, succeeding the late Father T. M. Smythe.

Erected Convent and Rectory.

Under his direction, a new convent for the Sisters of Mary was erected on a West Fifth street site, adjoining the St. Aloysius parochial school, while extensive improvements to the rectory, adjoining the church, have been under way for the last few months. He had also completed plans for remodeling the church.

Father Dunne is survived by his father, two brothers, Emmett, of Canton, and Joseph, of Salem, and three sisters, Mrs. Sophia Patton, Mrs. Ella Herman, and Mrs. Anna Shanabruck, all of Canton. His mother died about two years ago.

jibes could not shake the faith of Reidt in his prediction.

Midnight was the hour when, according to Reidt, the Saviour would make known his presence in the sky as a preliminary to gathering the 144,000 destined to be transported to heaven upon a cloud and wafting them away from a planet that would be at once a bog, a glacier, a huge pest house, and other things horrible.

Midnight came and went as it has done for thousands of years. There was to have been a tiny, foamy cloud frisking about the moon as the first sign of the big crack. This, if you believe the apostle's followers, was to have been followed by other clouds that would warp themselves up to the Reidt home, let the chosen get aboard and take them to heaven via Hollywood, San Diego and Jupiter.

Blames Movie Men.

Midnight found not a cloud in the heavens. The atmosphere was as clear as mountain water. Blinking stars had no vapors to pierce.

The moon was of the kind that turns love's heads. It was a beauteous night.

Five past midnight and no cloud.

At 2 Reidt gave it up, as a bad job. He toasted his wet socks before the stove in his bare home. He confessed having seen no Godly signs.

"The movie men spoiled it all," he grumbled, taking pictures and lighting up his place with flares and defiling it with "devilish smoke."

But, he brightened, doom has six more days to make good.

All Night Vigil in Prayer

CLEVELAND, Feb. 7.—After an all-night vigil spent in prayer, the little and of faithful Reformed Seventh Day Adventists, vainly waiting for the end of the world, dispersed to their homes today, their faith in prophets shattered, and grimly ready to take up workaday tasks after just getting a glimpse of the Elysian fields, the walls of Jasper and the golden paved streets of Paradise.

"I still believe in God, but I'm not certain about the prophets," one man declared. "The end of the world is coming soon, but I'll never believe another human being, who says he speaks with the tongue of prophecy."

John R. Kniper, one of the little handful of faithful here, realized his hopes. The "end of the world" came for him. Death came as he was sitting beside his wife, both heads bowed in prayer in the barren home.

Mrs. E. H. Frey, local prophetess, could not be found today.

For rescuing a cat by his teeth after he was lowered down a deep well, Harold White, a Headley, England, boy was recently awarded the medal of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

satisfied the probers, unless their stories can be made later to harmonize with known facts, Chester said today.

Student To Make Statement.

It became known today, also that investigation conducted by Chester into rumors that it was almost a common practice among some students at the university to take drugs as stimulants to "pep up" for examinations, had been inspired by university authorities. Chester said he had been advised by medical instructors at the university, that instead of proving a stimulant, as sought, strychnine in average doses, has the effect of deadening the faculties after the first burst of stimulation which follows immediately after taking the drug.

Nelson Rosenberg, son of Dr. Emmanuel Rosenberg, Cleveland, is to be permitted to make his statement today to the probers, permission for which he requested Friday. Rosenberg was to have been questioned further by the probers late Friday afternoon. When he appeared walking across the campus toward the pharmacy building where the inquiry is being conducted, after a long walk in the country to quiet his nerves, Rosenberg was faced by a battery of newspaper cameras. Unnerved he turned and fled across the campus and disappeared.

Canton Youth Recovering.

It was revealed today that still another angle had been pursued by Prosecutor Chester in his questioning of students when it was learned that some of those examined had been asked wether they were members of the Ku Klux Klan. All but one of the young men affected by the poison capsules were Catholics, and he was a Jew.

Ormund L. Weakly, Baltimore, Ohio, was identified late yesterday as the student who issued the poison capsules to G. D. Thompson, Canton. Thompson is now recovering in the university hospital. He identified Weakley at the hospital. It was shown that Weakley issued the capsules from the stock bottle and no blame is attached to him.

William E. Keyser, instructor, who accounted for the mysterious bottle, containing 300 grains of strychine, found hidden behind other bottles on the dispensary shelf, said today the bottle must have been stolen from a desk in the office where it was supposed to be kept.

Brushed By Hand of Death.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 7.—Probers who are investigating the deaths of two Ohio State University students at the hands of a poisoner will learn today how the moving finger of fate, ready to inscribe the name of a third student on the death list, trembled for a moment and passed on.

Fermant T. Brassseur, Lancaster, was brushed by the hand of death, but he lives today solely because Harold E. Gillig, Tiffin, chanced to suffer a convulsion just as Brasseur, watching at his bedside was ready to swallow one of the deadly strychnine capsules, which took two victims and narrowly missed accounting for three others. Dr. Wm. J. Gorey, who attended Gillig and brought him safely out of the effects of a dose of the poison, revealed the story today.

The innocent white capsule, which Brasseur had been ready to swallow, was found later and was turned over to college chemists. Analysis revealed that it contained nearly three gains of pure strychnine, enough to have sent Brasseur reeling to his death.

And today, students at the fraternity house still are marveling how the hand of fate hesitated and then passed over Brasseur.

House Challenge Over Postal Rates Accepted by Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The senate today accepted the challenge of the house over increased postal rates.

With indications pointing to acceptance by the house early next week of the higher rates approved by its postal committee, opponents of the measure in the senate announced they would propose sharp slashes when the bill comes over to the upper chamber for consideration.

The original senate postal rate and salary bill was refused by the house which brought out a measure of its own greatly increasing rates. The added revenue in the house bill over the senate was estimated at $30,000,000. The boosts in rates were added to absorb salary advances to workers.

NOME HOLDS OWN AGAINST PLAGUE

NOME, Alaska, Feb. 7.—This far northern isolated city is holding its own in a fight against diphtheria.

Work of marking the trail from Nenana to Nome for the aviators was started today by signal men.

stitutes a situation that cannot long be ignored by President Coolidge in his role as commander-in-chief of both services.

Mitchell's closest friends in the service declare that he has decided to "sacrifice" himself and his position in order to cause an official shake-up that will inevitably lead to a greater air service. They confidently expect that Mitchell will be relieved of his post as assistant chief of air service by March 2d, and demoted to a colonelcy, if, indeed, he is not courtmartialed on charges of insubordination and indiscretion.

The belief prevails that President Coolidge will have to make an example of the defiant brigadier—"for the general good of the service" to allow Mitchell to get away with such charge would, it was pointed out, probably incite others to break disciplinary bonds upon occasion, resulting generally in a situation that would be bad from a morale standpoint.

But while President Coolidge may have to be hard with Mitchell, it is known, nevertheless, that not only he but also some of his most trusted advisers have a good deal of sympathy with Mitchell.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—A thinly veiled rebuke for Brigadier General William Mitchell, assistant chief of the army air service, for his criticism of the war department's attitude toward aircraft development, was administered today by Secretary of War Weeks.

It came in the shape of a formal statement by Weeks, touching on the present controversy, in which he pointed out that the war department's policies since the war have been directed by the officers who won renown in the World war.

Emmons predicted the passage of the Brown gasoline tax bill when it comes up for a vote in the house next Tuesday. He also said the bill had a good chance of being enacted in the senate, but predicted the vote would be close.

Donahey May Veto Tax Bill.

"In both committee sessions and party caucus meetings I have fought with the minority for a reduction in automobile license fees," Emmons said. "I believe that the proposed gasoline tax should be accompanied by lower license rates, perhaps $3 per year, but there is little likelihood of this amendment being approved.

"While I am opposed to the present license rate with the gas tax, I don't want it to be understood that I am against the Brown bill. I reserve the right to vote for this bill, should I feel that Columbiana county would be penalized in the distribution of road funds because of my opposition."

Emmons asserted that State Highway Director L. A. Boulay is fighting for the passage of the gas tax measure as a means of providing additional funds for road construction and maintenance. Governor Donahey, it is believed, may veto the measure. Should the bill meet with executive disapproval, Emmons said, there is doubt if the needed majority could be mustered to override the veto.

Deadly Dull

at times—a sort of grim farce of nature in which they are human automats.

But the digging goes on and on.

A laggard here is replaced with a fresh recruit. Methods of operations are changed to expedite the work.

Through the night, the "life or death" shaft through which Collins is to be brought out was dropped nine feet to a depth of 25 feet almost the half way mark.

Beside it the diamond drill had cut out a cylinder 46 feet long. This showed nothing but miscellaneous rocks and sandstone, all easily removable material. It has not yet penetrated to the beautiful vaulted chamber which Collins told his brother he had discovered and which, he said lay just beyond the point where he was trapped by a seven-ton boulder.

Additional Troops Arrive

The estimate of 72 hours, originally given as the length of time which would be necessary to sink the shaft to the point where Collins lies, had not been altered today. This would bring the actual rescue of Collins to some time late Sunday afternoon.

Twenty-five additional troops and major Carl D. Norman, of Frankfort, arrived for duty today and extra guards were assigned to the Sand Cave region as each hour brought additional visitors.

Unrest among the local denizens watching from the cliff surrounding the cave had about been put down, those in command said today, by the order of Lieut. Gov. H. H. Denhardt which barred John Geralds and the neighborhood under penalty of arrest.

The order resulted from disparaging remarks alleged to have been made by Geralds regarding the efficiency of modern methods now being used in an attempt to rescue Collins, his "buddy." Geralds, it is said, openly declared to all who would listen that if permitted he could have brought Collins from his underground prison in two more trips down the long, narrow passage. This statement was made, it is said, despite the fact that after a trip into the passage in the early morning hours of Thursday, he declared rescue by that means was impossible and that he would not make another trip into the passage where it was a "10 to 1 shot man would never come out alive."

Rain Is Feared.

It was Geralds who directed the early rescue efforts and who said who should and who should not make trips into the passage. With the arrival of state forces, he was relegated to the background with a Collins' brother, Homer. They had had their chance of effecting a rescue, the state believed, and had failed.

Then Geralds and Homer Collins adjourned to the neighboring hillside and there while state forces worked below, talked to groups of cronies gathered about them and told how they would have brought Collins out and how the new methods would serve only to jar down tons of rock on the victim and crush out his life.

Many listened to this line of talk and a wave of unrest, of lack of sympathy with these strangers who had come in and taken possession of their native hills and caves was rising rapidly.

The climax came when Geralds slipped past the guards and tearing away a canvas sealing the inner entrance to the passage placed there to protect Collins from gas that might filter in, made his way along the tunnel to an undetermined point. He was ordered out and told to keep away from sand cave.

Homer Collins came under the same ban and immediately arrest of any other fomenters of trouble was threatened by Denhardt.

There was a hint of rain in the dawn today and workers were casting anxious eyes skyward. Thus far, ideal weather has prevailed, but rain would turn the pit where work is in progress into a bog and materially hamper operations.

Scientific Summary of Situation.

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 7.—"Nothing has been found thus far and there is nothing in the formation of the earth or rocks in this vicinity which, from a geological standpoint, that is unfavorable to the possible rescue of Floyd Collins."

This was the scientific summary of Collins' rescue chances given today by W. D. Funkhouser, geologist of the University of Kentucky, who was sent here on orders of the governor to lend aid and knowledge of this cavernous country which he has often explored, to the rescue office.

The diamond drill, Dr. Funkhouser said, has brought up only the most optimistic reports. The little cylinder of rock, stone and earth which it cuts on near the "life or death" shaft, thus far, has shown only sandstone which Funkhouser says can be "cut like cheese with the acid drills which are being used. No solid rock—the Bugabood of the present operation—has been encountered. At the 46-foot level solid sandstone was struck.

The main value of the drill, Funkhouser said, was to give warning of an underlying cavern into which workers in the shaft might suddenly be plunged should they without warning dig to close to its roof. Nothing like this has been found thus far.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Three experts of the Bureau of Mines sent by Secretary of Interior Work to Cave City, Ky., to assist in the rescue of Floyd Collins, were ordered today to return to their posts at Vincennes, Ind.

This action was taken following the receipt of a telegram from C. A. Herbert, one of the government experts at Cave City announcing that the rescue work was progressing in such a way that there was little the Bureau of Mines representatives could do.

Priscilla Dean in the Season's Greatest Thriller!

Priscilla Dean brings to the screen the figure of Cassie Cook in the Universal-Jewel film version of John Colton's play, "Drifting," which was a New York stage success, produced by Wm. A. Brady. "Drifting" opens at the American theatre Monday.

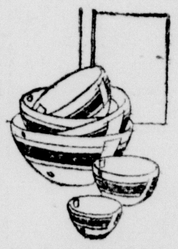

This role of Cassie Cook is emotional, dramatic to an extreme, like most of the roles Miss Dean plays. It requires all of the supern intensity for which she has become famous. The heroine is a leader in an opium ring operating at the very heart of the traffic—China—from the dens of Shanghai back to the very poppy fields. It is in a village nestling at the base of a hill in the poppy country that the most thrilling sequences of the story take place—and this is the China that Americans know nothing of. A complete Chinese village, several hundred Chinese extras and unusual scenic investiture make the the thrill elements convincing.

Among notable players in the supporting cast are Wallace Beery, Anna May Wong, the most successful oriental actress of the screen, Matt Moore, J. Farrell McDonald, William V. Mong, Frank Lanning and Mlle. Rose Dione. A. P. Younger and Tod Browning adapted the Colton play to the screen and Browning directed. William Fildew photographed.

HIGH PASSERS LOSE AT SALEM

Boys' Squad Bows to Quaker City Five by Score of 68-14.

Playing a brand of basketball below their customary form, the Wellsville high school basketball squad was defeated last night at Salem by the count of 68 to 14. Both ends of the double bill went to the Quakers. The Salem girls also won, the tally being 52 to 21.

The Orange and Black passers were unable to organize their efforts to any appreciable extent and Salem was playing a fast and determined game.

The Wellsville squad developed a fairly good defense around the guard posts, and at times played a good floor game but then shooting was wild and ineffective.

Shea, with one field goal and three fouls, was the Wellsville scoring star. In addition he played a good floor game. Houser, with 10 field goals, Sartick, with seven, and Coffee, with five, led the Salem point makers.

Substitutions and changes in lineup were plentiful on both sides.

Loretta Hogenmiller was the star of the local girls' team. She registered six field goals and three fouls, or 15 of the 21 points made by the team.

Doctor Advised Operation Friend Said Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound First

St. Paul, Minnesota.—"I was all run-down from overwork and worry, had no appetite, could not sleep at night, and looked like a corpse. I have six children (five boys and one girl) and did not get any strength after my last baby was born. I was getting worse and thinner every day. The doctor said I had to go to the Hospital but this I could not do on account of my family. So I went to a friend of mine and told her what the doctor had told me and she said, 'Now do as I tell you. Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as I have done. It helped me.' So I started taking the Vegetable Compound and I noticed after the first few bottles that I felt considerably better. After taking 9 or 10 bottles I got over my fainting spells. Everybody who sees me now notices the great improvement in my health. I am gaining in weight and strength and am feeling fine. Eat well and sleep good nights. Any woman can write to me and I will answer her letter." — Mrs. Mary Wilhelmy, 309 Duke Street, St. Paul, Minnesota.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1925.

Death of Rev. T. A. Dunne

Non-Catholics joined with Catholics today in mourning the death of Rev. T. Austin Dunne, pastor of the St. Aloysius church, and 20 years in the priesthood, who succumbed in the Mercy hospital, Canton, Friday evening, following a long illness.

Although his condition had been critical for several weeks, his demise came as a shock to his parishioners as well as hundreds of other friends in East Liverpool, where he had held a pastorate for many years.

On all sides and by all classes, tribute was paid his memory today as arrangements were made for his funeral, which will be held from St. Aloysius church Tuesday morning. He had endeared himself not only to people of his faith, but to many others outside the Catholic church by his devotion to duty, his humility and his affability.

His death is a great loss to the community.

"Made in U. S. A. Week"

East Liverpool is one of the cities cooperating in observance of U. S. A. Week—a week of appreciation of every article of merchandise made in the United States.

Of especial importance here because we are vitally interested in the prosperity of the pottery industry is the movement which is sponsored by the National Retail Dry Goods Association. Exhibits of American pottery products are to be displayed by member stores as a means of urging purchase of made-at-home goods.

The chief purpose of the campaign is to emphasize the fact that the American people are partners in the prosperity of their industries. If money expended is kept circulating in the United States, it will be turned back into the pockets of American craftsmen. The best in American table ware and other ceramic merchandise as well as fabrics and testiles is here for your choosing.

Keep the American factories busy eight hours of every working day, and fill the pockets of American workmen with a living wage. Let's make "Made in U. S. A. Week" one of the biggest and most prosperous in the history of East Liverpool.

Germs and Caves

There have been two great, true, "human interest stories" running in the newspapers lately. Day after day, one or the other of them has "led the paper." In the opinion of editors and readers, each was, for the time being, the most important news the world had to offer.

One story told of the rush, with dog sleds, over hundreds of miles of Alaskan ice, to carry diphtheria serum to the village of Nome, Alaska. The other told of the struggle to save the life of a cave-explorer in Kentucky, imprisoned by a fallen boulder in a small underground passage.

In each case, the news judgment of the editors was doubtless right and the response of the reading public was human and natural. The appeal of those sick children in Nome, and of the terrible effort made to reach and save them, touched every sympathetic heart and roused instinctive admiration for heroic deeds. What a movie that would have made! At Cave City there was equal heroism on the part of the rescuers, toiling until exhausted in the close darkness of what threatened to be a living grave, and equal pity for the victim.

And yet—there were but a few dozen cases of diphtheria at Nome, and only half a dozen children had died. There are always tens of thousands of American children grievously sick from avoidable disease, and hundreds of thousands engaged in killing toil, and hardly anybody getting excited about it. Every year there are scores of men killed unnecessarily in the stiffling darkness of mines, and nearly everybody else takes it just as a matter of course.

If we only had imagination enough to dramatize every-day dangers by wholesale instead of dramatizing an occasional, isolated individual danger, it wouldn't take long to clean up the world's plagues and plague-spots and preventable perils.

Just because a person is always talking is no sign he will develop into a fluent speaker.—Steubenville (O.) Gazette.

Haskin Letter

HOW THE VOTERS TURNED OUT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Leaders of the drive that was made to get the largest possible percentage of eligible voters to the polls last November are more encouraged now that they were early in December when the first unofficial returns and estimates of the total vote were made public. At that time it appeared that in spite of a nation-wide, non-partisan campaign in which a score of organizations participated it would be found that proportionately a smaller number of voters had participated in the 1924 presidential contest than in that of 1920, and there was general disappointment over the showing.

Now, however, the complete official returns have been compiled and it is seen that the 1924 total shows an increase over that of 1920.

The increase is small, it is true, but it is an increase. When Harding and Cox staged their memorable struggle only 49.1 per cent of the eligibles, or 26,646,273 out of a total of 54,165,907, went to the polls. At the recent election the total vote was 29,138,935 out of a possible total of 56,941,584, or 51.2 per cent. Thus there was an increase of 2.1 per cent in the light of the increased population, while there was a percentage increase of 4.2 over the number of the voters who performed their duty as citizens in 1920.

This, as the National Association of Manufacturers summarizes it, safely took the election out of the class of minority representation and placed it in the category of majority representation in national government.

The showing is not enthusing when comparison is made with the percentage of the possible vote polled regularly in other countries, such as England, France and Germany, or when it is reflected that there were 2,795,677 more eligibles in 1924 than were in 1920 and the total vote cast was increased by but 2,492,662. The stay-at-homes of four years ago do not seem to have been brought out in any appreciable numbers, for all the work that was done on them. One organization alone distributed 25,000,000 stickers, folders and window cards urging voters to "Vote as you please—but vote!" and that represents only part of the effort and money invested in the drive. As an advertising proposition the campaign would not be rated a success. However, progress was made, and those interested in the movement say that that fact will insure its being carried on in 1928.

WYOMING HEADS THE LIST

Wyoming showed the greatest percentage increase—37.7—and wins the miniature overstuffed ballot box, or whatever prize may be deemed most appropriate. In 1920 51.4 per cent of that state's eligibles went to the polls, while last November 70.8 per cent performed. The gross gain is 19.4 per cent, as compared to population, but the percentage increase is almost twice that.

Mississippi comes second with a percentage increase of 36.1, Texas third with 27 and California fourth with 26.1. However, it is to be noted that Mississippi and Texas polled but 9.4 and 21.8 per cent, respectively, of their eligibles in 1920, and their figures for 1924—12.8 and 27.7 are not impressive.

In all 28 states showed percentage increases in 1924, although three of them were less than 1 per cent, while the other 20 states showed percentage decreases ranging from 35.8 for Florida down to .9 per cent for Idaho. South Carolina has the distinction, if such it may be considered, of having polled the smallest fraction of her possible vote—6.3 per cent, while Georgia ranked second in this respect with 11.3 per cent, and Mississippi third with 12.8 per cent.

The 20 states that performed more poorly in 1924 than in 1920 are Florida, Alabama, Tennessee, Arkansas, South Carolina, Maryland, North Carolina, Montana, Kentucky, Delaware, North Dakota, Virginia, Ohio, Louisiana, Maine, Arizona, Indiana, Missouri, Nevada and Idaho.

All parts of the country are represented in this list, so that it cannot be said that indifference to citizenship obligations is peculiar in any one section, although it is to be noted that the worst offenders are in the south. Strangely enough the states that made the very best records four years ago are included among those that slumped at the recent election.

Delaware topped the honor roll in 1920 with a percentage of 75.4, but dropped to 69.4 in 1924. Indiana was second in the Harding election with 74.1 per cent, dropping to 71.7 per cent when Coolidge swept the country, and Kentucky was third four years ago with 71.9 per cent as compared with 62.4 per cent for 1924.

STATE WITH THE BEST RECORD

It is an interesting feature of the vote analysis that the state which furnished the Democratic candidate for president in the recent campaign has the best voting record. West Virginia got 74.8 per cent of her possible voters to the polls last November, Indiana and Rhode Island being tied for second honors with 71.7 per cent, Utah ranking third with 71 per cent and Wyoming fourth with 70.8 per cent.

And not only was West Virginia out in front of her sister states at the recent contest, but her average performance of 37.25 per cent for the last two elections is the best of all. Indiana's average of 72.9 per cent entitles her to second honors, while Delaware is third with an average of 72.4.

This is considered by many of those interested as the best test of voting performance—the maintaining of an average that is so far in advance of the average for the country as a whole in the two elections, which was but a fraction over 50 per cent. These observers say that the percentage increase shown by a state is not important if its average is less than that for all the states. Such was the case with Mississippi and with Texas, both of which states were far below the 1920 average and were still far under the 1924 mark, although their percentage increases rank them second and third among all the states.

California made a conspicuous showing with a percentage increase of 26.1, but in 1920 she was below the national average with 48.9 per cent and her performance in 1924, 61.7 per cent, brings her average barely above that of the country as a whole for the two elections.

Thirty-two states exceeded the national average of 51.2 at the recent election. West Virginia, Indiana, Rhode Island, Utah and Wyoming made records of 70 per cent or better. North Dakota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Jersey, Kansas, Iowa, New Hampshire and Delaware were all better than 65 per cent, although under 70 mark.

Idaho, Nevada, Kentucky, New Mexico, Minnesota, New York, South Dakota, Colorado and California were the states that got out percentages of their possible votes ranging between 60 and 65.

Oregon, Nebraska, Vermon, Wisconsin, Massachusetts, Connecticut Washington, Montana, Michigan and Ohio all exceeded the national average of 51.2 per cent, but did not attain the 60 mark.

In the vote compilation upon which this analysis is based account is taken not only of the ballots cast for the three leading candidates for president—Coolidge, Davis and La Follette—but of all votes cast for all presidential tickets. In one or two states as many as nine candidates for the presidency were voted for, although it would be worse than a crossword puzzle to figure out who some of them were.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By CHARLES A. SMITH

LONDON, Feb. 7.—An international radio convention, attended by experts from all over the world, will in probability be held in Europe toward the latter part of the present year.

The convention, primarily, will be held to attempt to straighten out existing tangles in radio broadcasting and reception, which include interstation interference, due to the present method of indiscriminately giving stations wave-lengths without consulting other stations in the immediate vicinity, and the problems of marine broadcasting.

Radio experts on this side express the hope that American radio engineers and experts will be able to attend, for it is realized that the United States can teach European radio engineers a great deal about these matters.

The complete opposite of radio—the magic lantern—has been brought in to aid its younger brother. In future, when playlets are being broadcast from English radio studios, there will be no more rustlings of pages of manuscript being turned over in the midst of an impassioned love scene. All the players will read their lines from a screen at the end of a studio, the text being projected from a magic lantern.

Reports from Germany indicate that that country is rapidly forging ahead in radio broadcasting, and that more and more stations are being opened.

Radio tests carried out in the middle of the Atlantic ocean indicate that American stations are much stronger and are more regularly picked up than British and continental stations.

Wireless operators from many ships state that, while they have little or no difficultiy in listening in to the American stations, it is very rarely that a British station is successfully heard.

It is proposed that this year's British empire exhibition shall have a complete radio section.

"Neither fatness nor slimness, in many people, is related to food, but is a constitution condition."

This is the conclusion reached by three European medicos—Drs. Strouse, Wye and Wang, who have been investigating why some people who eat little are fat, while others who eat a great deal are lean.

In a report of their investigations to the archives of international medicine, they state that they found that certain cases of obesity are undoubtedly due either to over-feeding or sedentary hibits, or a combination of both; but that, in others, there is neither excessive food consumption nor lessened expediture of energy.

They found that certain foods produced different results in different people—meaning that, whereas a certain starchy food would make one person fat, it would make another thin.

Feathers are the latest accessory to the English fashionable woman's wardrobe.

Feathered coats and cloaks and even feathered boots and feathered wraps, for evening wear, are the most striking features of the spring fashions.

The feathered coats are a combination of thick fur and feathers intermixed, while the boots are of the Russian style, with feather tops. Wraps are composed of ostrich feathers, closely interlaced, and giving a gossamer effect.

DINNER STORIES

The mayor of Squeedunk, who had taken it upon himself to address the seminary for girls, was also owner of the principal drygoods establishment of the town. At the conclusion of the address he gave the girls a little lecture on the importance of Squeedunk in the world's history and the necessity of town spirit.

"Before I go," he concluded, "has anyone a question to ask?"

Slowly and timidly one little girl raised her hand.

"What is the question, Sally? Don't be afraid. Speak out!"

The little girl fidgeted in her seat. Finally, in a desperate outburst, she put the question: "Mr. Mayor, please how much are those yellow gloves for girls you have in your window?"

He wanted a divorce, and had gone to a lawyer whose experience in the court rooms had done nothing to lessen his cynicism.

"I want to find out if I have grounds for divorce," he told the attorney.

"Are you married?"

"Of course I am."

"You have."

A wedding party was disturbed by the crying of a baby belonging to one of the women guests. One of the young ladies present remarked to the bridesmaid, "What a nuisance babies are at a wedding!"

"I should say so," returned the latter, and added, without very full consideration, "When I send out the invitations to my wedding I shall have printed in the corner, 'No babies expected.'"

An Englishman was teaching a Scottish business friend how to play golf. On the first tee he poured out a copious stream of instructions and wound up with the fine old maxim:

"But, remember, Sandy, whatever you do, keep your eye on the ball."

"I will that," said Sandy, who had just paid half a crown for it, "I dinna trust that caddie o' mine at all."

Mr. Jones purchased a fine Holstein cow, of which all the family were proud.

One day a visitor said to Mary, the three-year-old member of the household: "I suppose you have all the nice creamy milk you can drink now?"

"Yes," replied Marjorie, "since we've got our old steam cow."

A local real estate man tells this one. He was taking dinner with a doctor's family one evening when the phone rang. The doctor answered. Turning to his wife, he called in alarm: "Quick, get me my satchel. A man in a dying voice says he cannot live without me."

"Wait," said the wife, who picked up the receiver. "That call is for Edith."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Aside from Brisbane, there are few editors of New York newspapers known to the public. In fact, a group of active newspapermen recently attempted to write down the name of every editor in town. Not one could complete the entire list.

New York journals are now known, not by the editors, but by the publishers. When Frank I. Cobb, of the World died, the wife of Irwin Cobb, the humorist, received hundreds of letters of sympathy. They had never heard of the great editor of the World.

In the old days readers did not quote their papers as much as they did the editor. They would say "Bennett says today" or "Dana says today." The three names that stand out in the era of personal journalism were Greeley, Bennett and Dana.

The most picturesque of all in popular fancy was Bennett. Edward P. Mitchell in his memoirs says: "The younger Bennett, a tall youth, was seen often and admired reverently as the beau ideal of the man of the world and all around dare devil."

The public warmed to his nonchalance in exciting matters. Once when he was mixed up in a fight the Herald carried a first page story reading: "Bennett Thrashed Again!" Bennett did not care what his readers thought of him, but what they thought of the Herald counted.

Dana was described as well set physically, his generous brown beard and mustache tinged with gray. His not over-abundant locks were crowned with a cylindrical skull cap of embroidered silk—not a smoking cap, for he never smoked.

Greeley is described as having a round baby face with a fringe of whitish beard. He loved to ride horseback and people on Fifth avenue would see him jogging along. He wore no straps to his trousers and the legs of them would work their way up far above the knees.

New York has the longest and shortest ride in the world for a nickel. One may ride over 14 miles of subway tracks for a nickel. That is the longest. The shortest is the ferry trip to Plum Beach from the end of Emmons avenue, Sheepshead Bay. Plum Beach is a squatter's community with 1,500 inhabitants. The dinky little boat is called the Tonnerville Ferry.

Plum Beach is an interesting community of shacks that have crudely printed names such as the Chimney, The Manor House and The Oaks. It is government land. There are no streets, no lights, no swers or police.

The importance of New York as a movie center is illustrated by the fact that within the past six months more than 1,500 professional "extras" have come here from Hollywood, and a prominent extra employment extra declares that all have found steady employment. There is one old extra who has been appearing in the background for nine years. He says that he has never seen more than his forehead on the screen.

A bright little newsie with a heavy stock of midnight extras sold them like hot pancakes one night recently. The leading story concerned an East Side silk hat robber who was captured by the police. The lad stood at the entrance of a dancing academy on Broadway and yelled "Extra! Sheik With a Monocle Captured!" and every young girl leaving the place bought an edition.

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

GOLD AND JAPAN'S YEN

Japan is shipping gold to the United States to advance the price of the yen, now 25 per cent below par. The Japanese are able, excelling in industry, inventiveness, adaptation, capacity for hard work. Lack of gold would not destroy international confidence in the yen.

But such lack of confidence might come from the activity of Japan's flying machine factories.

A nation turning out 500 fighting flying machines a month has some ambitious plan in mind.

Failure to realize the plan would be disastrous to the yen, and some other things in Japan.

The western mind does not understand Japanese thought or prejudice. This was illustrated in Tokio recently, when an art loan exhibit included Rodin's statue. "The Kiss." The police interfered, not because the figures in the statue is naked, for nudity is not objectionable in Japan, where it has long been customary for men and women completely naked to bathe in tubs on the sidewalks.

The Japanese do not kiss and consider that a very objectionable custom.

The police compromised finnally by putting a screen around the statue, permitting only those of sufficient age and education to look at it.

In this country we should put a screen around the lady taking her bath in a little tub on the sidewalk, and let the Rodin statue stand exposed in any public park.

BUSINESS RULES, OF COURSE

Norman Hapgood, writing from Washington, says "Business now rules the nation." Why, certainly. This is a business nation; our powerful interests are business interests. Every country is ruled by its principal "interests."

Religion rules Tibet through the Grand Llama, and the tens of thousands of Tibetan monks.

Royalty, nobility and clergy ruled France in old days, before the revolution. Now the bourgeoisie—French name for business—rules France.

France has learned some hard lessons, and the the bourgeoise calls in militarism, as a big brother, to help watch and ward while business goes on. That's simply imitating the western American bank, where you may see standing quietly in a corner of the lobby a man with a repeating rifle, waiting for any hold-up crowd.

In a grocery you find a grocer in command, in a hardware shop it's a hardware man. In a village of beavers it is some beaver that rules.

In this coountry of business, of course, business rules.

The only trouble is that this country may learn from Japan or some other country a lesson more severe than any the French have ever learned. After American business gets that lesson it will know more than it does now, and will probably have brains enough to protect itself.

American business is slow to protect itself, because protection costs money. The money must be raised by taxation. Big business that runs this country does not like taxation. It may like still less what will probably happen.

QUEER "MA" FERGUSON

Mrs. Ferguson, governor of the great state of Texas, justifies the opinion of some men that women in office "are queer."

Mrs. Ferguson wants to stimulate cotton production in Texas.

Masculine governors have had the same idea. Mrs. Ferguson offers prizes for the best five-acre plot of cotton grown in any convict camp. She selects the convict camp because it can be controlled and accurate returns obtained.

The "queerness" of the lady lies in this. She offers cash rewards for superior cotton production, and will pay the rewards out of her own salary. Many men in office will testify that such conduct is extremely queer and sets a bad precedent.

It is suggested that income tax payers be allowed to deduct from taxable income what they have to pay doctors.

If a man makes his income by using machinery he is allowed to deduct from income whatever he has to spend to keep the machinery in order.

The machinery used by a lawyer, merchant or mechanic is his own body and brain. If he has to spend money to keep that machinery in order and fit to earn revenue, of course, he should be allowed to charge that to "repairs" and deduct it from income tax. And, also, he should be allowed to deduct for each year of wear and tear a fair charge for depletion.

A coal mine owner charges off "depletion," because his mine is worth less each year.

What about the man whose mine is his brain, because his mine is worth less each year.

CHESTER TEAMS WIN TWO GAMES

High Squads Trim Toronto Passers in Exciting Floor Contests.

Chester high school basketball teams scored a double victory over the Toronto squads last evenings in games played on the Rock Springs park floor. The boys won out by a score of 23 to 18, while the girls had easier sailing winning by a margin of 16 to 7.

The boys' game was one of the fastest and most exciting witnessed on the local floor this season and was in doubt until the closing period of play when Chester showed a burst of speed and scored the points necessary for victory. The lead switched from time to time during the contest and the large crowd present was kept on the anxious seat until the finish.

Chester was the first to score when Pinney tossed a goal from the foul line. Kunzler tallied for Toronto with a field goal. He was fouled shooting and made another point from the free line. Chester tied up the score when Bennett shot a double decker from the center of the floor. Scott counted for the visitors on a free throw. Campbell scored for Chester from the field and the locals went further in the lead on points from the free line made by Pinney and Myers The visitors again went into the lead on field goals by Kunzler and Hinkle. The first quarter ended with Toronto leading, score 8 to 7.

Toronto increased its lead at the start of the second quarter when Hinkle and Kunzler scored two markers on free tosses, and the latter counting from the field. Myers cut down the margin by a field goal. The game was knotted again when Myers and Cox scored points from the foul line. Burns scored from the center of the field giving the visitors the edge and when the whistle sounded the end of the half, the visitors were out in front with a two-point lead, score 12 to 11.

Bennett scored a field goal to open the third quarter deadlocking the contest. Burns scored a field goal for Toronto but Campbell's shot rang true and the locals again tied the score. Little more scoring was done in this quarter and when the period was over the teams were battling on even terms, score 15-15.

Chester went out and won the game in the final quarter. Bennett and Myers scored from the field while Burns kept the visitors in the running with a foal. The game was sewed up for Chester when Campbell came to the front with a field toss. Hinkle scored the final points for his team by scoring a field goal.

Credit for victory goes to the entire Chester squad as each member played good basketball. Campbell and Bennett were the scoring stars while the all around playing of Tuttle stood out prominent. Kunzler, Burns and Hinkle were the star performers for Toronto.

Chester girls had little trouble in winning as they led from the start to finish. The score at the end of the first quarter was 4 to 2. This was boosted in the second quarter while the game was clinched in the third quarter when the local girls run points in rapid succession. Chester girls played a strong defensive game allowing the visitors but one goal from the field. Miss Paisley was the high scorer for Chester. Misses Gibson, Burns and E. Tarr played well for Toronto.

BIDS SOUGHT ON NEW CHURCH

Sacred Heart Congregation Plans Erection of Structure.

Work on the erection of the new Sacred Heart Catholic church will be started in the near future, according to an announcement made today by Rev. W. J. Sauer, rector of the church.

Plans for the new structure were drawn seven years ago by Edmund Lang, an architect of Pittsburgh, Pa. Bids were received at that time but it was found that the price of construction was too high for the then existing parish. In the meantime the membership increased and it was considered advisable to make another attempt.

Father Sauer called a meeting of the church committee recently which was attended by E. V. Wehner, chairman; Chal Baxter, secretary-treasurer; Frank Switzer, William Hocking, John Kenney, Lester Wehner and Thomas Kurish. Following a brief discussion, an unanimous vote was cast to erect a new church.

Architect Lang is now residing in California and Albert Mader of Neptune avenue was chosen to execute the plans and specifications and will superintend the construction of the church. Bids for the work will be received by Mr. Mader.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, at bed time.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

Star Cast Supports Betty Compson in Picture, 'The Female'

Betty Compson is supported by a unique cast in "The Female," her new Paramount starring picture directed by Sam Wood. The story is an adaptation of Cynthia Stockley's "Dalla, the Lion Cub." All of the scenes are laid in South Africa.

Heading the strong supporting cast are Warner Baxter and Noah Beery, Dorothy Cumming, Helen Butler, Pauline French, Edgar Norton and Florence Wix also have important parts.

There are other featured players who get no credit in the advertising, but they don't care. They are an assortment of lions, fourteen in number, ranging in sizes from tiny cubs to grown ups. All the zoos in Southern California were scoured by Director Wood and his assistants to find African lions of just the right size and temperament.

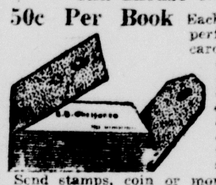

"The Female," which will be shown Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Ceramic theatre, is a story of a beautiful young Boer girl who knows no life outside the African veldt. She meets and falls in love with a handsome young Englishman far above her station in life. Men before always flocked to her, but this one is different. He is strangely cold and ignores her, and his people, the "Englishers," insult Dalla (Miss Compson). The rest of the picture is a gripping and unusually entertaining story of the carrying out of this girl's plans for revenge—against all the ultra-smart of the English colony in general. The picture closes with her completely winning over the young Englishman. Warner Baxter has the leading man's role in the production. Noah Beery plays the part of Dalla's guardian. Others in the supporting cast include Dorothy Cumming, Freeman Wood and Helen Butler.

Belgrade's streets are to be paved.

HOME TRAINING

Contentment When Home is Realized.

The owner of a small fruit farm thought there were so many others much more favorably situated that he decided to sell his home and purchase elsewhere an ideal home.

He called in a real estate man and asked that he effect a sale immediately. It was agreed that a newspaper advertisement giving a full description would be advisable.

After an examination of the property, a complete description of the home was written in most glowing terms and it was handed to the client for his approval.

"I wish you would read that to me," said the owner, closing his eyes and leaning back in his chair contentedly.

After the second reading, he was silent for a few moments, and then said thoughtfully: "I don't think I'll sell. I've been looking for a place like that all my life, but until you read that description I did not know I had it. No, I won't sell now."

EIGHT DIVORCE RULINGS MADE

Judge Moore Holds Busy Session; One Case Held Over.

Eight divorces were granted by Judge James G. Moore here yesterday.

One case, which was given a partial hearing, has been continued and will have a final hearing Feb. 20.

Pauline Hawkins has been granted a divorce from her husband, Charles Hawkins, on her charge of gross neglect of duty. The plaintiff has been restored to her maiden name, that of Pauline Forbes. The original petition was filed by Attorney K. L. Coburn of Salem.

Claiming that his wife has been absent for three years or more, a divorce was granted to Charles L. Sharp against his wife, Rhoda B. Sharp. The action was filed for the plaintiff by Lones, Hill & Davidson of East Liverpool Dec. 5, last.

Alice McCommas, through her counsel, George Y. Travis of East Liverpool, has been granted a decree of divorce from her husband, Edward McCommas. She sought also alimony and custody of her children, both points being obtained. The court in this case has also ordered that the premises, subject to the mortgage thereon is decreed to Mrs. McCommas as and for her alimony, and McCommas is ordered to convey the title within 10 days or the decree of the court stands as and for such conveyance.

Gross neglect of duty was given as the cause for the filing of a cross petition in divorce in behalf of Arthur O. Short against Lillian May Short. The original petition was filed by Metzgar & McCarty of Salem in behalf of Short, but the court dismissed the original petition and the decree of divorce was granted the defendant on her cross petition. She was also restored to her maiden name Lillian May Banner. Alimony and property division has been agreed upon in this case.

On the grounds of extreme cruelty, Venia Gingher has been granted a decree of divorce from her husband, Joseph A. Gingher. The action was filed Dec. 4 last by Attorney E. P. Speidel of Alliance. The plaintiff has been restored to her maiden name, Venia Cook, and her husband has been divested of all dower or other rights in the property of the plaintiff.

Through her counsel, Cochran & Crawford of East Liverpool, Elizabeth Bailey has been granted a divorce from her husband, Floy Bailey, on the grounds of extreme cruelty. The custody of two children has been awarded the plaintiff, and the defendant has been ordered to pay his wife for the support of the children $10 on the 15th and 1st of each month, beginning Feb. 15. This case has been ordered certified to Judge Lodge Riddle in juvenile court.

Cochran & Crawford represented Letha M. Martin in her action for divorce against her husband, Harry A. Martin, which was filed August 19, 1924. On motion of the plaintiff this action has been dismissed from the record.

JURORS SUMMONED FOR NEXT WEEK

On account of the heavy volume of court work assigned for next week, a new panel of 20 jurors has been drawn from the wheel, and summons have been served by Sheriff George Wright.

The jurors drawn to report at 9 o'clock next Monday morning are: Margaret Campbell, Edwin Hart and Thomas Thomas, Salineville.

The list shows that not a juror has been drawn who resides in the Salem district.

SALEM TO DEFEND DAMAGE ACTIONS

Defense will be set up by City Solicitor L. B. Harris of Salem in two damage actions, recently filed against the city of Salem.

In the case of Hattie Rhodes, which was filed October 1 last against the municipality, and in which $10,075 damages was claimed as a result of the plaintiff being injured by falling on an icy street, the court has granted the defendant permission to answer immediately.

A similar order has been made in the case of Eliza E. Cooley, who seeks $2,000 damages from the city of Salem because of alleged defective drainage system.

Leave To File.

In the case of the Fruest Freedman company against the Pascola Coal company, which is an appeal from a court of the justice of the peace, and for goods sold and delivered, the court has granted leave to the plaintiff to file an amended petition immediately.

Leave has been granted the defendant until Feb. 25 to file an answer in the case of the State of Ohio on Relation of Attorney General C. C. Crabbe, against A. U. Richardson and others, which is a petition to recover a claim of $424.

Bids for Surfacing Roadway Will be Opened Here Monday

Bids for the surfacing of the approximate six and one-half miles of the East Rochester-North Georgetown road in West township will be opened at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon by the county commissioners. Bidders will be required to deposit with their bids a certified check for five per cent of the amount of their bid.

The estimated cost of this road has been placed by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk at $176,676.01 for a road 14 feet wide and for a concrete top with a gravel course aggregate.

For a concrete top and using slag as an aggregate, the estimate of the county surveyor has been placed at $171,253.21.

For a concrete top, and using limestone as a course aggregate, the estimate has been placed at $183,25.65.

For a bituminous macadam road 14 feet wide, the estimate has been placed at $156,438.34.

Letting of contracts for the surfacing of this road will bring to an end a road "fight" that has continued in West township for many years. The road has been graded for three years, and has been approved by the State Highway Department.

TWO SUITS FILED HERE FOR DIVORCE

Claiming that her husband, Samuel Vogelhuber, of 42 Railroad street, Salem, enticed her into the barn on their property last Sunday for the purpose of doctoring a sick chicken, and then choking her and pounding her with a piece of a chair, Katharine Vogelhuber, through her attorney, K. L. Coburn, has filed a petition in common pleas court for a divorce from her husband.

A restraining order has been issued by the court against Vogelhuber from disposing of his property and $700 which his wife has declared he has secreted in their home, and he also was ordered to pay his wife $35 within 10 days and also $20 on the 15th and 1st of each month until further order of court.

Through her counsel, James R. Davis of East Liverpool, Fannie Weekly has filed an action for divorce against her husband, Alvie Weekly, whom she married Oct. 14, 1912. Extreme cruelty is charged as grounds for a divorce.

PETTY THIEVES OPERATING HERE

Robbing of clothing of local and visiting basketball players while games are in progress has been common of late, but so far no arrests have been made. For several Thursday evenings in succession, during the progress of games in Lisbon, clothing has been robbed of cash, $19 having been taken from the clothing of players while a game was being played Thursday night.

Police are convinced that the robbing is being done by local talent and that the same thieves who rob the basketball players are the same who have been committing other petty robberies in Lisbon during the last few months.

What the Sunday School Is Studying

The Greatest Prayer in the Bible, Christ's Intercessory Prayer. International Lesson for February 8. —John 17:1-13.

BY JAMES H. SNOWDEN, D. D.

Jesus closed the meeting in the upper chamber with prayer. It is the greatest prayer in the Bible, majestic and solemn as a grand strain of music, in which he poured forth his desires for his disciples through all time. In the "Lord's Prayer" he taught us how to pray, but in this prayer he prays himself, and the two prayers are closely parallel. In the Lord's Prayer he taught us to pray, with a single exception, for spiritual goods, and in this prayer he himself asks for essentially the same blessings. The human soul is at its highest and best in sincere prayer, and here the Son of God stands upon the summit of his spiritual aspiration and greatness.

The Glory of the Son.

What was his first thought and petition? "Father, glory thy Son, that the Son may glorify three." Glory is one of the great words in the vocabulary of human speech and ambition and history. It has been a star that lured many men along the patch and up the heights of their ambition and it has determined national policies and fought wars and slain empires and shaped the centuries. What is this glittering dazzling thing? To many if not most men it means worldly pride and power and distinction, or wealth and fashion and pleasure. Such glory of God and of the Son is not physical although all created things were made by the Son and the very splendor of the heavens came out of him and is but a gleam of his glory. The higest and truest glory of Christ is his moral and spiritual excellence, the purity and beauty and splendor of his character, which is the highest as the praise of all the ages. Yet his prayer was not that his glory might be revealed for his own sake but that it might be reflected back upon the Father. The highest glory never terminates upon the self, after the manner of worldly glory, but is altruistic in its object and spirit, and the supreme object of praise is God himself.

Manifested Through Truth and Work.

Glory is an inner excellence that must be brought out and reavealed in its nature. The glory of the sun is manifested in its light which unbinds the imprisoned splendor of its internal fires and spreads it out in many colored beauty in cloud and rainbow, forest and garden, and in every flower and leaf. So the glory of the Father and the Son must be manifested and this is done through the truth and work of Christ. The love of Christ is redemption, brings out the inner nature and glory of God as grace and love going out in self-sacrifice to all the children of men. The glory of our human nature is manifested most fully and splendidly in the self-sacrifice men make for one another and the same spirit in Christ brings out the nature of God and most gloriously manifests it to the world. All the Christian grace and service, character and conduct in the world show us the nature and spirit of Christ as all the beauty of the earth shows us what is hidden in the fiery heart of the sun.

His Going Out of the World.

The thought pressing on the mind and heart of Jesus all through his prayer was the nearness of the end, the exodus that was just about to take him out of the world and usher him into the next room in his Father's many-mansioned house. He prays for his disciples especially, and then announces, "And now I am no more in the world," "and now I come to thee." It is easy for us to think that it would have been better for Jesus to have remained permanently in the world and carry on his supernatural work in person, but this idea rests upon a material basis. Not by such might or power can his kingdom come, but only through the invisible quiet work of his Spirit poured out upon all flesh and working universally in the world. The advantages of such spiritual influence compared with his local bodily work are overwhelming, and it was just as necessary that Jesus should go out of the world as that he should come in. His local presence would be attended with sensational excitement that would distract the world, but his spiritual presence now works universally and intimately even as the universal silent sunshine quickens all nature and makes the earth blossom and bear fruit.

The Unity of Believers.

Another thought that was dear to the heart of the Master as he was about to leave his disciples was that they might be kept in unity. Again and again he prays that "they all may be one." But has not this petition gone astray and been forgotten in our divided Christianity split into a hundred fragments often at war with one another? This is one of the most wasteful and painful aspects of our common Christianity and is the greatest weakness and scandal of the Christian church. We are not to suppose, however, that this unity for which Christ prayed is the political unity of the world-wide church organization. Such unity would be external and mechanical, whereas the true entity of Christianity is the inner unity of heart and spirit, the same kind of unity that binds Father and Son together in fellowship. This kind of unity is now growing in the Christian world and we can all cherish and practice it in our churches, and if we were to love one another in sincerity the waste and scandal of Christian disunity and strife would cease and we would fulfill the Master's prayer that "they all may be one."

LIVE QUESTIONS FOR DISCUSSION

1. Why did Jesus pray this prayer in the hearing of his disciples? What was the ultimate object of the prayer? What petition in the Lord's Prayer is represented in this prayer?
2. How can we manifest the glory of Christ?
3. Why should we pray for one another?
4. What can we do to promote Christian unity?
5. What does Jesus emphasize as most effective in winning the world to believe?

CLERICUS: Are there some who will go through life remembering you on your knees? Some who in their hours of greatest weakness and anguish, shall have been strengthened for victory by the faithfulness of your prayers? "I pray for them which thou hast given me," Jesus said. If we do not pray for our own—who will? pray, name by name, for our Bible classes, if we do not? Who will pray for the pastor in his spiritual ups and downs—till a "coal off the altar" burns his poor, longing, very human lips into power with God and men—who will if we don't? Who will do the interceding for a hungry, willful, spiritually uninstructed generation—if we don't? Hard? There is no harder, finer, rarer, more joyful Christian effort.

Lesson Prayer

O blessed Master, as thou didst pray for thy disciples and ever maketh intercession for us, teach us to pray with thee, that we may glorify thee. Help us to see that the greatest blessing thou canst give is fellowship with thee. Thou knowest our eager longing for thy richest blessing upon those whom we love in our home, and among our associates. Hear our prayers for them. Enable us to take thee as an example in prayer. May this lesson help us to look to thee with new wonder and delight. In thy dear name. Amen.

CHURCH ITEMS FROM WORLD

A survey of theological seminaries shows that one-half of the ministers come from the farm.

The Methodist Episcopal church gained last year 51,450 new members, according to the recently published Year Book.

The catecombs of St. Callixtus, in Rome, are to be especially properad for the throngs of pilgrims and tourists who will visit that city during 1925. The Roman Catholic Church has declared this a "Holy Year," which carries great significance to Catholics.

Broadway Methodist church, Cleveland, O., has a beautiful copy of Da Vinci's "Last Supper," painted by Armando Vindelli. It is said to be the best copy outside of Europe. The painting is the gift of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Stafford, generous friends of Broadway church. It is a memorial to Mrs. John Huntington, a prominent Christian worker of Cleveland.

Diamonds may be the most precious of all jewels, but they are not too valuable to give up for the cause of Christ's Kingdom. Recently Dr. Willis S. Rowe of the Richmond district of the Nort Indiana conference of the Methodist church was handed two fine diamonds, woth at least $300, to be sold and the money spent for special work in Africa.

An increasing number of American Jewish parents are dessirous of sending their children to study in the school of Palestine. In the last fifteen months forty-five were sent to Haifa, Jaffa, and Jerusalem schools.

The Hindus are a religious people, says a missionary at Venguria, West India. Everything they do is done in relation to their religion. Even tho the missionaries are forced to struggle against superstition and the malpractice of custom, they can always get a hearing among the people. They are not shy when there is talk about religion, for it is part of their everyday life.

Ohio Wesleyan university boasts of its Big Five included in the list of the twenty-five most influential living American preachers as selected by the votes of 21,843 ministers polled by the Christian Century. Bishop E. H. Hughes, of Chicago; Bishop F. J. McConnell of Pittsburgh, Bishop W. F. McDowell of Washington, Dr. Charles E. Jefferson, New York; Dr. Ernest E. Tittle, Evanston, Ill., are the Big Five.

691,833 boys and men actively associated with 21,751 troops will celebrate the Fifteenth anniversary of the incorporation of the Boy Scouts of America, February 8-14. Business Men's clubs,—Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis; the churches of the land; the schools; public officials in city, state and nation—all will take part in the chief annual event in scouting.

Protestant religious forces of Bridgeport, Connecticut,—the birthplace and home at the time of her death of Fanny J. Crosby—have united to carry out her wish that there be established as a memorial to her a home for the aged. To this end the memorial committee of Bridgeport has prepared a Fanny Crosby Memorial Pageant suitable for presentation ata Sunday evening or week night service. It is suggested that Sunday, March 22 (March 23 being Mrs. Crosby's birthday) or some evening soon thereafter be used for this purpose a portion of the offering being contributed to the Fanny Crosby Memorial Home.

Dog Goes 3,000 Miles to Home.

During the Fall of 1923 Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Runyan of Oriska, N. D., moved to Southern California, taking with them their dog, seven years old. Recently the dog disappeared from their new home, and diligent search with the aid of ads in the newspapers failed to return him. The dog has shown up at his old home in Oriska, having apparently traveled the entire distance on foot in about two months. It is believed he covered at least 3,000 miles.

Grip Left You All Run Down?

BACK lame and achy? Sharp pains stab you at every sudden move? Nerves "all unstrung?"

Then look to your kidneys! Winter, you know, is danger time for the kidneys. That's because grip, colds and chills are apt to weaken the kidneys and allow body poisons to upset the whole bodily machinery. Then is apt to come lameness, soreness and stiffness; constant backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness and irregular or painful passage of the kidney secretions.

Don't risk serious kidney sickness! Use Doan's Pills before it is too late, Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

Here is East Liverpool Proof:

F. M. Glenn, painter, 1122 St Clair Ave., says: "Kidney trouble must have been brought on by the constant use of paints and varnishes. Reaching while on the ladder caused sharp pains in my back. A constant dull ache settled in my back and tired me out. My kidneys acted irregularly. I used Doan's Pills and the backache left and my kidneys were put in good condition."

Again—Do Not Expect Long Trading Allowances on Any Used Car When You Come to Buy a Chrysler

This statement of eight months ago is repeated in justice to Chrysler distributors and dealers, who cannot in fairness be expected to penalize themselves by making long allowances, merely because the Chrysler may have depreciated the value of other cars.

A car may be a very good car indeed and still it will lack the riding, driving, braking, accelerating, power and speed qualities which thrill the owner of a Chrysler Six.

As we said in June of last year, those qualities are so valuable and mean so much in efficiency and economy that you could well afford to discard the used car without compensation for the sake of the amazing activity of performance and the saving the Chrysler will bring you.

Even if another car originally cost you twice as much, the burden you escape when you acquire a Chrysler—the substitution of more agile and satisfying performance and the stoppage of waste—will more than compensate you.

Months ago we said that because of these unusual Chrysler qualities, the Chrysler was invading all markets and especially those of much higher price.

We also said that the enthusiasm of the public over the Chrysler was certain to affect all motor cars and ultimately all motor car design.

The change in (internal) design has not yet come. Until it does, there is no possibility for anyone who wants Chrysler results to make a comparison between the Chrysler and other cars, whether they be used or new.

It is all a question of whether you want the qualities which the Chrysler alone provides.

If you do, then it is perfectly clear that you cannot compare the value of another used car or any other new car with the value of the Chrysler.

Neither higher prices nor lower prices nor long allowances have anything to do with the fact that there is still only one Chrysler and that it delivers results which no other car delivers.

This is no reflection on any good car. It is simply a statement of facts which every Chrysler owner knows.

The Touring Car, $1395; The Phaeton, $1495; The Roadster, $1625; The Sedan, $1825; The Royal Coupe, $1895; The Brougham, $1965; The Imperial, $2065; The Crown-Imperial, $2195. All prices f. o. b. Detroit subject to current government tax.

THE DOUBLE HOUSE

By Elizabeth Dejeans

Karesia was a good craftswoman; in her intense interest in the story she did not forget the masterly way in which Dascome used words to express his meaning, how he built his sentences and constructed his chapters; Dascome was a natural craftsman; Karesia did not detect a single crudity. A gift such as this lying idle through all those years! The wonderful capacity to give joy to the many!

Karesia had forsaken her divan. When Dascome came in, she was seated on the hearthrug before a red fire, cheeks flushed, eyes intent, and chapters scattered about her; she was still reading. She glanced up vaguely. "I haven't finished," she said, and went on reading.

Dascome rebuilt the fire, moving cautiously, then seated himself. He looked down at her bent head, the foreshortened view of her absorbed face. He watched the swift way in which she laid a chapter down and took up another; her changing expressions, lips now tight, now faintly smiling, occasionally a sound that was not quite a word, something said under her breath. Dascome sat silent and motionless, but he wore the look of the man who has just given of his entire being to a woman and drops his head upon her breast; love's final tribute, a great peace.

Karesia had finished. She laid the last chapter down and sat quite still, looking into the fire for long moments. Then she looked up at Dascome and he looked at her as if he had stirred out of sleep to ask a question of lips bent to his. She simply held out her arms to him and he drew her into his.

"I love it—so will others. You have the great gift."

"You like—it?" he asked very low.

XXXV

It was late when Dascome left her, yet Karesia could not sleep. She was too completely happy, breathless and excited; she had discovered a genius. She felt somewhat as Rossiter had felt when he had discovered Clarice.

The effect upon Karesia was a tremendous urge to work; to prepare for it that night and begin early in the morning. During these days of absence from her typewriter, her brain had not been idle, a story had been growing in it, it was shaping out of the nebulous. It gripped her now; she would get it on paper; there were the long morning hours when she and Dascome were not together.

Karesia cleared her desk of trifles, uncovered her typewriter and dusted it, then began to take out of the desk drawers the things she always had about her when working. Her boxes of typewriter paper were in one of the desk compartments. On top of the boxes was the bundle of papers she had brought from the storehouse, a slovenly package; in her haste to get to Rossiter's dinner, she had put the package in the desk and had not thought of it since; there had been so much else to think about.

Karesia decided to unwrap it and put the contents in a drawer; the papers were ink-stained and soiled, but they were part of a record and should be kept. She opened the package and took out the ink-stained newspapers, one by one, and put them in a drawer. Between two of the papers was a square of cardboard, evidently the back of a photograph, and there was something written on it. Karesia read, with a feeling of sadness and pity, its simple message:

To John, with love,
From Elaine.

Evidently its was a photograph his wife had given Dascome. Karesia turned it over. In this photograph, Elaine Dascome looked older than in her portrait, cheeks thinner and eyes not so widely open nor so bright. The ink that had saturated the papers haid stained the photograph, darkening one side of the face. The blot extended from the corner of the mouth over one cheek, across the corner of the eye and up to the temple, giving the face a distorted expression. The photograph had faded, the other side of the face looked bleached, an ivory-white. At first Karesia looked at it blankly, as one looks at an unexpected desecration, then with a creeping sense of shock, then with the impact of a possibility that lifted her to her feet as might a deafening explosion.

There are those who in any stress think first of those they love; of themselves last. Kersia's first feeling was an immense joy mingled with the tensest excitement; could it be? Was it possible? It was possible! It was probable! Mary Bliss—this face more aged and sunken and wrinkled, the distorted expression! The resemblance was there. Oh, had she not told Dascome that in some unexpected way it would be made clear! All those who had not believed in him would be confounded. Thoughts zigzagged like lightning through Karesia's brain; it was a plot against Dascome! That Atwell! They had not killed Elaine, they had dragged her away from the lake and had ill-treated her and disfigured her, driven her mad with fear. Then perhaps she had escaped them and had begun to wander, had grown old and bent, a prematurely old woman? No, more likely, Atwell had told her that her name was Mary Bliss—he must have known the half-witted girl who had grown up in the asylum in Montreal! The sentence, "My name is Mary Bliss and I grew up in an orphan asylum in Montreal," was not written by Mary Bliss, for she had helped Mary Bliss write in her little book, "Sonya Karesia Kaime," and she had noticed that the handwriting was not the same. They had turned her loose then to wander, knowing that no one would ever recognize her. . . . But that couldn't be! She was simply losing her own mind over a strange resemblance, for they had identified the body found in the lake. It couldn't be; she had been startled, swept off her feet by an uncanny resemblance.

The vicar's daughter was very enthusiastic and appreciative about the new curate, and when she called on an elderly woman of nearly 80 for afternoon tea, she soon turned the conversation in his direction.

"You know," she said, "he is capable in so many ways. But what I like about him most of all is that he is a true altruist."

"Well, I'm surprised to hear that, exclaimed the hostess, "for I heard him singing last Sunday, and I could declare he was a tenor."

School Court Teams Divide With Lisbon Passers

Runyon Says

Frank Carbone Enlists.
Is Now a Horse Soldier.
Also Boxing Instructor.
"Fighting Billy's" Town.
More About Baseball.

By DAMON RUNYON.
Copyright, 1925, International Feature Syndicate.

FRANK CARBONE, hard-bitten middleweight of long experience, has enlisted in the Eighth Cavalry at Fort Bliss, as the writer learns from an El Paso newspaper passing through that interesting city.

One of Carbone's last appearances in New York was against "Punch-'em" Paul Berlenbach. In fact, it was Berlenbach's defeat of Carbone that made the Astoria slugger's reputation. It was his first showing against a fighter of any reputation in Madison Square Garden.

Carbone had stood off some of the best middleweights and light heavyweights in the country. Those who knew his ability were betting on him to beat Berlenbach. The Astoria Ox was crue. He knew little about boxing. The Carbone bout was his big test.

Before the fight the writer asked Dan Hickey, Berlenbach's manager and trainer, what he thought of the outcome.

"Well," Hickey said, "Paul hasn't been learning things rapidly enough to suit me. He's got to box this fellow tonight five rounds, then I'll give him his head."

Immediately after being "given his head" Berlenbach walked out and stopped Carbone. It was an impressive showing for a youngster.

Carbone is to act as instructor and trainer for the boxers of the Eighth Cavalry. It seems that he is through with the ring.

Like the American sailors, our soldiers are keen on boxing. Every outfit has its stars. At Fort Bliss there are a number of fairly good men who are expected to improve under Carbone's direction.

The trouble with the average army and navy boxer is lack of training, no matter how great his natural ability. They have little time for training, to begin with, and no knowledge of HOW to train.

A few professional boxers scattered throughout the army and navy, as during the war, would make a big difference in ringmen of the service.

The train on which the writer is traveling passed through Tucson, Arizona.

This is the seat of a little pugilistic colony of health seekers unless it has quite recently disbanded.

Among them is "Fighting Billy" Murray, a real good middleweight of a few years ago. He was managed by Jack Kearns, now the manager of a world's champion.

Kearns campaigned Murray all over the country. Kearns claims "Fighting Billy" gave Tom Gibbons a slathering in a bout at Hudson, Wis. In any event, Murray was one of the best of his time.

The celebrated Spider Kelly, one of the greatest characters ever connected with the boxing game, also was living in Tucson the last heard from him.

Spider was a noted handler of boxers around San Francisco and proprietor of the famous Tivoli cafe. He years ago, and while in Arizona he went to Tucson for his health some discovered Pat Lester, the heavyweight now boxing on the Pacific coast with some success.

Lester wasn't much when Spider first got him, but he had certain signs of promise that impressed Kelly. He sent him to Tim McGrath, in San Francisco, and under Tim's direction Lester has been whipping some fair men.

When Kelly was handling a fighter he was almost as much of the show as the fighter himself. The spider was accounted one of the shrewdest men in the game as a second.

Boxing is going on all over Arizona.

In the Arizona Republican, of Phoenix, the writer reads that both Young Dutch, of that City, and Allan Whitlow, of Superior, are down to weight, 126 pounds, for an impending eight-round bout.

It is for the Arizona championship of that class. The Republican boxing writer states that both boys are young and improving. Perhaps we of the East will hear of them later on.

By the time this reaches the reader's eye the bout will have been decided. It appears that it is the final of an elimination tournament such as the New York State Athletic Commission held in the same class, resulting in Louis Kid Kaplan being declared champion.

Such boys, the Republican says, "as Battling Siki, Young Arnold, Bobby McIndoo and Rusty Ling have been among those beaten and eliminated.

Of course this is not the Battling Siki of world fame—not the Singular Senegalese. He was bouncing around the South at last accounts.

The winner of the Arizona elimination gets an engraved belt but emblematic of the State championship. Some day the Arizona belt holder may be fighting for the world's title in the class. They have to begin somewhere.

Other fighters named in the Republican's boxing gossip are Miami Joe Rivers, who evidently takes his name from the noted Los Angeles lightweight of another era; Frankie Tucker, of New Orleans, Jimmy Cumston, Soldier Brown, Young Joe Gans, Kid Valdone, Young Sally and Joe Encinas.

They are all boxing around Phoenix. Over in Noagles Francisco Moreno, lightweight champion of the west coast of Mexico, is getting ready to meet Tommy Simmons, "The Phoenix Flash," in an eight-round bout. Moreno lives at Guaymas, Mexico.

The interest everywhere in basketball continues to astonish this writer.

At El Paso a band of good-looking youngsters boarded the Southern Pacific train on which he is traveling. They were the "Tigers," of El Paso, starting on a basketball invasion of Arizona.

They were to open, they said, at Phoenix against the Arizona State champions, the Mesa "Jackrabbits." Last year the "Tigers" were in the Texas State basketball tournament, in which more than ONE THOUSAND teams started.

Kindly think that over.
More than ONE THOUSAND basketball teams, each team comprising at least five members.

That's over FIVE THOUSAND basketball players in one tournament, and the tornament didn't include ALL the basketball teams in Texas.

Do you wonder that Texas turns out such magnificent physical specimens of manhood when the youth of the State is being prepared in this manner.

BOONE'S BOYS DEFEAT COUNTY SEATERS, 42-32

Local Girls are Losers; Sebring Teams Here Tonight.

Coach O. V. Boone's scholastic passers stayed up in the county basketball race by defeating the Lisbon quintet, 42 to 32, last night on the county seat court.

The honors of the evening, however, did not all come to the Pottery City, for the county seat girls were victorious over the locals in the preliminary winning by the count of 28 to 16.

Both games were fast and hard fought. Chuck McConville retired in the closing stages of the main engagement, which was at that time pretty well sewed up, with his allotted number of personal fouls.

McConville, however, played a hard game, registered two field goals and generally conducted himself as a star guard should. Captain Liebschner dropped in his customary number of field goals, four, and played a good all around game.

Scoring honors were captured by Forward Paul English who hit the bull's eye nine times for two pointers and twice from the free line.

The Hum brothers were the big cogs in the Lisbon machine. They led the county seaters in all around playing and in scoring.

Tonight Boone's boys will tackle an opponent of algebraic quality, Sebring, which to the locals is rated as X, the unknown. Plenty of rumors have been making the rounds lately concerning the Sebringites but none has caused much of a sensation here. Boone's passers are confident they will be successful in solving the problem.

Reports, among others, have it that Sebring recently won from New Philadelphia. Another, that Sebring lost to New Philly by nine points. Either supposition, if true, would be a credit to Sebring.

The East Liverpool and Sebring girls' teams will play in the preliminary, beginning at 7:45 o'clock.

Manager Bruce Perry has made a request that persons, holding reserved seats, who do not expect to use the seats, notify him as soon as possible before game time.

Withdrawal of Star Fighters Detracts From Ring Tourney

NEW YORK, Feb. 7—Followeds of boxing were almost unanimous today in declaring that the state athletic commission's impending lightweight elimination tourney had lost most of its authority by the withdrawal of Sammy Mandell, Sid Terris, Sid Barbarian and Johnny Dundee from the lists of contenders. Lack of condition was given as Dundee's reason for withdrawal while Barbarian claimed previous engagements with promoters on the Pacific Coast.

Mandell and Terris, it is understood, withdrew from the teruney because the board declined to grant them Byes in the first round of the event. Reports, however, were to the effect that their real objection was based on the fact that the commission has alloted only 7½ per cent of the gate receipts to each contestant.

THEY "CAUGHT ON" WHILE CATCHING

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

A move that should strengthen the Chicago Cubs about as much as the acquiston of new playing material might, has just been made by manager Bill Killefer in naming George Gibson as his first assistant.

Gibson, former big league catcher, manager and coach, possesses one of the keenest baseball minds extant. He carries to his new job a vast store of baseball learning collected in 18 years in the game. Most of the valuable info was assembled while he was playing "iron man" behind the bat.

And the perusual of his career brings to attention again the fact that from the catcher's box have sprung many—if not most—of the game's leading pilots.

Look over the list of managers.

Lee Fohl of the Red Sox.

Branch Rickey of the Cardinals.

Connie Mack of the Athletics.

Wilbert Robinson of the Dodgers.

Bill Killefer himself.

Clarence Rowland, former White Sox leader.

Fred Mitchell, former manager of the Braves and Cubs.

Bill Carigan, former Red Sox pilot.

Billy Sullivan.

Pat Moran and Franch Chance, now dead.

Red Dooin, former manager of the Phillies.

And that does not include all of them by an means.

Wilbert Robinson first attracted attention with his masterful catching for the famous old Baltimore Orioles which also produced John McGraw and others for the managerial ranks.

Branch Rickey, from the big mitt ranks, has become one of the most unusual managers in the game. Rickey is the leading exponent of psychology as first aid to ball players. His scientific experiments with Ferdy Schuff and others and his latest move in taking Duster Mails into his Cardinal "sanitarium" all have formed interesting "copy." Rickey formerly managed the Browns.

While the late Frank Chance is remembered as premier first baseman and "Peerless Leader" of the old Cubs his life history shows that he catcher when he went to Chicago. Billy Sullivan's great catching played an important part in the winning, by the White Sox, of their second pennant in 1901. He was a star of the 1906 world's series between the Cubs and Sox. He continued to shine for at least two years after that.

Carrigan stands out as one of the greatest winning managers in the game.

Fred Clarke gave Lee Fohl, now manager of the Red Sox, his start. Clarke let him catch a game or two for the Pirates, then sent him to Des Moines.

Killefer was the receiving star of the Phillies for six years before being traded to the Cubs in 1918 with Grover Alexander for two players and $55,000 in cash. He became pilot later.

Pat Moran gave the Phillies a long sought pennant in 1915 and four years later gave Cincinnati a penant—only to see his success clouded by the dastardly machiations of the gamblers and the unscrupulous actions of some of the White Sox players.

Laughlin 6, Ford Motors Win Y Games

Laughlin 5 and Trotters Come Out on Losers' Ends.

Laughlin 6 and Ford Motors were "Y" Industrial league basketball winners last night, the Fords downing Laughlin 5 by the score of 34 to 16, while Laughlin 6 defeated Trotters by the score of 13 to 9.

The Fords had an easy time winning from the Laughlin 5 aggregation. They led at the end of the first half by the score of 19 to 7. The second half was only a repetition of the first, the Fords outclassing their foes as they did in the first, easily adding another victory to their list.

Bromby, Furrer and Canne were the scoring stars for the Fords, while Patton and Cox took care of the guard positions well. Sayre, Manypenny and Berg did well for Laughlin 5.

The Trotters-Laughlin 5 contest was a hard fought battle from start to finish and very little scoring was done the first half. The toll at the end of the half was 3 to 2 in the pottery lads favor.

During the second half both teams continued to play their hardest, but the Pottery boys increased their lead during the half field goals by Duffy.

Foul goals—Canne 1, Berg 4.

Duffy and Webb were the scoring stars for Laughlin 6 while Watson did all the scoring for the Trotters five.

Lineups and summaries:

Ford Motors		Laughlin 5
Bromby	F	Berg
Furrer	F	Pollock
Canne	C	Sayre
Cox	G	Bickerton
Patton	G	Bailey

Substitution—Moneypenny for Bailey.

Field goals — Canne 7, Furrer 4, Bromby 4, Cox, Moneypenny 2, Sayre 2, Bailey, Pollock.

Foul goals—Canne 2, Berg.

Referee—Davies.

Laughlin 6		Trotters
Webb	F	Beeler
Duffy	F	McVey
Jester	C	Watson
Salsberry	G	Brooks
Greenwalt	G	McConville

Field goals—Duffy 3, Webb 2, Watson 3.

Rockne Takes Notre Dame Relay Team to Boston Indoor Meet

BOSTON, Feb. 7.—Knute Rockne, famous coach of Notre Dame, today brought his middle western relay team here for the annual indoor games of the Knights of Columbus tonight.

Because Notre Dame never has appeared in Boston, unusual interest has developed in its relay race with Harvard. Elmer Layden and Adam Walsh, both of Notre Dame football fame, will be in the four to face Harvard tonight.

Mandell Is Victor Over Dancin' Fool

Outspeeds Sid Terris in 12 Rounds in Gotham Fight and Wins Judges' Decision.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7—"The worst Terris should have got was a draw"—Abe Attell, former featherweight champion, "Terris won," said an appreciable percentage of the fans who viewed the dazzling exhibition of speed furnished by the country's leading lightweights at Madison Square Garden last night.

The writer thinks that Mandell won easily. The judges and the referee agreed with him. The official verdict went to Mandell at the end of 12 rounds, and according to my score sheet, there could be none other. Attel, unquestionably is an authority on the manly art of legalized assault. So are many of the others who disagreed with the official decision. What they saw about the affair that justified a Terris partisianship is above and beyond my feeble resources.

If last night's fight determined the logical successor to Benny Leonard's abandoned laurels, then Sammy Mandell of Rockford, Ills., and not Sid Terris, of the East Side, New York, is the far more deserving candidate. The so-called sheik, out-speeded the "dancin' fool" in seven out of 12 rounds, as I saw it. Two were and three went of Terris.

"Terris made the same mistake Abe Goldstein made against Cannonball Martin," said the button hole makers as they stampeded for the exits. "He thought he had the thing safe and slowed down in the last few rounds."

That comes under the head of horse hair in the porridge. Terris might have won the decision in the last two rounds if Mandell had broken a careless leg.

As it was, the sheik swarmed all over his man in the eleventh and twelfth rounds and thus left the judges no alternative but to declare him the winner. Sammy was off his feet in the third but otherwise carried the pace at all times.

He began at an early moment to give the so-called dancing master a lesson in the art of buck and wing, consistently outspeeding Terris in the first two rounds. So annoyed was Terris by this affront to his dignity that he led with a right to open the third and it clipped Samuel on the chin. He went down as much under Terris' rush as from the force of the blow and was up before the timekeeper would start a count.

Mandell was hurt but managed to convey an impression of nonchalance for the remainder of the round, keeping Terris at his distance by straight lefts, of which Terris scored all too few during the proceedings. The fourth was Mandell's but the fifth again saw Terris cross with his right and Samuel was once more in a bad way. He was almost out on his feet and Terris closed viciously with the idea of finishing the business. Twice more he slapped Sammp silly with rights to the jaw, but the young man remained as was, until the bell.

He won on the chin strap from that moment. Refreshed by the minute's intermission he carried the right to Terris through the sixth and seventh rounds, contrived to get an even break out of the eighth and was consistently outpunched in the ninth. The tenth was even, but the last two were all Mandell.

Bethany Bisons to Take on Wesleyan Bob Cats Tonight

BETHANY, W. Va., Feb. 7. — Tonight the Bethany Bisons will battle with the Wesleyan Bob Cats in the second game of their down state trip. The game with Fairmont last night gave the Buffalo Creek passers a chance to hit their stride and tonight they will no doubt be at their best.

Pros to Play For Title and Cash Prizes

Stars of U. S. and England Entered in Florida Events.

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 7—Professional golfers from all over the United States and two of Great Britain's leading linksmen will strive for $5,000 in prizes and the Florida open championship here February 24 and 25.

Play will be at 72 holes, individual medal scores to count. The first 36 holes will be contested over the Temple Terrace course on Tuesday, February 24, while the deciding half will be determined the next day over the Palma Cela links. The purse of of $5,000 will be paid by two men, D. P. Davis and L. C. Gillett, millionaire sportsmen of this section.

The lure of the purse and the championship has already served to ensure the entries of these stars; Walter Hagen, British open and American professional champion; Abe Mitchell and George Duncan, the British stars; Johnny Farrell, the leading medal player of 1924; Bobby Cruickshank, who tied Bobby Jones for the national open title in 1923; Jim Barnes and Fred McLeod, national open champions in 1921 and 1908, respectively; Joe Kirkwood, the Australian wizard; Leo Diegel, Canadian open title holder; Cyril Walker, 1924 U. S. open king; Bill Melhorn, Western open champion; Eddie Loos, Tommy Armour, Tommy Kerrigan and a host of others, including Gene Sarazen, national champion of 1922.

Farrell, Cruickshank, Barnes and McLeod have been installed as early favorites, inasmuch as they will be playing over their Winter stamping grounds.

Sarazen, Hagen, Kirkwood and Diegel have already played over the Tampa courses this season, and are fairly well acquainted with these links, so that they must be seriously considered as contenders for the big money and the first Florida open title.

Zill Signs Holub For Semi-Final go With Eddie Bowen

YOUNGSTOWN, Feb. 7.—With the singing of Max Holub, the Akron bantam, with Eddie Bowen, of Sharon, who is going at his best now, in the simi-final to the Goodman-Anderson go, Promoter Al Zill has practically completed an all-star card for his show on February 11 at Raylen-Wood auditorium.

In recent months it seemed that no Cleveland card was complete without Anderson on the bill. Anderson has much at stake in his coming bout with Goodman. To lose will mean a big drop in prestige for him.

Goodman expects to use Anderson as another stepping stone to further honors. The fact that he knocked out Carl Tremaine in Cleveland some time ago brands him as a fighter. Goodman and Anderson will go 12 rounds at 121 pounds.

In the other bouts George Meenghan, the Farrell fighter, meets Tony Brown, of Jamestown, N. Y., in six rounds while Pal Kansas, the Youngstown boy, will take on Harry McMillen, of Cleveland, in another six rounder.

Nurmi Will Attempt To Run Two Miles in 9 Minutes or Better

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Paavo Nurmi, greatest runner of all time, will make his supreme effort of his American tour at the annual games of the Wilco A. A. tonight. The great Finn, running on a carefully plotted time schedule, will attempt to run two miles in nine minutes or better and Athletic experts today were almost unanimous in conceding him a new record for the distance. The present mark is 9:08 2-5, held by Joie Ray, the record being one of Ray's still remaining on the books following Nurmi's record-shattering performances on American indoor tracks.

SPORT SPARKS

The hold-out, a baseball manager's greatest worry outside of baldness, is with us again, and there is much weeping and wailing in the gilded offices of the magnates. With half their stars unsigned, teams which looked like sure winners last fall now resemble pieces of Limburger cheese raked by machine gun fire.

If mercenary magnates grant salary demands, they face enormous treasury deficit. If they refuse, they must hie themselves to the bush leagues and import several carloads of ivory.

Hold-outs are long green with envy. Why should magnates ride in luxurious limousines while they bump along in flivvers?

If a star demanded $5,000 a year in the old days, the club owner told him he was crazy. If he asks only that much now, the other players tell him the same thing.

A manager has a harder time getting his stars signed than a colored minister does in getting erring brothers back in the fold. And tough part of it is that player's wife has to be brought into line after player has agreed to sign.

Hold-out evil is caused by sport writers who turn out daily assignment by scribbing long yarns telling how good certain stars are. After reading several columns telling how good he is, a player begins to believe it.

Hold-outs should remember one thing, however—if they get too unreasonable, they may be numbered among the left-outs when the season starts.

12-Foot Putt Starts Champ on Lucky Year

MRS D C HURD

Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, national women's golf champ in 1924, is sure that that 12-foot putt which she sunk on the home green at Belleair Heights, Fla., the other day, heralds a successful season for her. She needed the putt to defeat Mrs. Alex Smith of Clearwater, Fla., in the finals of a tourney. Mrs. Hurd turned in a 79 score despite a fickle wind. Her play was consistent and firm.

Nurmi vs Horse In Special Race, Coffroth's Plan

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—According to a report today, James W. Coffroth, president of the Tia Juana Jockey club, is negotiating with Paavo Nurmi, Finland's running star, for a race against a horse. The animal in question is said to be Osprey, a thoroughbred which once raced in the colors of the late August Belmont, and the conditions of the proposed race would require Nurmi to run a half mile against a full mile for the horse.

POEMS THAT LIVE

Song.

In Love, if Love be Love, if Love be ours,
Faith and unfaith can ne'er be equal powers;
Unfaith in aught is want of faith in all.
It is the little rift within the lute,
That by and by will make the music mute,
And ever widening slowly silence all.
The little rift within the lover's lute
Or little pitted speck in garnered fruit,
That rotting inward slowly moulders all.
It is not worth the keeping; let it go:
But shall it? answer, darling, answer, no.
And trust me not at all or all in all.

—Tennyson.

A Hint for Beginners

The cross-word puzzle diagram is merely a means of concealing words which are synonymous to those listed and which will interlock perfectly and so read equally well crosswise or downwards. Always look for the number of the synonym on the diagram. If horizontal, you must find a word to fit between that number and the first shaded stop to the right; if vertical, you must fit your word between the number and the first shaded stop below.

VERSE AND WORSE

By Larry Flint

The Midnight Toiler.

Workin' away when th' rest bey gone
Off t' their beds is a mother's task;
Gladly an' cheerfully toilin' on,
Never a thought fer t' want er ask
More of reward fer her pains than this,
When work is ended; a baby kiss.

It is thet never her arms kin know
Aches, er thet sleep never tempts her stron?
Mothers—do they never tire er grow
Wearied from ploddin' both had an' long
Er is it love in their hearts thet keeps
Them pluggin' on while th' whole world sleeps?

Mendin' a garment er washin' things;
Knittin' a pink little sumpthin' there:
Toilin' away as she croons er sings,
Glad fer th' lot thet is hers t' share,
List'nin' th' while fer a baby call—
Reckon t' her it ain't t' work at all.

POLICE SEEK "OUTSIDER" IN DEATH INQUIRY AT UNIVERSITY

Redouble Efforts to Identify Stranger in Strychnine Cases.

FOLLOW CLUES

Visitor Obtained Capsules in Columbus College of Pharmacy.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 7.—Information indicating that some "outsider"—a person not connected with the college of pharmacy—was seen in the dispensary, on the Ohio State university campus, a short time before one of the pharmacy students, in filling prescriptions for colds, issued capsuled quinine and aspirin, which might have included capsuled strychnine, was being followed up today by the police officials who are probing the mystery surrounding the deaths recently of two university students and serious illness of at least three others, all attributed to strychnine poisoning.

Students Face Grilling.

The investigating officials, it was stated, are endeavoring to identify this stranger who may possibly be responsible for distribution of the deadly poison among the university students. A number of students during questioning by the investigators, it was said, recalled having seen the "outsider" obtain capsules from a quinine bottle.

Police Prosecutor Chester expects that the investigation today will uncover the identity of the students who issued the fatal capsules which caused the deaths of Charles H. Huls, Logan and David I. Puskin, Canton.

When the examination of the students in the pharmacy class is completed, a stiff grilling at police headquarters awaits a small group of students whose stories thus far have not

Smallpox Develops From Flu in Four Cases at Newark

NEWARK, O., Feb. 7.—For the first time in medical circles, it is said, there is evidence in four instances here that smallpox can and has developed from flu. According to the statement of health commissioner W. H. Kenuss, the four victims have not been exposed to smallpox, all living in widely seperated sections of the city.

Within the past few days they were each stricken with flu or grip, and shortly after there appeared the telltale smallpox pimples over the body. Medical science here can not understand how such could be, and a careful study of both diseases relative to each other is being made.

BRITISH NOTE URGES FRANCE TO PAY DEBT

London Does Not Ask More Than Pledge to U. S.

STRESSES ACTION

Invites Premier Herriot to Make Visit for Discussion.

LONDON, Feb. 7—The British note to France will not lay stress upon the immediate payment by France of its war debt to Great Britain, it was learned today in official circles. The text of the note will be published Monday.

The note will, it was said, lay down the general principle that Great Britain does not ask more from Europe than the amount Great Britain is pledged to pay the United States.

Britain presumes, the note will continue, that payments will be forthcoming from Germany. If Germany does not pay then Britain will not expect the allied debtors to make up for the German shortage.

The note will invite France to make a definite offer regarding the payment of its debt to Britain. The foreign office would welcome a visit from Premier Herriot to discuss the matter, the note will say.

Specifically, China said, the conference had been unable to reach an agreement for the suppression of opium.

STATE REPRESENTATIVE WILL INTRODUCE HOUSE PROPOSAL THURSDAY

Gov. Donahey Pledges Support of Measure to Submit Question to Electorate in East Liverpool.

URGES AUTO TAG COST REDUCTION

East Rochester Legislator Says he Reserves Right, However, to Vote for Gasoline Tax Plan.

Establishment of a municipal court in East Liverpool will be subject to a decision of the electors under the provisions of a uniform court bill, which State Representative Ralph W. Emmons, of East Rochester, will introduce in the Ohio Assembly next Wednesday or Thursday, be announced today.

The proposal, sponsored by the Columbiana county legislator and which is believed to have the support of Governor Donahey, permits cities having a population of less than 50,000 to decide at the polls whether or not they favor a municipal court. Upon a majority vote, the bill automatically becomes a law without further action on the part of the state legislature.

Should this bill be defeated, Emmons as a last resort, will introduce an East Liverpool court measure. He believes, that such a plan would not receive the support of the governor inas-much as the state executive vetoed a similiar measure two years ago.

Spends Week-end at Home.

Emmons, who is spending the week-end with his family at East Rochester, visited here yesterday afternoon, conferring with his constituents regarding matters before the legislature.

"Sentiment in East Liverpool favors the establishment of a municipal court as far as I am able to ascertain," he said. "The governor, however, has announced his opposition to municipal courts except for cities with a population of 50,000 or more, unless they are provided by a uniform bill. He has indicated that he will support a measure similar to that which I will introduce next week, permitting the voters of municipalities to vote on the issue."

The cities of Canton and Springfield are the only communities in the state with populations of 50,000 or more where municipal courts are not in operation, and bills establishing courts in these cities will likely be enacted at this session of the legislature. Ashtabula, Newark, Massillon and East Liverpool are among the smaller communities advocating such a bill.

Predicts Gas Tax Passage.

The Emmons bill would permit townships and communities adjacent to cities having a municipal court to be included within the jurisdiction of the court upon presentation of a pe-

MITCHELL ROW MAY CAUSE FEW HEADS TO FALL

Assistant Air Chief and Navy Secretary May Lose Posts.

RESULT AWAITED

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—The row between Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, assistant chief of air service, and the conservative heads of the army and navy, reached a point today where Washington began to look for some official heads to fall.

One of them may be Mitchell's. Another may be that of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur. There may be others.

This conflict between the advocates and opponents of the a greater air service, seething beneath the surface ever since the bombing tests off the Virginia Capes demonstrated the feasibility of sinking a battleship from the air, surpasses anything peace-time Washington has ever witnessed.

President Coolidge must ultimately be the arbiter of the row, it was said by administration officials today.

Mitchell "Sacrifices" Self.

DEADLY DULL ROUTINE GRIPS RESCUE WORK AT SAND CAVE

Frayed Nerves Begin to Snap as Men Dig.

FRESH RECRUITS

Expect to Reach Floyd Collins Late Sunday.

BY CARL W. HARRIS.

CAVE CITY, KY., Feb. 7.—Deadly dull routine gripped sand cave today.

Gone were the chances for individual glory which had sustained many through sleepless days and nights of toil in icy, damp muck. The thrill of risk virtually had been eliminated. The newness was wearing off—and all that remained was the weary round of drilling, digging, drilling, digging while day turns into night and night gives way to another day.

Frayed nerves, too, were beginning to snap. Commands were barked in sharper voice. Hands twitched as they nervously lighted countless cigarettes. For there is relief only for the workers—those in command have had hardly an hour's sleep since the state assumed charge of the rescue efforts.

Digging Goes On.

The loss of contact with Floyd Collins, maintained in the early days of the rescue attempts also proved a depressing influence. Digging in these barren hills for a man buried for eight days 55 feet below the surface of the ground, a man whom you have never seen and whose existence as the hours wear on, you almost begin to doubt, has a most telling effect. It seems almost unreal to the workers

TWO CHILDREN BURN TO DEATH

Locked in, They Die, as Fire Sweeps Home.

TOLEDO, O., Feb. 7.—Bill, aged 4 and Isabelle, aged 2, children of Mrs. Bert Thone, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their home near Luckey, 10 miles from Toledo, today.

The children had been locked in the house while the mother went to the barn to do the chores.

Isabelle was tied in a high chair in the living room, adjoining the kitchen. A few moments after the mother had left the house little Billy called to Louis, another brother, aged 9, who was playing in the yard, that he had poured oil on the kitchen stove and that it was burning.

Within a few seconds an explosion followed and smoke and flames began to pour from the windows. The fire spread rapidly and by the time Mrs. Thone reached the house the entire lower floor was a mass of flames.

Mrs. Thone broke one window after another in an effort to reach the children, but was driven back by smoke and flames.

The Georgetown authorities also were searching for Paul Dillette, 26, married and a father, who is missing from his Georgetown home.

Investigation today failed to locate relatives of Miss Hoopsie and Paul Dillette, mentioned in the above dispatch, in Georgetown, immediately east of the Ohio-Pennsylvania line.

Georgetown people said the persons referred to were not known there.

LONG ISLAND CITY ROWENITES STILL HOPE FOR END OF WORLD IN SIX DAYS

Robt. Reidt's Followers Spend Most of Night on Their Knees, Praying, But are Disappointed.

BY ROLAND KREBS.

EAST PATCHOGUE, N. Y., Feb. 7.—Within 35 Seventh Day Adventists' bosoms today there still burned a hope for the best—hope that the world would end on this or one of the following six days as forecast.

Although last midnight and the early hours of morning were disappointingly free of any of the miraculous manifestations predicted by Mrs. Margaret Rowen, of Los Angeles, "prophetess of God," her ardent followers here on Long Island were yet confident that the engulfing diseases, pestilence, storms and other things, she expects to blot out the earth would come.

Here in the home of Robert Reidt, "apostle of doom" and leader of New York's Rowenites—Reidt, his wife, their four children and a dozen of his most faithful followers spent most of the night on their knees, praying and chanting "O, Jesus, we are ready."

In Valley Streams another group of doom-woers waited and prayed. Still others were scattered about Long Island, the interior of the continent, and in the West.

Jibes Fail To Shake Faith.

About Reidt's home stood a crowd that at times was well above the hundred mark. It came to laugh but instead it had a little difficulty keeping its nerve combed down in place. The seriousness of the apostle's followers was a bit disconcerting. It made them figedty because their

Physicians Deny Amputation Report In Davidson Case

A large crowd attended faith healing services held in the First Presbyterian church last night by Rev. George Formby, of Grand Crossing, Fla.

Physicians today, referring to the illness of Attorney George E. Davidson, said there was no intention of amputating Mr. Davidson's leg. About six weeks ago, doctors said if gangrene developed, amputation would be necessary. However, in the meantime, they say, Mr. Davidson was assured he was on the road to recovery.

STATE REPRESENTATIVE WILL INTRODUCE HOUSE PROPOSAL THURSDAY

Gov. Donahey Pledges Support of Measure to Submit Question to Electorate in East Liverpool.

URGES AUTO TAG COST REDUCTION

East Rochester Legislator Says he Reserves Right, However, to Vote for Gasoline Tax Plan.

Establishment of a municipal court in East Liverpool will be subject to a decision of the electors under the provisions of a uniform court bill, which State Representative Ralph W. Emmons, of East Rochester, will introduce in the Ohio Assembly next Wednesday or Thursday, be announced today.

The proposal, sponsored by the Columbiana county legislator and which is believed to have the support of Governor Donahey, permits cities having a population of less than 50,000 to decide at the polls whether or not they favor a municipal court. Upon a majority vote, the bill automatically becomes a law without further action on the part of the state legislature.

Should this bill be defeated, Emmons as a last resort, will introduce an East Liverpool court measure. He believes, that such a plan would not receive the support of the governor inas-much as the state executive vetoed a similiar measure two years ago.

Spends Week-end at Home.

Emmons, who is spending the week-end with his family at East Rochester, visited here yesterday afternoon, conferring with his constituents regarding matters before the legislature.

"Sentiment in East Liverpool favors the establishment of a municipal court as far as I am able to ascertain," he said. "The governor, however, has announced his opposition to municipal courts except for cities with a population of 50,000 or more, unless they are provided by a uniform bill. He has indicated that he will support a measure similar to that which I will introduce next week, permitting the voters of municipalities to vote on the issue."

The cities of Canton and Springfield are the only communities in the state with populations of 50,000 or more where municipal courts are not in operation, and bills establishing courts in these cities will likely be enacted at this session of the legislature. Ashtabula, Newark, Massillon and East Liverpool are among the smaller communities advocating such a bill.

Predicts Gas Tax Passage.

The Emmons bill would permit townships and communities adjacent to cities having a municipal court to be included within the jurisdiction of the court upon presentation of a pe-

MITCHELL ROW MAY CAUSE FEW HEADS TO FALL

Assistant Air Chief and Navy Secretary May Lose Posts.

RESULT AWAITED

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—The row between Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, assistant chief of air service, and the conservative heads of the army and navy, reached a point today where Washington began to look for some official heads to fall.

One of them may be Mitchell's. Another may be that of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur. There may be others.

This conflict between the advocates and opponents of the a greater air service, seething beneath the surface ever since the bombing tests off the Virginia Capes demonstrated the feasibility of sinking a battleship from the air, surpasses anything peace-time Washington has ever witnessed.

President Coolidge must ultimately be the arbiter of the row, it was said by administration officials today.

DEADLY DULL ROUTINE GRIPS RESCUE WORK AT SAND CAVE

Frayed Nerves Begin to Snap as Men Dig.

FRESH RECRUITS

Expect to Reach Floyd Collins Late Sunday.

BY CARL W. HARRIS.

CAVE CITY, KY., Feb. 7.—Deadly dull routine gripped sand cave today.

Gone were the chances for individual glory which had sustained many through sleepless days and nights of toil in icy, damp muck. The thrill of risk virtually had been eliminated. The newness was wearing off—and all that remained was the weary round of drilling, digging, drilling, digging while day turns into night and night gives way to another day.

Frayed nerves, too, were beginning to snap. Commands were barked in sharper voice. Hands twitched as they nervously lighted countless cigarettes. For there is relief only for the workers—those in command have had hardly an hour's sleep since the state assumed charge of the rescue efforts.

Digging Goes On.

The loss of contact with Floyd Collins, maintained in the early days of the rescue attempts also proved a depressing influence. Digging in these barren hills for a man buried for eight days 55 feet below the surface of the ground, a man whom you have never seen and whose existence as the hours wear on, you almost begin to doubt, has a most telling effect. It seems almost unreal to the workers

TWO CHILDREN BURN TO DEATH

Locked in, They Die, as Fire Sweeps Home.

TOLEDO, O., Feb. 7.—Bill, aged 4 and Isabelle, aged 2, children of Mrs. Bert Thone, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their home near Luckey, 10 miles from Toledo, today.

The children had been locked in the house while the mother went to the barn to do the chores.

Isabelle was tied in a high chair in the living room, adjoining the kitchen. A few moments after the mother had left the house little Billy called to Louis, another brother, aged 9, who was playing in the yard, that he had poured oil on the kitchen stove and that it was burning.

Within a few seconds an explosion followed and smoke and flames began to pour from the windows. The fire spread rapidly and by the time Mrs. Thone reached the house the entire lower floor was a mass of flames.

Mrs. Thone broke one window after another in an effort to reach the children, but was driven back by smoke and flames.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Various agencies in New York were asked today by Georgetown, Pa., authorities to hunt for Miss Anna Hoopsie, 16, of Georgetown, who vanished from her home a week ago.

Her invalid parents are heartbroken, the request said. Miss Hoopsie's father formerly was a coal miner.

It is believed the girl either came to New York or went to Binghamton, N. Y.

The Georgetown authorities also were searching for Paul Dillette, 26, married and a father, who is missing from his Georgetown home.

Investigation today failed to locate relatives of Miss Hoopsie and Paul Dillette, mentioned in the above dispatch, in Georgetown, immediately east of the Ohio-Pennsylvania line.

Georgetown people said the persons referred to were not known there.

LONG ISLAND CITY ROWENITES STILL HOPE FOR END OF WORLD IN SIX DAYS

Robt. Reidt's Followers Spend Most of Night on Their Knees, Praying, But are Disappointed.

BY ROLAND KREBS.

EAST PATCHOGUE, N. Y., Feb. 7.—Within 35 Seventh Day Adventists' bosoms today there still burned a hope for the best—hope that the world would end on this or one of the following six days as forecast.

Although last midnight and the early hours of morning were disappointingly free of any of the miraculous manifestations predicted by Mrs. Margaret Rowen, of Los Angeles, "prophetess of God," her ardent followers here on Long Island were yet confident that the engulfing diseases, pestilence, storms and other things, she expects to blot out the earth would come.

Here in the home of Robert Reidt, "apostle of doom" and leader of New York's Rowenites—Reidt, his wife, their four children and a dozen of his most faithful followers spent most of the night on their knees, praying and chanting "O, Jesus, we are ready."

In Valley Streams another group of doom-woers waited and prayed. Still others were scattered about Long Island, the interior of the continent, and in the West.

Jibes Fail To Shake Faith.

About Reidt's home stood a crowd that at times was well above the hundred mark. It came to laugh but instead it had a little difficulty keeping its nerve combed down in place. The seriousness of the apostle's followers was a bit disconcerting. It made them figedty because their

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—New forward movements in the sugar, steel and motor stocks occupied the attention of the speculative list today while the oil and railroad stocks the backbone of the rally in the previous sessions of this week, received scant attention. Oil stocks were subjected to heavy profit-taking, and further uneasiness was caused by the summoning of oil leaders to Washington to explain the recent advances in gasoline prices. Meanwhile additional price adjustments were announced today by prominent oil companies.

Conspicuous strength in the motor stocks and the iron pipe manufacturers was the feature of the market in thef irst period. Mack trucks continued its spectacular upward course and sold at a new high at 141. General Motors also hung up a new high record at 78. United States Cast Iron Pipe went through all of its previous price records and sold at 196, a gain of 9 points. Universal Pipe ½ at a new top at 87⅞ on rumors that its stock is to be retired at par or better.

The movement in sugar stocks was broad enough to embrace all of the stocks in this group. The Cuban stocks including Cuban Cane Sugar, Cuban American common and preferred and Punta Alegre pushed up to higher price levels, in some cases maksugar refining was also a strong spoting new high records. American and sold in good volume around 63.

Couzens Senatorial Committee Asked to Act in Tax Muddle

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The treasury department's "billion dollar" tax muddle, growing out of the sale of German marks by American banks was formally laid before the Couzens senatorial committee today for investigation.

Walter Holland, Washington attorney, who charged the banks with evading billions of dollars in taxes, demanded the investigation. He asked the committee to determine why the treasury department has failed to collect a 10 per cent currency tax levied against the circulation of all foreign money by the national banking act.

Treasury officials were in a fog of uncertainty today following the revelation that an opinion handed down by the solicitor general in 1893 held that the tax could be levied against the circulation of Canadian money. Holland contended the law would apply equally to German money. If the tax is ever applied, it would bankrupt every bank that has dealt in German marks.

Polish Actress Acquitted in Paris Of Killing Fiance

PARIS, Feb. 7.—Stanislawa Uminska, beautiful polish actress, was acquitted here today of the murder of her fiance, Jean Zyznowski, a writer, whom she declared she slew to end his suffering from an incurable disease.

Her acquittal followed a dramatic plea to a jury by the prosecuting attorney in which he declared.

"I neither ask you to condemn nor acquit, but I leave it to your conscience to decide whether justice should bow before pity."

months. He was appointed assistant at St. Malachi's church, Cleveland, remaining there one year, and then was transferred to Canton, where he was an assistant to Rev. P. J. McGuire, now deceased, who was pastor of St. John's church. He was stationed in Canton for eight years. He was appointed pastor of the St. Aloysius church here on Oct. 23, 1914, succeeding the late Father T. M. Smythe.

Erected Convent and Rectory.

Under his direction, a new convent for the Sisters of Mary was erected on a West Fifth street site, adjoining the St. Aloysius parochial school, while extensive improvements to the rectory, adjoining the church, have been under way for the last few months. He had also completed plans for remodeling the church.

Father Dunne is survived by his father, two brothers, Emmett, of Canton, and Joseph, of Salem, and three sisters, Mrs. Sophia Patton, Mrs. Ella Herman, and Mrs. Anna Shanabruck, all of Canton. His mother died about two years ago.

jibes could not shake the faith of Reidt in his prediction.

Midnight was the hour when, according to Reidt, the Saviour would make known his presence in the sky as a preliminary to gathering the 144,000 destined to be transported to heaven upon a cloud and wafting them away from a planet that would be at once a bog, a glacier, a huge pest house, and other things horrible.

Midnight came and went as it has done for thousands of years. There was to have been a tiny, foamy cloud frisking about the moon as the first sign of the big crack. This, if you believe the apostle's followers, was to have been followed by other clouds that would warp themselves up to the Reidt home, let the chosen get aboard and take them to heaven via Hollywood, San Diego and Jupiter.

Blames Movie Men.

Midnight found not a cloud in the heavens. The atmosphere was as clear as mountain water. Blinking stars had no vapors to pierce.

The moon was of the kind that turns love's heads. It was a beauteous night.

Five past midnight and no cloud.

At 2 Reidt gave it up, as a bad job. He toasted his wet socks before the stove in his bare home. He confessed having seen no Godly signs.

"The movie men spoiled it all," he grumbled, taking pictures and lighting up his place with flares and defiling it with "devilish smoke."

But, he brightened, doom has six more days to make good.

All Night Vigil in Prayer

CLEVELAND, Feb. 7.—After an all-night vigil spent in prayer, the little and of faithful Reformed Seventh Day Adventists, vainly waiting for the end of the world, dispersed to their homes today, their faith in prophets shattered, and grimly ready to take up workaday tasks after just getting a glimpse of the Elysian fields, the walls of Jasper and the golden paved streets of Paradise.

"I still believe in God, but I'm not certain about the prophets," one man declared. "The end of the world is coming soon, but I'll never believe another human being, who says he speaks with the tongue of prophecy."

John R. Kniper, one of the little handful of faithful here, realized his hopes. The "end of the world" came for him. Death came as he was sitting beside his wife, both heads bowed in prayer in the barren home.

Mrs. E. H. Frey, local prophetess, could not be found today.

For rescuing a cat by his teeth after he was lowered down a deep well, Harold White, a Headley, England, boy was recently awarded the medal of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

satisfied the probers, unless their stories can be made later to harmonize with known facts, Chester said today.

Student To Make Statement.

It became known today, also that investigation conducted by Chester into rumors that it was almost a common practice among some students at the university to take drugs as stimulants to "pep up" for examinations, had been inspired by university authorities. Chester said he had been advised by medical instructors at the university, that instead of proving a stimulant, as sought, strychnine in average doses, has the effect of deadening the faculties after the first burst of stimulation which follows immediately after taking the drug.

Nelson Rosenberg, son of Dr. Emmanuel Rosenberg, Cleveland, is to be permitted to make his statement today to the probers, permission for which he requested Friday. Rosenberg was to have been questioned further by the probers late Friday afternoon. When he appeared walking across the campus toward the pharmacy building where the inquiry is being conducted, after a long walk in the country to quiet his nerves, Rosenberg was faced by a battery of newspaper cameras. Unnerved he turned and fled across the campus and disappeared.

Canton Youth Recovering.

It was revealed today that still another angle had been pursued by Prosecutor Chester in his questioning of students when it was learned that some of those examined had been asked wether they were members of the Ku Klux Klan. All but one of the young men affected by the poison capsules were Catholics, and he was a Jew.

Ormund L. Weakly, Baltimore, Ohio, was identified late yesterday as the student who issued the poison capsules to G. D. Thompson, Canton. Thompson is now recovering in the university hospital. He identified Weakley at the hospital. It was shown that Weakley issued the capsules from the stock bottle and no blame is attached to him.

William E. Keyser, instructor, who accounted for the mysterious bottle, containing 300 grains of strychine, found hidden behind other bottles on the dispensary shelf, said today the bottle must have been stolen from a desk in the office where it was supposed to be kept.

Brushed By Hand of Death.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 7.—Probers who are investigating the deaths of two Ohio State University students at the hands of a poisoner will learn today how the moving finger of fate, ready to inscribe the name of a third student on the death list, trembled for a moment and passed on.

Fermant T. Brassseur, Lancaster, was brushed by the hand of death, but he lives today solely because Harold E. Gillig, Tiffin, chanced to suffer a convulsion just as Brasseur, watching at his bedside was ready to swallow one of the deadly strychnine capsules, which took two victims and narrowly missed accounting for three others. Dr. Wm. J. Gorey, who attended Gillig and brought him safely out of the effects of a dose of the poison, revealed the story today.

The innocent white capsule, which Brasseur had been ready to swallow, was found later and was turned over to college chemists. Analysis revealed that it contained nearly three gains of pure strychnine, enough to have sent Brasseur reeling to his death.

And today, students at the fraternity house still are marveling how the hand of fate hesitated and then passed over Brasseur.

House Challenge Over Postal Rates Accepted by Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The senate today accepted the challenge of the house over increased postal rates.

With indications pointing to acceptance by the house early next week of the higher rates approved by its postal committee, opponents of the measure in the senate announced they would propose sharp slashes when the bill comes over to the upper chamber for consideration.

The original senate postal rate and salary bill was refused by the house which brought out a measure of its own greatly increasing rates. The added revenue in the house bill over the senate was estimated at $30,000,000. The boosts in rates were added to absorb salary advances to workers.

NOME, Alaska, Feb. 7.—This far northern isolated city is holding its own in a fight against diphtheria.

stitutes a situation that cannot long be ignored by President Coolidge in his role as commander-in-chief of both services.

Mitchell's closest friends in the service declare that he has decided to "sacrifice" himself and his position in order to cause an official shake-up that will inevitably lead to a greater air service. They confidently expect that Mitchell will be relieved of his post as assistant chief of air service by March 26, and demoted to a colonelcy, if, indeed, he is not courtmartialed on charges of insubordination and indiscretion.

The belief prevails that President Coolidge will have to make an example of the defiant brigadier—"for the general good of the service" to allow Mitchell to get away with such charge would,it was pointed out, probably incite others to break disciplinary bonds upon occasion, resulting generally in a situation that would be bad from a morale standpoint.

But while President Coolidge may have to be hard with Mitchell, it is known, nevertheless, that not only he but also some of his most trusted advisers have a good deal of sympathy with Mitchell.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 —A thinly veiled rebuke for Brigadier General William Mitchell, assistant chief of the army air service, for his criticism of the war department's attitude toward aircraft development, was administered today by Secretary of War Weeks.

It came in the shape of a formal statement by Weeks, touching on the present controversy, in which he pointed out that the war department's policies since the war have been directed by the officers who won renown in the World war.

Emmons predicted the passage of the Brown gasoline tax bill when it comes up for a vote in the house next Tuesday. He also said the bill had a good chance of being enacted in the senate, but predicted the vote would be close.

Donahey May Veto Tax Bill.

"In both committee sessions and party caucus meetings I have fought with the minority for a reduction in automobile license fees," Emmons said. "I believe that the proposed gasoline tax should be accompanied by lower license rates, perhaps $3 per year, but there is little likelihood of this amendment being approved.

"While I am opposed to the present license rate with the gas tax, I don't want it to be understood that I am against the Brown bill. I reserve the right to vote for this bill, should I feel that Columbiana county would be penalized in the distribution of road funds because of my opposition."

Emmons asserted that State Highway Director L. A. Boulay is fighting for the passage of the gas tax measure as a means of providing additional funds for road construction and maintenance. Governor Donahey, it is believed, may veto the measure. Should the bill meet with executive disapproval, Emmons said, there is doubt if the needed majority could be mustered to override the veto.

Deadly Dull

at times—a sort of grim farce of nature in which they are human automats.

But the digging goes on and on.

A laggard here is replaced with a fresh recruit. Methods of operations are changed to expedite the work.

Through the night, the "life or death" shaft through which Collins is to be brought out was dropped nine feet to a depth of 25 feet almost the half way mark.

Beside it the diamond drill had cut out a cylinder 46 feet long. This showed nothing but miscellaneous rocks and sandstone, all easily removable material. It has not yet penetrated to the beautiful vaulted chamber which Collins told his brother he had discovered and which, he said lay just beyond the point where he was trapped by a seven-ton boulder.

Additional Troops Arrive

The estimate of 72 hours, originally given as the length of time which would be necessary to sink the shaft to the point where Collins lies, had not been altered today. This would bring the actual rescue of Collins to some time late Sunday afternoon.

Twenty-five additional troops and major Carl D. Norman, of Frankfort, arrived for duty today and extra guards were assigned to the Sand Cave region as each hour brought additional visitors.

Unrest among the local denizens watching from the cliff surrounding the cave had about been put down, those in command said today, by the order of Lieut. Gov. H. H. Denhardt which barred John Geralds and the neighborhood under penalty of arrest.

The order resulted from disparaging remarks alleged to have been made by Geralds regarding the efficiency of modern methods now being used in an attempt to rescue Collins, his "buddy." Geralds, it is said, openly declared to all who would listen that if permitted he could have brought Collins from his underground prison in two more trips down the long, narrow passage. This statement was made, it is said, despite the fact that after a trip into the passage in the early morning hours of Thursday, he declared rescue by that means was impossible and that he would not make another trip into the passage where it was a "10 to 1 shot man would never come out alive."

Rain Is Feared.

It was Geralds who directed the early rescue efforts and who said who should and who should not make trips into the passage. With the arrival of state forces, he was relegated to the background with a Collins' brother, Homer. They had had their chance of effecting a rescue, the state believed, and had failed.

Then Geralds and Homer Collins adjourned to the neighboring hillside and there while state forces worked below, talked to groups of cronies gathered about them and told how they would have brought Collins out and how the new methods would serve only to jar down tons of rock on the victim and crush out his life.

Many listened to this line of talk and a wave of unrest, of lack of sympathy with these strangers who had come in and taken possession of their native hills and caves was rising rapidly.

The climax came when Geralds slipped past the guards and tearing away a canvas sealing the inner entrance to the passage placed there to protect Collins from gas that might filter in, made his way along the tunnel to an undetermined point. He was ordered out and told to keep away from sand cave.

Homer Collins came under the same ban and immediately arrest of any other fomenters of trouble was threatened by Denhardt.

There was a hint of rain in the dawn today and workers were casting anxious eyes skyward. Thus far, ideal weather has prevailed, but rain would turn the pit where work is in progress into a bog and materially hamper operations.

Scientific Summary of Situation.

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 7.—"Nothing has been found thus far and there is nothing in the formation of the earth or rocks in this vicinity which, from a geological standpoint, that is unfavorable to the possible rescue of Floyd Collins."

This was the scientific summary of Collins' rescue chances given today by W. D. Funkhouser, geologist of the University of Kentucky, who was sent here on orders of the governor to lend aid and knowledge of this cavernous country which he has often explored, to the rescue office.

The diamond drill, Dr. Funkhouser said, has brought up only the most optimistic reports. The little cylinder of rock, stone and earth which it cuts on near the "life or death" shaft, thus far, has shown only sandstone which Funkhouser says can be "cut like cheese with the acid drills which are being used. No solid rock—the Bugabood of the present operation—has been encountered. At the 46-foot level solid sandstone was struck.

The main value of the drill, Funkhouser said, was to give warning of an underlying cavern into which workers in the shaft might suddenly be plunged should they without warning dig to close to its roof. Nothing like this has been found thus far.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Three experts of the Bureau of Mines sent by Secretary of Interior Work to Cave City, Ky., to assist in the rescue of Floyd Collins, were ordered today to return to their posts at Vincennes, Ind.

This action was taken following the receipt of a telegram from C. A. Herbert, one of the government experts at Cave City announcing that the rescue work was progressing in such a way that there was little the Bureau of Mines representatives could do.

Priscilla Dean in the Season's Greatest Thriller!

Priscilla Dean brings to the screen the figure of Cassie Cook in the Universal-Jewel film version of John Colton's play, "Drifting," which was a New York stage success, produced by Wm. A. Brady. "Drifting" opens at the American theatre Monday.

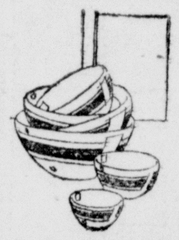

This role of Cassie Cook is emotional, dramatic to an extreme, like most of the roles Miss Dean plays. It requires all of the superb intensity for which she has become famous. The heroine is a leader in an opium ring operating at the very heart of the traffic—China—from the dens of Shanghai back to the very poppy fields. It is in a village nestling at the base of a hill in the poppy country that the most thrilling sequences of the story take place—and this is the China that Americans know nothing of. A complete Chinese village, several hundred Chinese extras and unusual scenic investiture make the the thrill elements convincing.

Among notable players in the supporting cast are Wallace Beery, Anna May Wong, the most successful oriental actress of the screen, Matt Moore, J. Farrell McDonald, William V. Mong, Frank Lanning and Mlle. Rose Dione. A. P. Younger and Tod Browning adapted the Colton play to the screen and Browning directed. William Fildew photographed.

Couzens Senatorial Committee Asked to Act in Tax Muddle

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The treasury department's "billion dollar" tax muddle, growing out of the sale of German marks by American banks was formally laid before the Couzens senatorial committee today for investigation.

Walter Holland, Washington attorney, who charged the banks with evading billions of dollars in taxes, demanded the investigation. He asked the committee to determine why the treasury department has failed to collect a 10 per cent currency tax levied against the circulation of all foreign money by the national banking act.

Treasury officials were in a fog of uncertainty today following the revelation that an opinion handed down by the solicitor general in 1893 held that the tax could be levied against the circulation of Canadian money. Holland contended the law would apply equally to German money. If the tax is ever applied, it would bankrupt every bank that has dealt in German marks.

Polish Actress Acquitted in Paris Of Killing Fiance

PARIS, Feb. 7.—Stanislawa Uminska, beautiful polish actress, was acquitted here today of the murder of her fiance, Jean Zyznowski, a writer, whom she declared she slew to end his suffering from an incurable disease.

Her acquittal followed a dramatic plea to a jury by the prosecuting attorney in which he declared.

"I neither ask you to condemn nor acquit, but I leave it to your conscience to decide whether justice should bow before pity."

months. He was appointed assistant at St. Malachi's church, Cleveland, remaining there one year, and then was transferred to Canton, where he was an assistant to Rev. P. J. McGuire, now deceased, who was pastor of St. John's church. He was stationed in Canton for eight years. He was appointed pastor of the St. Aloysius church here on Oct. 23, 1914, succeeding the late Father T. M. Smythe.

Erected Convent and Rectory.

Under his direction, a new convent for the Sisters of Mary was erected on a West Fifth street site, adjoining the St. Aloysius parochial school, while extensive improvements to the rectory, adjoining the church, have been under way for the last few months. He had also completed plans for remodeling the church.

Father Dunne is survived by his father, two brothers, Emmett, of Canton, and Joseph, of Salem, and three sisters, Mrs. Sophia Patton, Mrs. Ella Herman, and Mrs. Anna Shanabruck, all of Canton. His mother died about two years ago.

jibes could not shake the faith of Reidt in his prediction.

Midnight was the hour when, according to Reidt, the Saviour would make known his presence in the sky as a preliminary to gathering the 144,000 destined to be transported to heaven upon a cloud and wafting them away from a planet that would be at once a bog, a glacier, a huge pest house, and other things horrible.

Midnight came and went as it has done for thousands of years. There was to have been a tiny, foamy cloud frisking about the moon as the first sign of the big crack. This, if you believe the apostle's followers, was to have been followed by other clouds that would warp themselves up to the Reidt home, let the chosen get aboard and take them to heaven via Hollywood, San Diego and Jupiter.

Blames Movie Men.

Midnight found not a cloud in the heavens. The atmosphere was as clear as mountain water. Blinking stars had no vapors to pierce.

The moon was of the kind that turns love's heads. It was a beauteous night.

Five past midnight and no cloud.

At 2 Reidt gave it up, as a bad job. He toasted his wet socks before the stove in his bare home. He confessed having seen no Godly signs.

"The movie men spoiled it all," he grumbled, taking pictures and lighting up his place with flares and defiling it with "devilish smoke."

But, he brightened, doom has six more days to make good.

All Night Vigil in Prayer

CLEVELAND, Feb. 7.—After an all-night vigil spent in prayer, the little and of faithful Reformed Seventh Day Adventists, vainly waiting for the end of the world, dispersed to their homes today, their faith in prophets shattered, and grimly ready to take up workaday tasks after just getting a glimpse of the Elysian fields, the walls of Jasper and the golden paved streets of Paradise.

"I still believe in God, but I'm not certain about the prophets," one man declared. "The end of the world is coming soon, but I'll never believe another human being, who says he speaks with the tongue of prophecy."

John R. Kniper, one of the little handful of faithful here, realized his hopes. The "end of the world" came for him. Death came as he was sitting beside his wife, both heads bowed in prayer in the barren home.

Mrs. E. H. Frey, local prophetess, could not be found today.

For rescuing a cat by his teeth after he was lowered down a deep well, Harold White, a Headley, England, boy was recently awarded the medal of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

satisfied the probers, unless their stories can be made later to harmonize with known facts, Chester said today.

Student To Make Statement.

It became known today, also that investigation conducted by Chester into rumors that it was almost a common practice among some students at the university to take drugs as stimulants to "pep up" for examinations, had been inspired by university authorities. Chester said he had been advised by medical instructors at the university, that instead of proving a stimulant, as sought, strychnine in average doses, has the effect of deadening the faculties after the first burst of stimulation which follows immediately after taking the drug.

Nelson Rosenberg, son of Dr. Emmanuel Rosenberg, Cleveland, is to be permitted to make his statement today to the probers, permission for which he requested Friday. Rosenberg was to have been questioned further by the probers late Friday afternoon. When he appeared walking across the campus toward the pharmacy building where the inquiry is being conducted, after a long walk in the country to quiet his nerves, Rosenberg was faced by a battery of newspaper cameras. Unnerved he turned and fled across the campus and disappeared.

Canton Youth Recovering.

It was revealed today that still another angle had been pursued by Prosecutor Chester in his questioning of students when it was learned that some of those examined had been asked wether they were members of the Ku Klux Klan. All but one of the young men affected by the poison capsules were Catholics, and he was a Jew.

Ormund L. Weakly, Baltimore, Ohio, was identified late yesterday as the student who issued the poison capsules to G. D. Thompson, Canton. Thompson is now recovering in the university hospital. He identified Weakley at the hospital. It was shown that Weakley issued the capsules from the stock bottle and no blame is attached to him.

William E. Keyser, instructor, who accounted for the mysterious bottle, containing 300 grains of strychine, found hidden behind other bottles on the dispensary shelf, said today the bottle must have been stolen from a desk in the office where it was supposed to be kept.

Brushed By Hand of Death.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 7.—Probers who are investigating the deaths of two Ohio State University students at the hands of a poisoner will learn today how the moving finger of fate, ready to inscribe the name of a third student on the death list, trembled for a moment and passed on.

Fermant T. Brassseur, Lancaster, was brushed by the hand of death, but he lives today solely because Harold E. Gillig, Tiffin, chanced to suffer a convulsion just as Brasseur, watching at his bedside was ready to swallow one of the deadly strychnine capsules, which took two victims and narrowly missed accounting for three others. Dr. Wm. J. Gorey, who attended Gillig and brought him safely out of the effects of a dose of the poison, revealed the story today.

The innocent white capsule, which Brasseur had been ready to swallow, was found later and was turned over to college chemists. Analysis revealed that it contained nearly three gains of pure strychnine, enough to have sent Brasseur reeling to his death.

And today, students at the fraternity house still are marveling how the hand of fate hesitated and then passed over Brasseur.

House Challenge Over Postal Rates Accepted by Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The senate today accepted the challenge of the house over increased postal rates.

With indications pointing to acceptance by the house early next week of the higher rates approved by its postal committee, opponents of the measure in the senate announced they would propose sharp slashes when the bill comes over to the upper chamber for consideration.

The original senate postal rate and salary bill was refused by the house which brought out a measure of its own greatly increasing rates. The added revenue in the house bill over the senate was estimated at $30,000,000. The boosts in rates were added to absorb salary advances to workers.

NOME HOLDS OWN AGAINST PLAGUE

NOME, Alaska, Feb. 7.—This far northern isolated city is holding its own in a fight against diphtheria.

stitutes a situation that cannot long be ignored by President Coolidge in his role as commander-in-chief of both services.

Mitchell's closest friends in the service declare that he has decided to "sacrifice" himself and his position in order to cause an official shake-up that will inevitably lead to a greater air service. They confidently expect that Mitchell will be relieved of his post as assistant chief of air service by March 26, and demoted to a colonelcy, if, indeed, he is not courtmartialed on charges of insubordination and indiscretion.

The belief prevails that President Coolidge will have to make an example of the defiant brigadier—"for the general good of the service" to allow Mitchell to get away with such charge would it was pointed out, probably incite others to break disciplinary bonds upon occasion, resulting generally in a situation that would be bad from a morale standpoint.

But while President Coolidge may have to be hard with Mitchell, it is known, nevertheless, that not only he but also some of his most trusted advisers have a good deal of sympathy with Mitchell.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 — A thinly veiled rebuke for Brigadier General William Mitchell, assistant chief of the army air service, for his criticism of the war department's attitude toward aircrait development, was administered today by Secretary of War Weeks.

It came in the shape of a formal statement by Weeks, touching on the present controversy, in which he pointed out that the war department's policies since the war have been directed by the officers who won renown in the World war.

tition containing the names of at least 51 percent of the electors.

Four justice of the peace courts and the mayor's court in East Liverpool would be abolished. The court would have practically the same jurisdiction as the common pleas court.

Emmons predicted the passage of the Brown gasoline tax bill when it comes up for a vote in the house next Tuesday. He also said the bill had a good chance of being enacted in the senate, but predicted the vote would be close.

Donahey May Veto Tax Bill.

"In both committee sessions and party caucus meetings I have fought with the minority for a reduction in automobile license fees," Emmons said. "I believe that the proposed gasoline tax should be accompanied by lower license rates, perhaps $3 per year, but there is little likelihood of this amendment being approved.

"While I am opposed to the present license rate with the gas tax, I don't want it to be understood that I am against the Brown bill. I reserve the right to vote for this bill, should I feel that Columbiana county would be penalized in the distribution of road funds because of my opposition."

Emmons asserted that State Highway Director L. A. Boulay is fighting for the passage of the gas tax measure as a means of providing additional funds for road construction and maintenance. Governor Donahey, it is believed, may veto the measure. Should the bill meet with executive disapproval, Emmons said, there is doubt if the needed majority could be mustered to override the veto.

Deadly Dull

at times—a sort of grim farce of nature in which they are human automats.

But the digging goes on and on.

A laggard here is replaced with a fresh recruit. Methods of operations are changed to expedite the work.

Through the night, the "life or death" shaft through which Collins is to be brought out was dropped nine feet to a depth of 25 feet almost the half way mark.

Beside it the diamond drill had cut out a cylinder 46 feet long. This showed nothing but miscellaneous rocks and sandstone, all easily removable material. It has not yet penetrated to the beautiful vaulted chamber which Collins told his brother he had discovered and which, he said lay just beyond the point where he was trapped by a seven-ton boulder.

Additional Troops Arrive

The estimate of 72 hours, originally given as the length of time which would be necessary to sink the shaft to the point where Collins lies, had not been altered today. This would bring the actual rescue of Collins to some time late Sunday afternoon.

Twenty-five additional troops and major Carl D. Norman, of Frankfort, arrived for duty today and extra guards were assigned to the Sand Cave region as each hour brought additional visitors.

Unrest among the local denizens watching from the cliff surrounding the cave had about been put down, those in command said today, by the order of Lieut. Gov. H. H. Denhardt which barred John Geralds and the neighborhood under penalty of arrest.

The order resulted from disparaging remarks alleged to have been made by Geralds regarding the efficiency of modern methods now being used in an attempt to rescue Collins, his "buddy." Geralds, it is said, openly declared to all who would listen that if permitted he could have brought Collins from his underground prison in two more trips down the long, narrow passage. This statement was made, it is said, despite the fact that after a trip into the passage in the early morning hours of Thursday, he declared rescue by that means was impossible and that he would not make another trip into the passage where it was a "10 to 1 shot man would never come out alive."

Rain Is Feared.

It was Geralds who directed the early rescue efforts and who said who should and who should not make trips into the passage. With the arrival of state forces, he was relegated to the background with a Collins' brother, Homer. They had had their chance of effecting a rescue, the state believed, and had failed.

Then Geralds and Homer Collins adjourned to the neighboring hillside and there while state forces worked below, talked to groups of cronies gathered about them and told how they would have brought Collins out and how the new methods would serve only to jar down tons of rock on the victim and crush out his life.

Many listened to this line of talk and a wave of unrest, of lack of sympathy with these strangers who had come in and taken possession of their native hills and caves was rising rapidly.

The climax came when Geralds slipped past the guards and tearing away a canvas sealing the inner entrance to the passage placed there to protect Collins from gas that might filter in, made his way along the tunnel to an undetermined point. He was ordered out and told to keep away from sand cave.

Homer Collins came under the same ban and immediately arrest of any other fomenters of trouble was threatened by Denhardt.

There was a hint of rain in the dawn today and workers were casting anxious eyes skyward. Thus far, ideal weather has prevailed, but rain would turn the pit where work is in progress into a bog and materially hamper operations.

Scientific Summary of Situation.

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 7.—"Nothing has been found thus far and there is nothing in the formation of the earth or rocks in this vicinity which, from a geological standpoint, that is unfavorable to the possible rescue of Floyd Collins."

This was the scientific summary of Collins' rescue chances given today by W. D. Funkhouser, geologist of the University of Kentucky, who was sent here on orders of the governor to lend aid and knowledge of this cavernous country which he has often explored, to the rescue office.

The diamond drill, Dr. Funkhouser said, has brought up only the most optimistic reports. The little cylinder of rock, stone and earth which it cuts ou near the "life or death" shaft, thus far, has shown only sandstone which Funkhouser says can be "cut like cheese with the acid drills which are being used. No solid rock—the Bugaboo of the present operation—has been encountered. At the 46-foot level solid sandstone was struck.

The main value of the drill, Funkhouser said, was to give warning of an underlying cavern into which workers in the shaft might suddenly be plunged should they without warning dig to close to its roof. Nothing like this has been found thus far.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Three experts of the Bureau of Mines sent by Secretary of Interior Work to Cave City, Ky., to assist in the rescue of Floyd Collins, were ordered today to return to their posts at Vincennes, Ind.

This action was taken following the receipt of a telegram from C. A. Herbert, one of the government experts at Cave City announcing that the rescue work was progressing in such a way that there was little the Bureau of Mines representatives could do.

Priscilla Dean in the Season's Greatest Thriller!

Priscilla Dean brings to the screen the figure of Cassie Cook in the Universal-Jewel film version of John Colton's play, "Drifting," which was a New York stage success, produced by Wm. A. Brady. "Drifting" opens at the American theatre Monday.

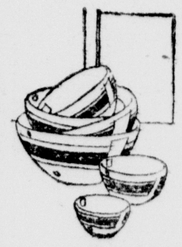

This role of Cassie Cook is emotional, dramatic to an extreme, like most of the roles Miss Dean plays. It requires all of the supern intensity for which she has become famous. The heroine is a leader in an opium ring operating at the very heart of the traffic—China—from the dens of Shanghai back to the very poppy fields. It is in a village nestling at the base of a hill in the poppy country that the most thrilling sequences of the story take place—and this is the China that Americans know nothing of. A complete Chinese village, several hundred Chinese extras and unusual scenic investiture make the the thrill elements convincing.

Among notable players in the supporting cast are Wallace Beery, Anna May Wong, the most successful oriental actress of the screen, Matt Moore, J. Farrell McDonald, William V. Mong, Frank Lanning and Mlle. Rose Dione. A. P. Younger and Tod Browning adapted the Colton play to the screen and Browning directed. William Fildew photographed.

Doctor Advised Operation Friend Said Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound First

St. Paul, Minnesota.—"I was all rundown from overwork and worry, had no appetite, could not sleep at night, and looked like a corpse. I have six children (five boys and one girl) and did not get any strength after my last baby was born. I was getting worse and thinner every day. The doctor said I had to go to the Hospital but this I could not do on account of my family. So I went to a friend of mine and told her what the doctor had told me and she said, 'Now do as I tell you. Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as I have done. It helped me.' So I started taking the Vegetable Compound and I noticed after the first few bottles that I felt considerably better. After taking 9 or 10 bottles I got over my fainting spells. Everybody who sees me now notices the great improvement in my health. I am gaining in weight and strength and am feeling fine. Eat well and sleep good nights. Any woman can write to me and I will answer her letter." — Mrs. MARY WILHELMY, 309 Duke Street, St. Paul, Minnesota.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1925.

Death of Rev. T. A. Dunne

Non-Catholics joined with Catholics today in mourning the death of Rev. T. Austin Dunne, pastor of the St. Aloysius church, and 20 years in the priesthood, who succumbed in the Mercy hospital, Canton, Friday evening, following a long illness.

Although his condition had been critical for several weeks, his demise came as a shock to his parishioners as well as hundreds of other friends in East Liverpool, where he had held a pastorate for many years.

On all sides and by all classes, tribute was paid his memory today as arrangements were made for his funeral, which will be held from St. Aloysius church Tuesday morning. He had endeared himself not only to people of his faith, but to many others outside the Catholic church by his devotion to duty, his humility and his affability.

His death is a great loss to the community.

"Made in U. S. A. Week"

East Liverpool is one of the cities cooperating in observance of U. S. A. Week—a week of appreciation of every article of merchandise made in the United States.

Of especial importance here because we are vitally interested in the prosperity of the pottery industry is the movement which is sponsored by the National Retail Dry Goods Association. Exhibits of American pottery products are to be displayed by member stores as a means of urging purchase of made-at-home goods.

The chief purpose of the campaign is to emphasize the fact that the American people are partners in the prosperity of their industries. If money expended is kept circulating in the United States, it will be turned back into the pockets of American craftsmen. The best in American table ware and other ceramic merchandise as well as fabrics and testiles is here for your choosing.

Keep the American factories busy eight hours of every working day, and fill the pockets of American workmen with a living wage. Let's make "Made in U. S. A. Week" one of the biggest and most prosperous in the history of East Liverpool.

Germs and Caves

There have been two great, true, "human interest stories" running in the newspapers lately. Day after day, one or the other of them has "led the paper." In the opinion of editors and readers, each was, for the time being, the most important news the world had to offer.

One story told of the rush, with dog sleds, over hundreds of miles of Alaskan ice, to carry diphtheria serum to the village of Nome, Alaska. The other told of the struggle to save the life of a cave-explorer in Kentucky, imprisoned by a fallen boulder in a small underground passage.

In each case, the news judgment of the editors was doubtless right and the response of the reading public was human and natural. The appeal of those sick children in Nome, and of the terrible effort made to reach and save them, touched every sympathetic heart and roused instinctive admiration for heroic deeds. What a movie that would have made! At Cave City there was equal heroism on the part of the rescuers, toiling until exhausted in the close darkness of what threatened to be a living grave, and equal pity for the victim.

And yet—there were but a few dozen cases of diphtheria at Nome, and only half a dozen children had died. There are always tens of thousands of American children grievously sick from avoidable disease, and hundreds of thousands engaged in killing toil, and hardly anybody getting excited about it. Every year there are scores of men killed unnecessarily in the stiffling darkness of mines, and nearly everybody else takes it just as a matter of course.

If we only had imagination enough to dramatize every-day dangers by wholesale instead of dramatizing an occasional, isolated individual danger, it wouldn't take long to clean up the world's plagues and plague-spots and preventable perils.

Just because a person is always talking is no sign he will develop into a fluent speaker.—Steubenville (O.) Gazette.

Haskin Letter

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

HOW THE VOTERS TURNED OUT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Leaders of the drive that was made to get the largest possible percentage of eligible voters to the polls last November are more encouraged now that they were early in December when the first unofficial returns and estimates of the total vote were made public. At that time it appeared that in spite of a nation-wide, nonpartisan campaign in which a score of organizations participated it would be found that proportionately a smaller number of voters had participated in the 1924 presidential contest than in that of 1920, and there was general disappointment over the showing.

Now, however, the complete official returns have been compiled and it is seen that the 1924 total shows an increase over that of 1920.

The increase is small, it is true, but it is an increase. When Harding and Cox staged their memorable struggle only 49.1 per cent of the eligibles, or 26,646,273 out of a total of 54,165,907, went to the polls. At the recent election the total vote was 29,138,935 out of a possible total of 56,941,584, or 51.2 per cent. Thus there was an increase of 2.1 per cent in the light of the increased population, while there was a percentage increase of 4.2 over the number of the voters who performed their duty as citizens in 1920.

This, as the National Association of Manufacturers summarizes it, safely took the election out of the class of minority representation and placed it in the category of majority representation in national government.

The showing is not enthusing when comparison is made with the percentage of the possible vote polled regularly in other countries, such as England, France and Germany, or when it is reflected that there were 2,795,677 more eligibles in 1924 than were in 1920 and the total vote cast was increased by but 2,492,662. The stay-at-homes of four years ago do not seem to have been brought out in any appreciable numbers, for all the work that was done on them. One organization alone distributed 25,000,000 stickers, folders and window cards urging voters to "Vote as you please—but vote!" and that represents only part of the effort and money invested in the drive. As an advertising proposition the campaign would not be rated a success. However, progress was made, and those interested in the movement say that that fact will insure its being carried on in 1928.

WYOMING HEADS THE LIST

Wyoming showed the greatest percentage increase—37.7—and wins the miniature overstuffed ballot box, or whatever prize may be deemed most appropriate. In 1920 51.4 per cent of that state's eligibles went to the polls, while last November 70.8 per cent performed. The gross gain is 19.4 per cent, as compared to population, but the percentage increase is almost twice that.

Mississippi comes second with a percentage increase of 36.1, Texas third with 27 and California fourth with 26.1. However, it is to be noted that Mississippi and Texas polled but 9.4 and 21.8 per cent, respectively, of their eligibles in 1920, and their figures for 1924—12.8 and 27.7 are not impressive.

In all 28 states showed percentage increases in 1924, although three of them were less than 1 per cent, while the other 20 states showed percentage decreases ranging from 35.8 for Florida down to .9 per cent for Idaho. South Carolina has the distinction, if such it may be considered, of having polled the smallest fraction of her possible vote—6.3 per cent, while Georgia ranked second in this respect with 11.3 per cent, and Mississippi third with 12.8 per cent.

The 20 states that performed more poorly in 1924 than in 1920 are Florida, Alabama, Tennessee, Arkansas, South Carolina, Maryland, North Carolina, Montana, Kentucky, Delaware, North Dakota, Virginia, Ohio, Louisiana, Maine, Arizona, Indiana, Missouri, Nevada and Idaho.

All parts of the country are represented in this list, so that it cannot be said that indifference to citizenship obligations is peculiar in any one section, although it is to be noted that the worst offenders are in the south. Strangely enough the states that made the very best records four years ago are included among those that slumped at the recent election.

Delaware topped the honor roll in 1920 with a percentage of 75.4, but dropped to 69.4 in 1924. Indiana was second in the Harding election with 74.1 per cent, dropping to 71.7 per cent when Coolidge swept the country, and Kentucky was third four years ago with 71.9 per cent as compared with 62.4 per cent for 1924.

STATE WITH THE BEST RECORD

It is an interesting feature of the vote analysis that the state which furnished the Democratic candidate for president in the recent campaign has the best voting record. West Virginia got 74.8 per cent of her possible voters to the polls last November, Indiana and Rhode Island being tied for second honors with 71.7 per cent, Utah ranking third with 71 per cent and Wyoming fourth with 70.8 per cent.

And not only was West Virginia out in front of her sister states at the recent contest, but her average performance of 37.25 per cent for the last two elections is the best of all. Indiana's average of 72.9 per cent entitles her to second honors, while Delaware is third with an average of 72.4.

This is considered by many of those interested as the best test of voting performance—the maintaining of an average that is so far in advance of the average for the country as a whole in the two elections, which was but a fraction over 50 per cent. These observers say that the percentage increase shown by a state is not important if its average is less than that for all the states. Such was the case with Mississippi and with Texas, both of which states were far below the 1920 average and were still far under the 1924 mark, although their percentage increases rank them second and third among all the states.

California made a conspicuous showing with a percentage increase of 26.1, but in 1920 she was below the national average with 48.9 per cent and her performance in 1924, 61.7 per cent, brings her average barely above that of the country as a whole for the two elections.

Thirty-two states exceeded the national average of 51.2 at the recent election. West Virginia, Indiana, Rhode Island, Utah and Wyoming made records of 70 per cent or better. North Dakota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Jersey, Kansas, Iowa, New Hampshire and Delaware were all better than 65 per cent, although under 70 mark.

Idaho, Nevada, Kentucky, New Mexico, Minnesota, New York, South Dakota, Colorado and California were the states that got out percentages of their possible votes ranging between 60 and 65.

Oregon, Nebraska, Vermon, Wisconsin, Massachusetts, Connecticut Washington, Montana, Michigan and Ohio all exceeded the national average of 51.2 per cent, but did not attain the 60 mark.

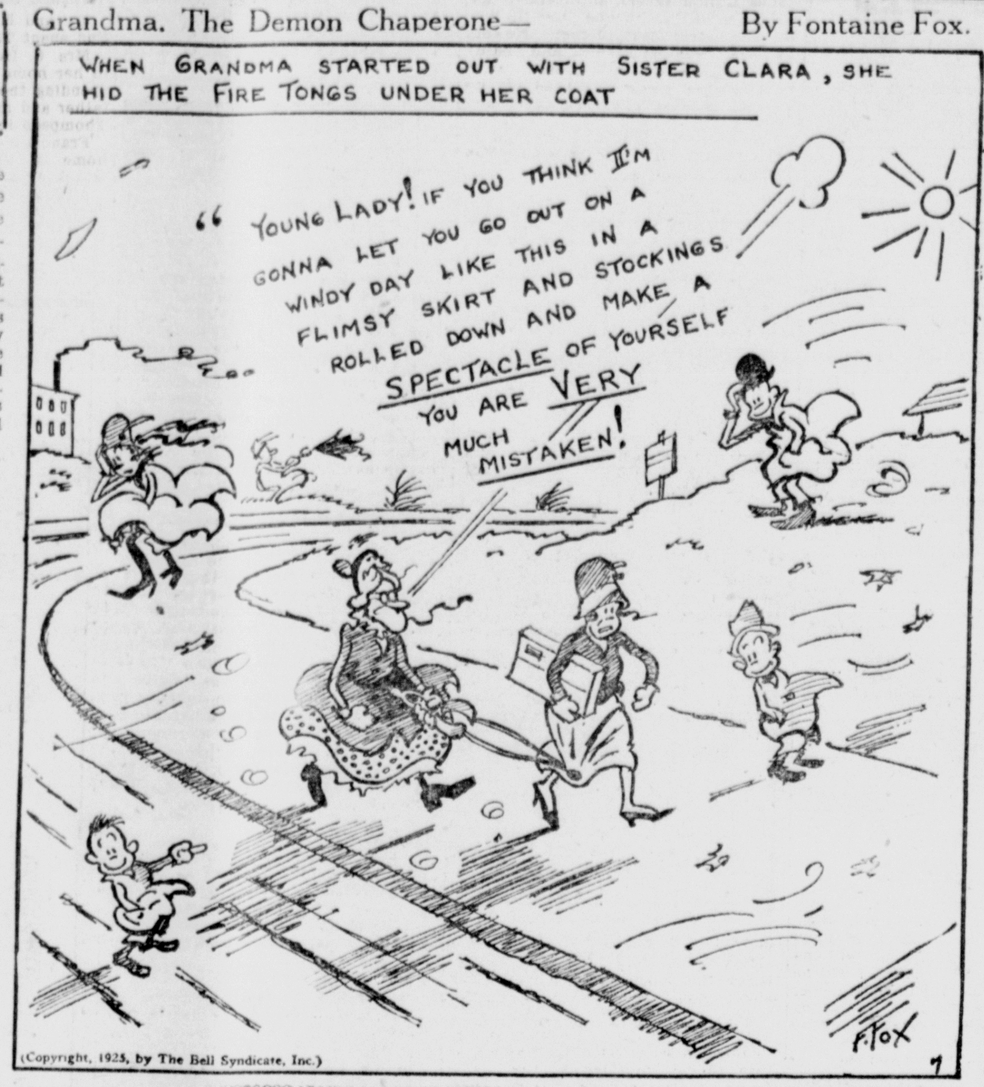

In the vote compilation upon which this analysis is based account is taken not only of the ballots cast for the three leading candidates for president—Coolidge, Davis and La Follette—but of all votes cast for all presidential tickets. In one or two states as many as nine candidates for the presidency were voted for, although it would be worse than a crossword puzzle to figure out who some of them were.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By CHARLES A. SMITH

LONDON, Feb. 7.—An international radio convention, attended by experts from all over the world, will in probability be held in Europe toward the latter part of the present year.

The convention, primarily, will be held to attempt to straighten out existing tangles in radio broadcasting and reception, which include interstation interference, due to the present method of indiscriminately giving stations wave-lengths without consulting other stations in the immediate vicinity, and the problems of marine broadcasting.

Radio experts on this side express the hope that American radio engineers and experts will be able to attend, for it is realized that the United States can teach European radio engineers a great deal about these matters.

The complete opposite of radio—the magic lantern—has been brought in to aid its younger brother. In future, when playlets are being broadcast from English radio studios, there will be no more rustlings of pages of manuscript being turned over in the midst of an impassioned love scene. All the players will read their lines from a screen at the end of a studio, the text being projected from a magic lantern.

Reports from Germany indicate that that country is rapidly forging ahead in radio broadcasting, and that more and more stations are being opened.

Radio tests carried out in the middle of the Atlantic ocean indicate that American stations are much stronger and are more regularly picked up than British and continental stations.

Wireless operators from many ships state that, while they have little or no difficultiy in listening-in to the American stations, it is very rarely that a British station is successfully heard.

It is proposed that this year's British empire exhibition shall have a complete radio section.

"Neither fatness nor slimness, in many people, is related to food, but is a constitution condition."

This is the conclusion reached by three European medicos—Drs. Strouse, Wye and Wang, who have been investigating why some people who eat little are fat, while others who eat a great deal are lean.

In a report of their investigations to the archives of international medicine, they state that they found that certain cases of obesity are undoubtedly due either to over-feeding or sedentary hibits, or a combination of both; but that, in others, there is neither excessive food consumption nor lessened expediture of energy.

They found that certain foods produced different results in different people—meaning that, whereas a certain starchy food would make one person fat, it would make another thin.

Feathers are the latest accessory to the English fashionable woman's wardrobe.

Feathered coats and cloaks and even feathered boots and feathered wraps, for evening wear, are the most striking features of the spring fashions.

The feathered coats are a combination of thick fur and feathers intermixed, while the boots are of the Russian style, with feather tops. Wraps are composed of ostrich feathers, closely interlaced, and giving a gossamer effect.

DINNER STORIES

The mayor of Squeedunk, who had taken it upon himself to address the seminary for girls, was also owner of the principal drygoods establishment of the town. At the conclusion of the address he gave the girls a little lecture on the importance of Squeedunk in the world's history and the necessity of town spirit.

"Before I go," he concluded, "has anyone a question to ask?"

Slowly and timidly one little girl raised her hand.

"What is the question, Sally? Don't be afraid. Speak out!"

The little girl fidgeted in her seat. Finally, in a desperate outburst, she put the question: "Mr. Mayor, please how much are those yellow gloves for girls you have in your window?"

He wanted a divorce, and had gone to a lawyer whose experience in the court rooms had done nothing to lessen his cynicism.

"I want to find out if I have grounds for divorce," he told the attorney.

"Are you married?"

"Of course I am."

"You have."

A wedding party was disturbed by the crying of a baby belonging to one of the women guests. One of the young ladies present remarked to the bridesmaid, "What a nuisance babies are at a wedding!"

"I should say so," returned the latter, and added, without very full consideration, "When I send out the invitations to my wedding I shall have printed in the corner, 'No babies expected.'"

An Englishman was teaching a Scottish business friend how to play golf. On the first tee he poured out a copious stream of instructions and wound up with the fine old maxim:

"But, remember, Sandy, whatever you do, keep your eye on the ball."

"I will that," said Sandy, who had just paid half a crown for it, "I dinna trust that caddie o' mine at all."

Mr. Jones purchased a fine Holstein cow, of which all the family were proud.

One day a visitor said to Mary, the three-year-old member of the household: "I suppose you have all the nice creamy milk you can drink now?"

"Yes," replied Marjorie, "since we've got our old steam cow."

A local real estate man tells this one. He was taking dinner with a doctor's family one evening when the phone rang. The doctor answered. Turning to his wife, he called in alarm: "Quick, get me my satchel. A man in a dying voice says he cannot live without me."

"Wait," said the wife, who picked up the receiver. "That call is for Edith."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Aside from Brisbane, there are few editors of New York newspapers known to the public. In fact, a group of active newspapermen recently attempted to write down the name of every editor in town. Not one could complete the entire list.

New York journals are now known, not by the editors, but by the publishers. When Frank I. Cobb, of the World died, the wife of Irwin Cobb, the humorist, received hundreds of letters of sympathy. They had never heard of the great editor of the World.

In the old days readers did not quote their papers as much as they did the editor. They would say "Bennett says today" or "Dana says today." The three names that stand out in the era of personal journalism were Greeley, Bennett and Dana.

The most picturesque of all in popular fancy was Bennett. Edward P. Mitchell in his memoirs says: "The younger Bennett, a tall youth, was seen often and admired reverently as the beau ideal of the man of the world and all around dare devil."

The public warmed to his nonchalance in exciting matters. Once when he was mixed up in a fight the Herald carried a first page story reading: "Bennett Thrashed Again!" Bennett did not care what his readers thought of him, but what they thought of the Herald counted.

Dana was described as well set physically, his generous brown beard and mustache tinged with gray. His not over-abundant locks were crowned with a cylindrical skull cap of embroidered silk—not a smoking cap, for he never smoked.

Greeley is described as having a round baby face with a fringe of whitish beard. He loved to ride horseback and people on Fifth avenue would see him jogging along. He wore no straps to his trousers and the legs of them would work their way up far above the knees.

New York has the longest and shortest ride in the world for a nickel. One may ride over 14 miles of subway tracks for a nickel. That is the longest. The shortest is the ferry trip to Plum Beach from the end of Emmons avenue, Sheepshead Bay. Plum Beach is a squatter's community with 1,500 inhabitants. The dinky little boat is called the Tonnerville Ferry.

Plum Beach is an interesting community of shacks that have crudely printed names such as the Chimney, The Manor House and The Oaks. It is government land. There are no streets, no lights, no swers or police.

The importance of New York as a movie center is illustrated by the fact that within the past six months more than 1,500 professional "extras" have come here from Hollywood, and a prominent extra employment extra declares that all have found steady employment. There is one old extra who has been appearing in the background for nine years. He says that he has never seen more than his forehead on the screen.

A bright little newsie with a heavy stock of midnight extras sold them like hot pancakes one night recently. The leading story concerned an East Side silk hat robber who was captured by the police. The lad stood at the entrance of a dancing academy on Broadway and yelled "Extra! Sheik With a Monocle Captured!" and every young girl leaving the place bought an edition.

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

GOLD AND JAPAN'S YEN

Japan is shipping gold to the United States to advance the price of the yen, now 25 per cent below par. The Japanese are able, excelling in industry, inventiveness, adaptation, capacity for hard work. Lack of gold would not destroy international confidence in the yen.

But such lack of confidence might come from the activity of Japan's flying machine factories.

A nation turning out 500 fighting flying machines a month has some ambitious plan in mind.

Failure to realize the plan would be disastrous to the yen, and some other things in Japan.

The western mind does not understand Japanese thought or prejudice. This was illustrated in Tokio recently, when an art loan exhibit included Rodin's statue. "The Kiss." The police interfered, not because the figures in the statue is naked, for nudity is not objectionable in Japan, where it has long been customary for men and women completely naked to bathe in tubs on the sidewalks.

The Japanese do not kiss and consider that a very objectionable custom.

The police compromised finnally by putting a screen around the statue, permitting only those of sufficient age and education to look at it.

In this country we should put a screen around the lady taking her bath in a little tub on the sidewalk, and let the Rodin statue stand exposed in any public park.

BUSINESS RULES, OF COURSE

Norman Hapgood, writing from Washington, says "Business now rules the nation." Why, certainly. This is a business nation; our powerful interests are business interests. Every country is ruled by its principal "interests."

Religion rules Tibet through the Grand Llama, and the tens of thousands of Tibetan monks.

Royalty, nobility and clergy ruled France in old days, before the revolution. Now the bourgeoisie—French name for business—rules France.

France has learned some hard lessons, and the bourgeoise calls in militarism, as a big brother, to help watch and ward while business goes on. That's simply imitating the western American bank, where you may see standing quietly in a corner of the lobby a man with a repeating rifle, waiting for any hold-up crowd.

In a grocery you find a grocer in command, in a hardware shop it's a hardware man. In a village of beavers it is some beaver that rules.

In this coountry of business, of course, business rules.

The only trouble is that this country may learn from Japan or some other country a lesson more severe than any the French have ever learned. After American business gets that lesson it will know more than it does now, and will probably have brains enough to protect itself.

American business is slow to protect itself, because protection costs money. The money must be raised by taxation. Big business that runs this country does not like taxation. It may like still less what will probably happen.

QUEER "MA" FERGUSON

Mrs. Ferguson, governor of the great state of Texas, justifies the opinion of some men that women in office "are queer."

Mrs. Ferguson wants to stimulate cotton production in Texas.

Masculine governors have had the same idea. Mrs. Ferguson offers prizes for the best five-acre plot of cotton grown in any convict camp. She selects the convict camp because it can be controlled and accurate returns obtained.

The "queerness" of the lady lies in this. She offers cash rewards for superior cotton production, and will pay the rewards out of her own salary. Many men in office will testify that such conduct is extremely queer and sets a bad precedent.

It is suggested that income tax payers be allowed to deduct from taxable income what they have to pay doctors.

If a man makes his income by using machinery he is allowed to deduct from income whatever he has to spend to keep the machinery in order.

The machinery used by a lawyer, merchant or mechanic is his own body and brain. If he has to spend money to keep that machinery in order and fit to earn revenue, of course, he should be allowed to charge that to "repairs" and deduct it from income tax. And, also, he should be allowed to deduct for each year of wear and tear a fair charge for depletion.

A coal mine owner charges off "depletion," because his mine is worth less each year.

What about the man whose mine is his brain? cause his mine is worth less each year.

If money expended is kept circulating in the United States, it will be turned back into the pockets of American craftsmen. The best in American table ware and other ceramic merchandise as well as fabrics and testiles is here for your choosing.

Keep the American factories busy eight hours of every working day, and fill the pockets of American workmen with a living wage. Let's make "Made in U. S. A. Week" one of the biggest and most prosperous in the history of East Liverpool.

Germs and Caves

There have been two great, true, "human interest stories" running in the newspapers lately. Day after day, one or the other of them has "led the paper." In the opinion of editors and readers, each was, for the time being, the most important news the world had to offer.

One story told of the rush, with dog sleds, over hundreds of miles of Alaskan ice, to carry diphtheria serum to the village of Nome, Alaska. The other told of the struggle to save the life of a cave-explorer in Kentucky, imprisoned by a fallen boulder in a small underground passage.

In each case, the news judgment of the editors was doubtless right and the response of the reading public was human and natural. The appeal of those sick children in Nome, and of the terrible effort made to reach and save them, touched every sympathetic heart and roused instinctive admiration for heroic deeds. What a movie that would have made! At Cave City there was equal heroism on the part of the rescuers, toiling until exhausted in the close darkness of what threatened to be a living grave, and equal pity for the victim.

And yet—there were but a few dozen cases of diphtheria at Nome, and only half a dozen children had died. There are always tens of thousands of American children grievously sick from avoidable disease, and hundreds of thousands engaged in killing toil, and hardly anybody getting excited about it. Every year there are scores of men killed unnecessarily in the stiffling darkness of mines, and nearly everybody else takes it just as a matter of course.

If we only had imagination enough to dramatize every-day dangers by wholesale instead of dramatizing an occasional, isolated individual danger, it wouldn't take long to clean up the world's plagues and plague-spots and preventable perils.

Just because a person is always talking is no sign he will develop into a fluent speaker.—Steubenville (O.) Gazette.

Haskin Letter

HOW THE VOTERS TURNED OUT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Leaders of the drive that was made to get the largest possible percentage of eligible voters to the polls last November are more encouraged now that they were early in December when the first unofficial returns and estimates of the total vote were made public. At that time it appeared that in spite of a nation-wide, nonpartisan campaign in which a score of organizations participated it would be found that proportionately a smaller number of voters had participated in the 1924 presidential contest than in that of 1920, and there was general disappointment over the showing.

Now, however, the complete official returns have been compiled and it is seen that the 1924 total shows an increase over that of 1920.

The increase is small, it is true, but it is an increase. When Harding and Cox staged their memorable struggle only 49.1 per cent of the eligibles, or 26,646,273 out of a total of 54,165,907, went to the polls. At the recent election the total vote was 29,-138,935 out of a possible total of 56,941,584, or 51.2 per cent. Thus there was an increase of 2.1 per ceat in the light of the increased population, while there was a percentage increase of 4.2 over the number of the voters who performed their duty as citizens in 1920.

This, as the National Association of Manufacturers summarizes it, safely took the election out of the class of minority representation and placed it in the category of majority representation in national government.

The showing is not enthusing when comparison is made with the percentage of the possible vote polled regularly in other countries, such as England, France and Germany, or when it is reflected that there were 2,795,677 more eligibles in 1924 than were in 1920 and the total vote cast was increased by but 2,492,662. The stay-at-homes of four years ago do not seem to have been brought out in any appreciable numbers, for all the work that was done on them. One organization alone distributed 25,000,000 stickers, folders and window cards urging voters to "Vote as you please—but vote!" and that represents only part of the effort and money invested in the drive. As an advertising proposition the campaign would not be rated a success. However, progress was made, and those interested in the movement say that that fact will insure its being carried on in 1928.

WYOMING HEADS THE LIST

Wyoming showed the greatest percentage increase—37.7—and wins the miniature overstuffed ballot box, or whatever prize may be deemed most appropriate. In 1920 51.4 per cent of that state's eligibles went to the polls, while last November 70.8 per cent performed. The gross gain is 19.4 per cent, as compared to population, but the percentage increase is almost twice that.

Mississippi comes second with a percentage increase of 36.1, Texas third with 27 and California fourth with 26.1. However, it is to be noted that Mississippi and Texas polled but 9.4 and 21.8 per cent, respectively, of their eligibles in 1920, and their figures for 1924—12.8 and 27.7 are not impressive.

In all 28 states showed percentage increases in 1924, although three of them were less than 1 per cent, while the other 20 states showed percentage decreases ranging from 35.8 for Florida down to .9 per cent for Idaho. South Carolina has the distinction, if such it may be considered, of having polled the smallest fraction of her possible vote—6.3 per cent, while Georgia ranked second in this respect with 11.3 per cent, and Mississippi third with 12.8 per cent.

The 20 states that performed more poorly in 1924 than in 1920 are Florida, Alabama, Tennessee, Arkansas, South Carolina, Maryland, North Carolina, Montana, Kentucky, Delaware, North Dakota, Virginia, Ohio, Louisiana, Maine, Arizona, Indiana, Missouri, Nevada and Idaho.

All parts of the country are represented in this list, so that it cannot be said that indifference to citizenship obligations is peculiar in any one section, although it is to be noted that the worst offenders are in the south. Strangely enough the states that made the very best records four years ago are included among those that slumped at the recent election.

Delaware topped the honor roll in 1920 with a percentage of 75.4, but dropped to 69.4 in 1924. Indiana was second in the Harding election with 74.1 per cent, dropping to 71.7 per cent when Coolidge swept the country, and Kentucky was third four years ago with 71.9 per cent as compared with 62.4 per cent for 1924.

STATE WITH THE BEST RECORD

It is an interesting feature of the vote analysis that the state which furnished the Democratic candidate for president in the recent campaign has the best voting record. West Virginia got 74.8 per cent of her possible voters to the polls last November, Indiana and Rhode Island being tied for second honors with 71.7 per cent, Utah ranking third with 71 per cent and Wyoming fourth with 70.8 per cent.

And not only was West Virginia out in front of her sister states at the recent contest, but her average performance of 37.25 per cent for the last two elections is the best of all. Indiana's average of 72.9 per cent entitles her to second honors, while Delaware is third with an average of 72.4.

This is considered by many of those interested as the best test of voting performance—the maintaining of an average that is so far in advance of the average for the country as a whole in the two elections, which was but a fraction over 50 per cent. These observers say that the percentage increase shown by a state is not important if its average is less than that for all the states. Such was the case with Mississippi and with Texas, both of which states were far below the 1920 average and were still far under the 1924 mark, although their percentage increases rank them second and third among all the states.

California made a conspicuous showing with a percentage increase of 26.1, but in 1920 she was below the national average with 48.9 per cent and her performance in 1924, 61.7 per cent, brings her average barely above that of the country as a whole for the two elections.

Thirty-two states exceeded the national average of 51.2 at the recent election. West Virginia, Indiana, Rhode Island, Utah and Wyoming made records of 70 per cent or better. North Dakota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Jersey, Kansas, Iowa, New Hampshire and Delaware were all better than 65 per cent, although under 70 mark.

Idaho, Nevada, Kentucky, New Mexico, Minnesota, New York, South Dakota, Colorado and California were the states that got out percentages of their possible votes ranging between 60 and 65.

Oregon, Nebraska, Vermon, Wisconsin, Massachusetts, Connecticut Washington, Montana, Michigan and Ohio all exceeded the national average of 51.2 per cent, but did not attain the 60 mark.

In the vote compilation upon which this analysis is based account is taken not only of the ballots cast for the three leading candidates for president—Coolidge, Davis and La Follette—but of all votes cast for all presidential tickets. In one or two states as many as nine candidates for the presidency were voted for, although it would be worse than a crossword puzzle to figure out who some of them were.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By CHARLES A. SMITH

LONDON, Feb. 7.—An international radio convention, attended by experts from all over the world, will in probability be held in Europe toward the latter part of the present year.

The convention, primarily, will be held to attempt to straighten out existing tangles in radio broadcasting and reception, which include interstation interference, due to the present method of indiscriminately giving stations wave-lengths without consulting other stations in the immediate vicinity, and the problems of marine broadcasting.

Radio experts on this side express the hope that American radio engineers and experts will be able to attend, for it is realized that the United States can teach European radio engineers a great deal about these matters.

The complete opposite of radio—the magic lantern—has been brought in to aid its younger brother.

In future, when playlets are being broadcast from English radio studios, there will be no more rustlings of pages of manuscript being turned over in the midst of an impassioned love scene. All the players will read their lines from a screen at the end of a studio, the text being projected from a magic lantern.

Reports from Germany indicate that that country is rapidly forging ahead in radio broadcasting, and that more and more stations are being opened.

Radio tests carried out in the middle of the Atlantic ocean indicate that American stations are much stronger and are more regularly picked up than British and continental stations.

Wireless operators from many ships state that, while they have little or no difficultiy in listening-in to the American stations, it is very rarely that a British station is successfully heard.

It is proposed that this year's British empire exhibition shall have a complete radio section.

"Neither fatness nor slimness, in many people, is related to food, but is a constitution condition."

This is the conclusion reached by three European medicos—Drs. Strouse, Wye and Wang, who have been investigating why some people who eat little are fat, while others who eat a great deal are lean.

In a report of their investigations to the archives of international medicine, they state that they found that certain cases of obesity are undoubtedly due either to over-feeding or sedentary hibits, or a combination of both; but that, in others, there is neither excessive food consumption nor lessened expediture of energy.

They found that certain foods produced different results in different people—meaning that, whereas a certain starchy food would make one person fat, it would make another thin.

Feathers are the latest accessory to the English fashionable woman's wardrobe.

Feathered coats and cloaks and even feathered boots and feathered wraps, for evening wear, are the most striking features of the spring fashions.

The feathered coats are a combination of thick fur and feathers intermixed, while the boots are of the Russian style, with feather tops. Wraps are composed of ostrich feathers, closely interlaced, and giving a gossamer effect.

DINNER STORIES

The mayor of Squeedunk, who had taken it upon himself to address the seminary for girls, was also owner of the principal drygoods establishment of the town. At the conclusion of the address he gave the girls a little lecture on the importance of Squeedunk in the world's history and the necessity of town spirit.

"Before I go," he concluded, "has anyone a question to ask?"

Slowly and timidly one little girl raised her hand.

"What is the question, Sally? Don't be afraid. Speak out!"

The little girl fidgeted in her seat. Finally, in a desperate outburst, she put the question: "Mr. Mayor, please how much are those yellow gloves for girls you have in your window?"

He wanted a divorce, and had gone to a lawyer whose experience in the court rooms had done nothing to lessen his cynicism.

"I want to find out if I have grounds for divorce," he told the attorney.

"Are you married?"

"Of course I am."

"You have."

A wedding party was disturbed by the crying of a baby belonging to one of the women guests. One of the young ladies present remarked to the bridesmaid, "What a nuisance babies are at a wedding!"

"I should say so," returned the latter, and added, without very full consideration, "When I send out the invitations to my wedding I shall have printed in the corner, 'No babies expected.'"

An Englishman was teaching a Scottish business friend how to play golf. On the first tee he poured out a copious stream of instructions and wound up with the fine old maxim:

"But, remember, Sandy, whatever you do, keep your eye on the ball."

"I will that," said Sandy, who had just paid half a crown for it, "I dinna trust that caddie o' mine at all."

Mr. Jones purchased a fine Holstein cow, of which all the family were proud.

One day a visitor said to Mary, the three-year-old member of the household: "I suppose you have all the nice creamy milk you can drink now?"

"Yes," replied Marjorie, "since we've got our old steam cow."

A local real estate man tells this one. He was taking dinner with a doctor's family one evening when the phone rang. The doctor answered. Turning to his wife, he called in alarm: "Quick, get me my satchel. A man in a dying voice says he cannot live without me."

"Wait," said the wife, who picked up the receiver. "That call is for Edith."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Aside from Brisbane, there are few editors of New York newspapers known to the public. In fact, a group of active newspapermen recently attempted to write down the name of every editor in town. Not one could complete the entire list.

New York journals are now known, not by the editors, but by the publishers. When Frank I. Cobb, of the World died, the wife of Irwin Cobb, the humorist, received hundreds of letters of sympathy. They had never heard of the great editor of the World.

In the old days readers did not quote their papers as much as they did the editor. They would say "Bennett says today" or "Dana says today." The three names that stand out in the era of personal journalism were Greeley, Bennett and Dana.

The most picturesque of all in popular fancy was Bennett. Edward P. Mitchell in his memoirs says: "The younger Bennett, a tall youth, was seen often and admired reverently as the beau ideal of the man of the world and all around dare devil."

The public warmed to his nonchalance in exciting matters. Once when he was mixed up in a fight the Herald carried a first page story reading: "Bennett Thrashed Again!" Bennett did not care what his readers thought of him, but what they thought of the Herald counted.

Dana was described as well set physically, his generous brown beard and mustache tinged with gray. His not over-abundant locks were crowned with a cylindrical skull cap of embroidered silk—not a smoking cap, for he never smoked.

Greeley is described as having a round baby face with a fringe of whitish beard. He loved to ride horseback and people on Fifth avenue would see him jogging along. He wore no straps to his trousers and the legs of them would work their way up far above the knees.

New York has the longest and shortest ride in the world for a nickel. One may ride over 14 miles of subway tracks for a nickel. That is the longest. The shortest is the ferry trip to Plum Beach from the end of Emmons avenue, Sheepshead Bay. Plum Beach is a squatter's community with 1,500 inhabitants. The dinky little boat is called the Tonnerville Ferry.

Plum Beach is an interesting community of shacks that have crudely printed names such as the Chimney, The Manor House and The Oaks. It is government land. There are no streets, no lights, no swers or police.

The importance of New York as a movie center is illustrated by the fact that within the past six months more than 1,500 professional "extras" have come here from Hollywood, and a prominent extra employment extra declares that all have found steady employment. There is one old extra who has been appearing in the background for nine years. He says that he has never seen more than his forehead on the screen.

A bright little newsie with a heavy stock of midnight extras sold them like hot pancakes one night recently. The leading story concerned an East Side silk hat robber who was captured by the police. The lad stood at the entrance of a dancing academy on Broadway and yelled "Extra! Sheik With a Monocle Captured!" and every young girl leaving the place bought an edition.

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

GOLD AND JAPAN'S YEN

Japan is shipping gold to the United States to advance the price of the yen, now 25 per cent below par. The Japanese are able, excelling in industry, inventiveness, adaptation, capacity for hard work. Lack of gold would not destroy international confidence in the yen.

But such lack of confidence might come from the activity of Japan's flying machine factories.

A nation turning out 500 fighting flying machines a month has some ambitious plan in mind.

Failure to realize the plan would be disastrous to the yen, and some other things in Japan.

The western mind does not understand Japanese thought or prejudice. This was illustrated in Tokio recently, when an art loan exhibit included Rodin's statue. "The Kiss." The police interfered, not because the figures in the statue is naked, for nudity is not objectionable in Japan, where it has long been customary for men and women completely naked to bathe in tubs on the sidewalks.

The Japanese do not kiss and consider that a very objectionable custom.

The police compromised finnally by putting a screen around the statue, permitting only those of sufficient age and education to look at it.

In this country we should put a screen around the lady taking her bath in a little tub on the sidewalk, and let the Rodin statue stand exposed in any public park.

BUSINESS RULES, OF COURSE

Norman Hapgood, writing from Washington, says "Business now rules the nation." Why, certainly. This is a business nation; our powerful interests are business interests. Every country is ruled by its principal "interests."

Religion rules Tibet through the Grand Llama, and the tens of thousands of Tibetan monks.

Royalty, nobility and clergy ruled France in old days, before the revolution. Now the bourgeoisie—French name for business—rules France.

France has learned some hard lessons, and the the bourgeoise calls in militarism, as a big brother, to help watch and ward while business goes on. That's simply imitating the western American bank, where you may see standing quietly in a corner of the lobby a man with a repeating rifle, waiting for any hold-up crowd.

In a grocery you find a grocer in command, in a hardware shop it's a hardware man. In a village of beavers it is some beaver that rules.

In this coountry of business, of course, business rules.

The only trouble is that this country may learn from Japan or some other country a lesson more severe than any the French have ever learned. After American business gets that lesson it will know more than it does now, and will probably have brains enough to protect itself.

American business is slow to protect itself, because protection costs money. The money must be raised by taxation. Big business that runs this country does not like taxation. It may like still less what will probably happen.

QUEER "MA" FERGUSON

Mrs. Ferguson, governor of the great state of Texas, justifies the opinion of some men that women in office "are queer."

Mrs. Ferguson wants to stimulate cotton production in Texas.

Masculine governors have had the same idea. Mrs. Ferguson offers prizes for the best five-acre plot of cotton grown in any convict camp. She selects the convict camp because it can be controlled and accurate returns obtained.

The "queerness" of the lady lies in this. She offers cash rewards for superior cotton production, and will pay the rewards out of her own salary. Many men in office will testify that such conduct is extremely queer and sets a bad precedent.

It is suggested that income tax payers be allowed to deduct from taxable income what they have to pay doctors.

If a man makes his income by using machinery he is allowed to deduct from income whatever he has to spend to keep the machinery in order.

The machinery used by a lawyer, merchant or mechanic is his own body and brain. If he has to spend money to keep that machinery in order and fit to earn revenue, of course, he should be allowed to charge that to "repairs" and deduct it from income tax. And, also, he should be allowed to deduct for each year of wear and tear a fair charge for depletion.

A coal mine owner charges off "depletion," because hsi mine is worth less each year.

What about the man whose mine is his brain, because his mine is worth less each year.

CHESTER TEAMS WIN TWO GAMES

High Squads Trim Toronto Passers in Exciting Floor Contests.

Chester high school basketball teams scored a double victory over the Toronto squads last evenings in games played on the Rock Springs park floor. The boys won out by a score of 23 to 18, while the girls had easier sailing winning by a margin of 16 to 7.

The boys' game was one of the fastest and most exciting witnessed on the local floor this season and was in doubt until the closing period of play when Chester showed a burst of speed and scored the points necessary for victory. The lead switched from time to time during the contest and the large crowd present was kept on the anxious seat until the finish.

Chester was the first to score when Pinney tossed a goal from the foul line. Kunzler tallied for Toronto with a field goal. He was fouled shooting and made another point from the free line. Chester tied up the score when Bennett shot a double decker from the center of the floor. Scott counted for the visitors on a free throw. Campbell scored for Chester from the field and the locals went further in the lead on points from the free line made by Pinney and Myers. The visitors again went into the lead on field goals by Kunzler and Hinkle. The first quarter ended with Toronto leading, score 8 to 7.

Toronto increased its lead at the start of the second quarter when Hinkle and Kunzler scored two markers on free tosses, and the latter counting from the field. Myers cut down the margin by a field goal. The game was knotted again when Myers and Cox scored points from the foul line. Burns scored from the center of the field giving the visitors the edge and when the whistle sounded the end of the half, the visitors were out in front with a two-point lead, score 12 to 11.

Bennett scored a field goal to open the third quarter deadlocking the contest. Burns scored a field goal for Toronto but Campbell's shot rang true and the locals again tied the score. Little more scoring was done in this quarter and when the period was over the teams were battling on even terms, score 15-15.

Chester went out and won the game in the final quarter. Bennett and Myers scored from the field while Burns kept the visitors in the running with a foul. The game was sewed up for Chester when Campbell came to the front with a field toss. Hinkle scored the final points for his team by scoring a field goal.

Credit for victory goes to the entire Chester squad as each member played good basketball. Campbell and Bennett were the scoring stars while the all around playing of Tuttle stood out prominent. Kunzler, Burns and Hinkle were the star performers for Toronto.

Chester girls had little trouble in winning as they led from the start to finish. The score at the end of the first quarter was 4 to 2. This was boosted in the second quarter while the game was clinched in the third quarter when the local girls run points in rapid succession. Chester girls played a strong defensive game allowing the visitors but one goal from the field. Miss Paisley was the high scorer for Chester. Misses Gibson, Burns and E. Tarr played well for Toronto.

BIDS SOUGHT ON NEW CHURCH

Sacred Heart Congregation Plans Erection of Structure.

Work on the erection of the new Sacred Heart Catholic church will be started in the near future, according to an announcement made today by Rev. W. J. Sauer, rector of the church.

Plans for the new structure were drawn seven years ago by Edmund Lang, an architect of Pittsburgh, Pa. Bids were received at that time but it was found that the price of construction was too high for the then existing parish. In the meantime the membership increased and it was considered advisable to make another attempt.

Father Sauer called a meeting of the church committee recently which was attended by E. V. Wehner, chairman; Chal Baxter, secretary-treasurer; Frank Switzer, William Hocking, John Kenney, Lester Wehner and Thomas Kurish. Following a brief discussion, an unanimous vote was cast to erect a new church.

Architect Lang is now residing in California and Albert Mader of Neptune avenue was chosen to execute the plans and specifications and will superintend the construction of the church. Bids for the work will be received by Mr. Mader.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, at bed time.

Star Cast Supports Betty Compson in Picture, 'The Female'

Betty Compson is supported by a unique cast in "The Female," her new Paramount starring picture directed by Sam Wood. The story is an adaptation of Cynthia Stockley's "Dalla, the Lion Cub." All of the scenes are laid in South Africa.

Heading the strong supporting cast are Warner Baxter and Noah Beery, Dorothy Cumming, Helen Butler, Pauline French, Edgar Norton and Florence Wix also have important parts.

There are other featured players who get no credit in the advertising, but they don't care. They are an assortment of lions, fourteen in number, ranging in sizes from tiny cubs to grown ups. All the zoos in Southern California were scoured by Director Wood and his assistants to find African lions of just the right size and temperament.

"The Female," which will be shown Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Ceramic theatre, is a story of a beautiful young Boer girl who knows no life outside the African veldt. She meets and falls in love with a handsome young Englishman far above her station in life. Men before always flocked to her, but this one is different. He is strangely cold and ignores her, and his people, the "Englishers," insult Dalla (Miss Compson). The rest of the picture is a gripping and unusually entertaining story of the carrying out of this girl's plans for revenge—against all the ultra-smart of the English colony in general. The picture closes with her completely winning over the young Englishman.

Warner Baxter has the leading man's role in the production. Noah Beery plays the part of Dalla's guardian. Others in the supporting cast include Dorothy Cumming, Freeman Wood and Helen Butler.

Belgrade's streets are to be paved.

CHESTER TEAMS WIN TWO GAMES

High Squads Trim Toronto Passers in Exciting Floor Contests.

Chester high school basketball teams scored a double victory over the Toronto squads last evenings in games played on the Rock Springs park floor. The boys won out by a score of 23 to 18, while the girls had easier sailing winning by a margin of 16 to 7.

The boys' game was one of the fastest and most exciting witnessed on the local floor this season and was in doubt until the closing period of play when Chester showed a burst of speed and scored the points necessary for victory. The lead switched from time to time during the contest and the large crowd present was kept on the anxious seat until the finish.

Chester was the first to score when Pinney tossed a goal from the foul line. Kunzler tallied for Toronto with a field goal. He was fouled shooting and made another point from the free line. Chester tied up the score when Bennett shot a double decker from the center of the floor. Scott counted for the visitors on a free throw. Campbell scored for Chester from the field and the locals went further in the lead on points from the free line made by Pinney and Myers The visitors again went into the lead on field goals by Kunzler and Hinkle. The first quarter ended with Toronto leading, score 8 to 7.

Toronto increased its lead at the start of the second quarter when Hinkle and Kunzler scored two markers on free tosses, and the latter counting from the field. HOME TRAINING

Contentment When Home is Realized.

The owner of a small fruit farm thought there were so many others much more favorably situated that he decided to sell his home and purchase elsewhere an ideal home.

He called in a real estate man and asked that he effect a sale immediately. It was agreed that a newspaper advertisement giving a full description would be advisable.

After an examination of the property, a complete description of the home was written in most glowing terms and it was handed to the client for his approval.

"I wish you would read that to me," said the owner, closing his eyes and leaning back in his chair contentedly.

HOME TRAINING

Contentment When Home is Realized.

The owner of a small fruit farm thought there were so many others much more favorably situated that he decided to sell his home and purchase elsewhere an ideal home.

He called in a real estate man and asked that he effect a sale immediately. It was agreed that a newspaper advertisement giving a full description would be advisable.

After an examination of the property, a complete description of the home was written in most glowing terms and it was handed to the client for his approval.

"I wish you would read that to me," said the owner, closing his eyes and leaning back in his chair contentedly.

After the second reading, he was silent for a few moments, and then said thoughtfully: "I don't think I'll sell. I've been looking for a place like that all my life, but until you read that description I did not know I had it. No, I won't sell now."

EIGHT DIVORCE RULINGS MADE

Judge Moore Holds Busy Session; One Case Held Over.

Eight divorces were granted by Judge James G. Moore here yesterday.

One case, which was given a partial hearing, has been continued and will have a final hearing Feb. 20.

Pauline Hawkins has been granted a divorce from her husband, Charles Hawkins, on her charge of gross neglect of duty. The plaintiff has been restored to her maiden name, that of Pauline Forbes. The original petition was filed by Attorney K. L. Coburn of Salem.

Claiming that his wife has been absent for three years or more, a divorce was granted to Charles L. Sharp against his wife, Rhoda B. Sharp. The action was filed for the plaintiff by Lones, Hill & Davidson of East Liverpool Dec. 5, last.

Alice McCommas, through her counsel, George Y. Travis of East Liverpool, has been granted a decree of divorce from her husband, Edward McCommas. She sought also alimony and custody of her children, both points being obtained. The court in this case has also ordered that the premises, subject to the mortgage thereon is decreed to Mrs. McCommas as and for her alimony, and McCommas is ordered to convey the title within 10 days or the decree of the court stands as and for such conveyance.

Gross neglect of duty was given as the cause for the filing of a cross petition in divorce in behalf of Arthur O. Short against Lillian May Short. The original petition was filed by Metzgar & McCarty of Salem in behalf of Short, but the court dismissed the original petition and the decree of divorce was granted the defendant on her cross petition. She was also restored to her maiden name Lillian May Banner. Alimony and property division has been agreed upon in this case.

On the grounds of extreme cruelty, Venia Gingher has been granted a decree of divorce from her husband, Joseph A. Gingher. The action was filed Dec. 4 last by Attorney E. P. Speidel of Alliance. The plaintiff has been restored to her maiden name, Venia Cook, and her husband has been divested of all dower or other rights in the property of the plaintiff.

Through her counsel, Cochran & Crawford of East Liverpool, Elizabeth Bailey has been granted a divorce from her husband, Floy Bailey, on the grounds of extreme cruelty. The custody of two children has been awarded the plaintiff, and the defendant has been ordered to pay his wife for the support of the children $10 on the 15th and 1st of each month, beginning Feb. 15. This case has been ordered certified to Judge Lodge Riddle in juvenile court.

Cochran & Crawford represented Letha M. Martin in her action for divorce against her husband, Harry A. Martin, which was filed August 19, 1924. On motion of the plaintiff this action has been dismissed from the record.

SALEM TO DEFEND DAMAGE ACTIONS

In the case of Hattie Rhodes, which was filed October 1 last against the municipality, and in which $10,075 damages was claimed as a result of the plaintiff being injured by falling on an icy street, the court has granted the defendant permission to answer immediately.

Bids for Surfacing Roadway Will be Opened Here Monday

Bids for the surfacing of the approximate six and one-half miles of the East Rochester-North Georgetown road in West township will be opened at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon by the county commissioners. Bidders will be required to deposit with their bids a certified check for five per cent of the amount of their bid.

The estimated cost of this road has been placed by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk at $176,676.01 for a road 14 feet wide and for a concrete top with a gravel course aggregate.

For a concrete top and using slag as an aggregate, the estimate of the county surveyor has been placed at $171,253.21.

For a concrete top, and using limestone as a course aggregate, the estimate has been placed at $183,25.65.

For a bituminous macadam road 14 feet wide, the estimate has been placed at $156,438.34.

Letting of contracts for the surfacing of this road will bring to an end a road "fight" that has continued in West township for many years. The road has been graded for three years, and has been approved by the State Highway Department.

TWO SUITS FILED HERE FOR DIVORCE

Claiming that her husband, Samuel Vogelhuber, of 42 Railroad street, Salem, enticed her into the barn on their property last Sunday for the purpose of doctoring a sick chicken, and then choking her and pounding her with a piece of a chair, Katharine Vogelhuber, through her attorney, K. L. Coburn, has filed a petition in common pleas court for a divorce from her husband.

A restraining order has been issued by the court against Vogelhuber from disposing of his property and $700 which his wife has declared he has secreted in their home, and he also was ordered to pay his wife $35 within 10 days and also $20 on the 15th and 1st of each month until further order of court.

Through her counsel, James R. Davis of East Liverpool, Fannie Weekly has filed an action for divorce against her husband, Alvie Weekly, whom she married Oct. 14, 1912. Extreme cruelty is charged as grounds for a divorce.

PETTY THIEVES OPERATING HERE

MRS. MILDRED HOLDEN

Portsmouth—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was a great help to me during expectancy. I was so weak and nervous, could not sleep or get any rest at night and my back hurt me all the time. I was as miserable as could be but after taking a few bottles of the 'Prescription' I felt well and strong. My nerves were good and I did not have any more trouble, could sleep and rest well at night. Motherhood caused the least discomfort I ever experienced and my strength held up good afterwards. 'Favorite Prescription is a wonderful help to women."—Mrs. Mildred Holden, 1120 Chillicothe St.

EIGHT DIVORCE RULINGS MADE

Judge Moore Holds Busy Session; One Case Held Over.

Eight divorces were granted by Judge James G. Moore here yesterday.

One case, which was given a partial hearing, has been continued and will have a final hearing Feb. 20.

Pauline Hawkins has been granted a divorce from her husband, Charles Hawkins, on her charge of gross neglect of duty. The plaintiff has been restored to her maiden name, that of Pauline Forbes. The original petition was filed by Attorney K. L. Coburn of Salem.

Claiming that his wife has been absent for three years or more, a divorce was granted to Charles L. Sharp against his wife, Rhoda B. Sharp. The action was filed for the plaintiff by Lones, Hill & Davidson of East Liverpool Dec. 5, last.

Alice McCommas, through her counsel, George Y. Travis of East Liverpool, has been granted a decree of divorce from her husband, Edward McCommas. She sought also alimony and custody of her children, both points being obtained. The court in this case has also ordered that the premises, subject to the mortgage thereon is decreed to Mrs. McCommas as and for her alimony, and McCommas is ordered to convey the title within 10 days or the decree of the court stands as and for such conveyance.

Gross neglect of duty was given as the cause for the filing of a cross petition in divorce in behalf of Arthur O. Short against Lillian May Short. The original petition was filed by Metzgar & McCarty of Salem in behalf of Short, but the court dismissed the original petition and the decree of divorce was granted the defendant on her cross petition. She was also restored to her maiden name Lillian May Banner. Alimony and property division has been agreed upon in this case.

On the grounds of extreme cruelty, Venia Gingher has been granted a decree of divorce from her husband, Joseph A. Gingher. The action was filed Dec. 4 last by Attorney E. P. Speidel of Alliance. The plaintiff has been restored to her maiden name, Venia Cook, and her husband has been divested of all dower or other rights in the property of the plaintiff.

Through her counsel, Cochran & Crawford of East Liverpool, Elizabeth Bailey has been granted a divorce from her husband, Floy Bailey, on the grounds of extreme cruelty. The custody of two children has been warded the plaintiff, and the defendant has been ordered to pay his wife for the support of the children $10 on the 15th and 1st of each month, beginning Feb. 15. This case has been ordered certified to Judge Lodge Riddle in juvenile court.

Cochran & Crawford represented Letha M. Martin in her action for divorce against her husband, Harry A. Martin, which was filed August 19, 1924. On motion of the plaintiff this action has been dismissed from the record.

JURORS SUMMONED FOR NEXT WEEK

SALEM TO DEFEND DAMAGE ACTIONS

In the case of Hattie Rhodes, which was filed October 1 last against the municipality, and in which $10,075 damages was claimed as a result of the plaintiff being injured by falling on an icy street, the court has granted the defendant permission to answer immediately.

In the case of the Fruest Freedman company against the Pascola Coal company, which is an appeal from a court of the justice of the peace, and for goods sold and delivered, the court has granted leave to the plaintiff to file an amended petition immediately.

Bids for Surfacing Roadway Will be Opened Here Monday

Bids for the surfacing of the approximate six and one-half miles of the East Rochester-North Georgetown road in West township will be opened at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon by the county commissioners. Bidders will be required to deposit with their bids a certified check for five per cent of the amount of their bid.

The estimated cost of this road has been placed by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk at $176,676.01 for a road 14 feet wide and for a concrete top with a gravel course aggregate.

For a concrete top and using slag as an aggregate, the estimate of the county surveyor has been placed at $171,253.21.

For a concrete top, and using limestone as a course aggregate, the estimate has been placed at $183,25.65.

For a bituminous macadam road 14 feet wide, the estimate has been placed at $156,438.34.

Letting of contracts for the surfacing of this road will bring to an end a road "fight" that has continued in West township for many years. The road has been graded for three years, and has been approved by the State Highway Department.

TWO SUITS FILED HERE FOR DIVORCE

Claiming that her husband, Samuel Vogelhuber, of 42 Railroad street, Salem, enticed her into the barn on their property last Sunday for the purpose of doctoring a sick chicken, and then choking her and pounding her with a piece of a chair, Katharine Vogelhuber, through her attorney, K. L. Coburn, has filed a petition in common pleas court for a divorce from her husband.

A restraining order has been issued by the court against Vogelhuber from disposing of his property and $700 which his wife has declared he has secreted in their home, and he also was ordered to pay his wife $35 within 10 days and also $20 on the 15th and 1st of each month until further order of court.

Through her counsel, James R. Davis of East Liverpool, Fannie Weekly has filed an action for divorce against her husband, Alvie Weekly, whom she married Oct. 14, 1912. Extreme cruelty is charged as grounds for a divorce.

PETTY THIEVES OPERATING HERE

Robbing of clothing of local and visiting basketball players while games are in progress has been common of late, but so far no arrests have been made. For several Thursday evenings in succession, during the progress of games in Lisbon, clothing has been robbed of cash, $19 having been taken from the clothing of players while a game was being played Thursday night.

Police are convinced that the robbing is being done by local talent and that the same thieves who rob the basketball players are the same who have been committing other petty robberies in Lisbon during the last few months.

What the Sunday School Is Studying

The Greatest Prayer in the Bible, Christ's Intercessory Prayer. International Lesson for February 8. —John 17:1-13.

BY JAMES H. SNOWDEN, D. D.

Jesus closed the meeting in the upper chamber with prayer. It is the greatest prayer in the Bible, majestic and solemn as a grand strain of music, in which he poured forth his desires for his disciples through all time. In the "Lord's Prayer" he taught us how to pray, but in this prayer he prays himself, and the two prayers are closely parallel. In the Lord's Prayer he taught us to pray, with a single exception, for spiritual goods, and in this prayer he himself asks for essentially the same blessings. The human soul is at its highest and best in sincere prayer, and here the Son of God stands upon the summit of his spiritual aspiration and greatness.

The Glory of the Son.

What was his first thought and petition? "Father, glory thy Son, that the Son may glorify three." Glory is one of the great words in the vocabulary of human speech and ambition and history. It has been a star that lured many men along the patch and up the heights of their ambition and it has determined national policies and fought wars and slain empires and shaped the centuries. What is this glittering dazzling thing? To many if not most men it means worldly pride and power and distinction, or wealth and fashion and pleasure. Such glory of God and of the Son is not physical although all created things were made by the Son and the very splendor of the heavens came out of him and is but a gleam of his glory. The higest and truest glory of Christ is his moral and spiritual excellence, the purity and beauty and splendor of his character, which is the highest as the praise of all the ages. Yet his prayer was not that his glory might be revealed for his own sake but that it might be reflected back upon the Father. The highest glory never terminates upon the self, after the manner of worldly glory, but is altruistic in its object and spirit, and the supreme object of praise is God himself.

Manifested Through Truth and Work.

Glory is an inner excellence that must be brought out and reavealed in its nature. The glory of the sun is manifested in its light which unbinds the imprisoned splendor of its internal fires and spreads it out in many colored beauty in cloud and rainbow, forest and garden, and in every flower and leaf. So the glory of the Father and the Son must be manifested and this is done through the truth and work of Christ. The love of Christ is redemption, brings out the inner nature and glory of God as grace and love going out in self-sacrifice to all the children of men. The glory of our human nature is manifested most fully and splendidly in the self-sacrifice men make for one another and the same spirit in Christ brings out the nature of God and most gloriously manifests it to the world. All the Christian grace and service, character and conduct in the world show us the nature and spirit of Christ as all the beauty of the earth shows us what is hidden in the fiery heart of the sun.

His Going Out of the World.

The thought pressing on the mind and heart of Jesus all through his prayer was the nearness of the end, the exodus that was just about to take him out of the world and usher him into the next room in his Father's many-mansioned house. He prays for his disciples especially, and then announces, "And now I am no more in the world," "and now I come to thee." It is easy for us to think that it would have been better for Jesus to have remained permanently in the world and carry on his supernatural work in person, but this idea rests upon a material basis. Not by such might or power can his kingdom come, but only through the invisible quiet work of his Spirit poured out upon all flesh and working universally in the world. The advantages of such spiritual influence compared with his local bodily work are overwhelming, and it was just as necessary that Jesus should go out of the world as that he should come in. His local presence would be attended with sensational excitement that would distract the world, but his spiritual presence now works universally and intimately even as the universal silent sunshine quickens all nature and makes the earth blossom and bear fruit.

The Unity of Believers.

Another thought that was dear to the heart of the Master as he was about to leave his disciples was that they might be kept in unity. Again and again he prays that "they all may be one." But has not this petition gone astray and been forgotten in our divided Christianity split into a hundred fragments often at war with one another? This is one of the most wasteful and painful aspects of our common Christianity and is the greatest weakness and scandal of the Christian church. We are not to suppose, however, that this unity for which Christ prayed is the political unity of the world-wide church organization. Such unity would be external and mechanical, whereas the true entity of Christianity is the inner unity of heart and spirit, the same kind of unity that binds Father and Son together in fellowship. This kind of unity is now growing in the Christian world and we can all cherish and practice it in our churches, and if we were to love one another in sincerity the waste and scandal of Christian disunity and strife would cease and we would fulfill the Master's prayer that "they all may be one."

LIVE QUESTIONS FOR DISCUSSION

1. Why did Jesus pray this prayer in the hearing of his disciples? What was the ultimate object of the prayer? What petition in the Lord's Prayer is represented in this prayer?
2. How can we manifest the glory of Christ?
3. Why should we pray for one another?
4. What can we do to promote Christian unity?
5. What does Jesus emphasize as most effective in winning the world to believe?

CLERICUS: Are there some who will go through life remembering you on your knees? Some who in their hours of greatest weakness and anguish, shall have been strengthened for victory by the faithfulness of your prayers? "I pray for them which thou hast given me," Jesus said. If we do not pray for our own—who will? pray, name by name, for our Bible classes, if we do not? Who will pray for the pastor in his spiritual ups and downs—till a "coal off the altar" burns his poor, longing, very human lips into power with God and men—who will if we don't? Who will do the interceding for a hungry, willful, spiritually uninstructed generation—if we don't? Hard? There is no harder, finer, rarer, more joyful Christian effort.

Lesson Prayer

O blessed Master, as thou didst pray for thy disciples and ever maketh intercession for us, teach us to pray with thee, that we may glorify thee. Help us to see that the greatest blessing thou canst give is fellowship with thee. Thou knowest our eager longing for thy richest blessing upon those whom we love in our home, and among our associates. Hear our prayers for them. Enable us to take thee as an example in prayer. May this lesson help us to look to thee with new wonder and delight. In thy dear name. Amen.

CHURCH ITEMS FROM WORLD

A survey of theological seminaries shows that one-half of the ministers come from the farm.

The Methodist Episcopal church gained last year 51,450 new members, according to the recently published Year Book.

The catecombs of St. Callixtus, in Rome, are to be especially properad for the throngs of pilgrims and tourists who will visit that city during 1925. The Roman Catholic Church has declared this a "Holy Year," which carries great significance to Catholics.

Broadway Methodist church, Cleveland, O., has a beautiful copy of Da Vinci's "Last Supper," painted by Armando Vindelli. It is said to be the best copy outside of Europe. The painting is the gift of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Stafford, generous friends of Broadway church. It is a memorial to Mrs. John Huntington, a prominent Christian worker of Cleveland.

Diamonds may be the most precious of all jewels, but they are not too valuable to give up for the cause of Christ's Kingdom. Recently Dr. Willis S. Rowe of the Richmond district of the Nort Indiana conference of the Methodist church was handed two fine diamonds, woth at least $300, to be sold and the money spent for special work in Africa.

An increasing number of American Jewish parents are dessirous of sending their children to study in the school of Palestine. In the last fifteen months forty-five were sent to Haifa, Jaffa, and Jerusalem schools.

The Hindus are a religious people, says a missionary at Venguria, West India. Everything they do is done in relation to their religion. Even tho the missionaries are forced to struggle against superstition and the malpractice of custom, they can always get a hearing among the people. They are not shy when there is talk about religion, for it is part of their everyday life.

Ohio Wesleyan university boasts of its Big Five included in the list of the twenty-five most influential living American preachers as selected by the votes of 21,843 ministers polled by the Christian Century. Bishop E. H. Hughes, of Chicago; Bishop F. J. McConnell of Pittsburgh, Bishop W. F. McDowell of Washington, Dr. Charles E. Jefferson, New York; Dr. Ernest E. Tittle, Evanston, Ill., are the Big Five.

691,833 boys and men actively associated with 21,751 troops will celebrate the Fifteenth anniversary of the incorporation of the Boy Scouts of America, February 8-14. Business Men's clubs,—Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis; the churches of the land; the schools; public officials in city, state and nation—all will take part in the chief annual event in scouting.

Protestant religious forces of Bridgeport, Connecticut,—the birthplace and home at the time of her death of Fanny J. Crosby—have united to carry out her wish that there be established as a memorial to her a home for the aged. To this end the memorial committee of Bridgeport has prepared a Fanny Crosby Memorial Pageant suitable for presentation ata Sunday evening or week night service. It is suggested that Sunday, March 22 (March 23 being Mrs. Crosby's birthday) or some evening soon thereafter be used for this purpose a portion of the offering being contributed to the Fanny Crosby Memorial Home.

Dog Goes 3,000 Miles to Home.

During the Fall of 1923 Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Runyan of Oriska, N. D., moved to Southern California, taking with them their dog, seven years old. Recently the dog disappeared from their new home, and diligent search with the aid of ads in the newspapers failed to return him. The dog has shown up at his old home in Oriska, having apparently traveled the entire distance on foot in about two months. It is believed he covered at least 3,000 miles.

Again—Do Not Expect Long Trading Allowances on Any Used Car When You Come to Buy a Chrysler

This statement of eight months ago is repeated in justice to Chrysler distributors and dealers, who cannot in fairness be expected to penalize themselves by making long allowances, merely because the Chrysler may have depreciated the value of other cars.

A car may be a very good car indeed and still it will lack the riding, driving, braking, accelerating, power and speed qualities which thrill the owner of a Chrysler Six.

As we said in June of last year, those qualities are so valuable and mean so much in efficiency and economy that you could well afford to discard the used car without compensation for the sake of the amazing activity of performance and the saving the Chrysler will bring you.

Even if another car originally cost you twice as much, the burden you escape when you acquire a Chrysler—the substitution of more agile and satisfying performance and the stoppage of waste—will more than compensate you.

Months ago we said that because of these unusual Chrysler qualities, the Chrysler was invading all markets and especially those of much higher price.

We also said that the enthusiasm of the public over the Chrysler was certain to affect all motor cars and ultimately all motor car design.

The change in (internal) design has not yet come. Until it does, there is no possibility for anyone who wants Chrysler results to make a comparison between the Chrysler and other cars, whether they be used or new.

It is all a question of whether you want the qualities which the Chrysler alone provides.

If you do, then it is perfectly clear that you cannot compare the value of another used car or any other new car with the value of the Chrysler.

Neither higher prices nor lower prices nor long allowances have anything to do with the fact that there is still only one Chrysler and that it delivers results which no other car delivers.

This is no reflection on any good car. It is simply a statement of facts which every Chrysler owner knows.

What the Sunday School Is Studying

The Greatest Prayer in the Bible, Christ's Intercessory Prayer. International Lesson for February 8. —John 17:1-13.

BY JAMES H. SNOWDEN, D. D.

Jesus closed the meeting in the upper chamber with prayer. It is the greatest prayer in the Bible, majestic and solemn as a grand strain of music, in which he poured forth his desires for his disciples through all time. In the "Lord's Prayer" he taught us how to pray, but in this prayer he prays himself, and the two prayers are closely parallel. In the Lord's Prayer he taught us to pray, with a single exception, for spiritual goods, and in this prayer he himself asks for essentially the same blessings. The human soul is at its highest and best in sincere prayer, and here the Son of God stands upon the summit of his spiritual aspiration and greatness.

The Glory of the Son.

What was his first thought and petition? "Father, glory thy Son, that the Son may glorify three." Glory is one of the great words in the vocabulary of human speech and ambition and history. It has been a star that lured many men along the patch and up the heights of their ambition and it has determined national policies and fought wars and slain empires and shaped the centuries. What is this glittering dazzling thing? To many if not most men it means worldly pride and power and distinction, or wealth and fashion and pleasure. Such glory of God and of the Son is not physical although all created things were made by the Son and the very splendor of the heavens came out of him and is but a gleam of his glory. The higest and truest glory of Christ is his moral and spiritual excellence, the purity and beauty and splendor of his character, which is the highest as the praise of all the ages. Yet his prayer was not that his glory might be revealed for his own sake but that it might be reflected back upon the Father. The highest glory never terminates upon the self, after the manner of worldly glory, but is altruistic in its object and spirit, and the supreme object of praise is God himself.

Manifested Through Truth and Work.

Glory is an inner excellence that must be brought out and reavealed in its nature. The glory of the sun is manifested in its light which unbinds the imprisoned splendor of its internal fires and spreads it out in many colored beauty in cloud and rainbow, forest and garden, and in every flower and leaf. So the glory of the Father and the Son must be manifested and this is done through the truth and work of Christ. The love of Christ is redemption, brings out the inner nature and glory of God as grace and love going out in self-sacrifice to all the children of men. The glory of our human nature is manifested most fully and splendidly in the self-sacrifice men make for one another and the same spirit in Christ brings out the nature of God and most gloriously manifests it to the world. All the Christian grace and service, character and conduct in the world show us the nature and spirit of Christ as all the beauty of the earth shows us what is hidden in the fiery heart of the sun.

His Going Out of the World.

The thought pressing on the mind and heart of Jesus all through his prayer was the nearness of the end, the exodus that was just about to take him out of the world and usher him into the next room in his Father's many-mansioned house. He prays for his disciples especially, and then announces, "And now I am no more in the world," "and now I come to thee." It is easy for us to think that it would have been better for Jesus to have remained permanently in the world and carry on his supernatural work in person, but this idea rests upon a material basis. Not by such might or power can his kingdom come, but only through the invisible quiet work of his Spirit poured out upon all flesh and working universally in the world. The advantages of such spiritual influence compared with his local bodily work are overwhelming, and it was just as necessary that Jesus should go out of the world as that he should come in. His local presence would be attended with sensational excitement that would distract the world, but his spiritual presence now works universally and intimately even as the universal silent sunshine quickens all nature and makes the earth blossom and bear fruit.

The Unity of Believers.

Another thought that was dear to the heart of the Master as he was about to leave his disciples was that they might be kept in unity. Again and again he prays that "they all may be one." But has not this petition gone astray and been forgotten in our divided Christianity split into a hundred fragments often at war with one another? This is one of the most wasteful and painful aspects of our common Christianity and is the greatest weakness and scandal of the Christian church. We are not to suppose, however, that this unity for which Christ prayed is the political unity of the world-wide church organization. Such unity would be external and mechanical, whereas the true entity of Christianity is the inner unity of heart and spirit, the same kind of unity that binds Father and Son together in fellowship. This kind of unity is now growing in the Christian world and we can all cherish and practice it in our churches, and if we were to love one another in sincerity the waste and scandal of Christian disunity and strife would cease and we would fulfill the Master's prayer that "they all may be one."

LIVE QUESTIONS FOR DISCUSSION

1. Why did Jesus pray this prayer in the hearing of his disciples? What was the ultimate object of the prayer? What petition in the Lord's Prayer is represented in this prayer?
2. How can we manifest the glory of Christ?
3. Why should we pray for one another?
4. What can we do to promote Christian unity?
5. What does Jesus emphasize as most effective in winning the world to believe?

CLERICUS: Are there some who will go through life remembering you on your knees? Some who in their hours of greatest weakness and anguish, shall have been strengthened for victory by the faithfulness of your prayers? "I pray for them which thou hast given me," Jesus said. If we do not pray for our own—who will? pray, name by name, for our Bible classes, if we do not? Who will pray for the pastor in his spiritual ups and downs—till a "coal off the altar" burns his poor, longing, very human lips into power with God and men—who will if we don't? Who will do the interceding for a hungry, willful, spiritually uninstructed generation—if we don't? Hard? There is no harder, finer, rarer, more joyful Christian effort.

CHRYSLER SIX

By Elizabeth Dejeans

Karesia was a good craftswoman; in her intense interest in the story she did not forget the masterly way in which Dascome used words to express his meaning, how he built his sentences and constructed his chapters; Dascome was a natural craftsman; Karesia did not detect a single crudity. A gift such as this lying idle through all those years! The wonderful capacity to give joy to the many!

Karesia had forsaken her divan. When Dascome came in, she was seated on the hearthrug before a red fire, cheeks flushed, eyes intent, and chapters scattered about her; she was still reading. She glanced up vaguely. "I haven't finished," she said, and went on reading.

Dascome rebuilt the fire, moving cautiously, then seated himself. He looked down at her bent head, the foreshortened view of her absorbed face. He watched the swift way in which she laid a chapter down and took up another; her changing expressions, lips now tight, now faintly smiling, occasionally a sound that was not quite a word, something said under her breath. Dascome sat silent and motionless, but he wore the look of the man who has just given of his entire being to a woman and drops his head upon her breast; love's final tribute, a great peace.

Karesia had finished. She laid the last chapter down and sat quite still, looking into the fire for long moments. Then she looked up at Dascome and he looked at her as if he had stirred out of sleep to ask a question of lips bent to his. She simply held out her arms to him and he drew her into his.

"I love it—so will others. You have the great gift."

"You like—it?" he asked very low.

XXXV

It was late when Dascome left her, yet Karesia could not sleep. She was too completely happy, breathless and excited; she had discovered a genius. She felt somewhat as Rossiter had felt when he had discovered Clarice.

The effect upon Karesia was a tremendous urge to work; to prepare for it that night and begin early in the morning. During these days of absence from her typewriter, her brain had not been idle, a story had been growing in it, it was shaping out of the nebulous. It gripped her now; she would get it on paper; there were the long morning hours when she and Dascome were not together.

Karesia cleared her desk of trifles, uncovered her typewriter and dusted it, then began to take out of the desk drawers the things she always had about her when working. Her boxes of typewriter paper were in one of the desk compartments. On top of the boxes was the bundle of papers she had brought from the storehouse, a slovenly package; in her haste to get to Rossiter's dinner, she had put the package in the desk and had not thought of it since; there had been so much else to think about.

Karesia decided to unwrap it and put the contents in a drawer; the papers were ink-stained and soiled, but they were part of a record and should be kept. She opened the package and took out the ink-stained newspapers, one by one, and put them in a drawer. Between two of the papers was a square of cardboard, evidently the back of a photograph, and there was something written on it. Karesia read, with a feeling of sadness and pity, its simple message:

To John, with love,
From Elaine.

Evidently its was a photograph his wife had given Dascome. Karesia turned it over. In this photograph, Elaine Dascome looked older than in her portrait, cheeks thinner and eyes not so widely open nor so bright. The ink that had saturated the papers haid stained the photograph, darkening one side of the face. The blot extended from the corner of the mouth over one cheek, across the corner of the eye and up to the temple, giving the face a distorted expression. The photograph had faded, the other side of the face looked bleached, an ivory-white. At first Karesia looked at it blankly, as one looks at an unexpected desecration, then with a creeping sense of shock, then with the impact of a possibility that lifted her to her feet as might a deafening explosion.

There are those who in any stress think first of those they love; of themselves last. Kersia's first feeling was an immense joy mingled with the tensest excitement; could it be? Was it possible? It was possible! It was probable! Mary Bliss—this face more aged and sunken and wrinkled, the distorted expression! The resemblance was there. Oh, had she not told Dascome that in some unexpected way it would be made clear! All those who had not believed in him would be confounded. Thoughts zigzagged like lightning through Karesia's brain; it was a plot against Dascome! That Atwell! They had not killed Elaine, they had dragged her away from the lake and had ill-treated her and disfigured her, driven her mad with fear. Then perhaps she had escaped them and had begun to wander, had grown old and bent, a prematurely old woman? No, more likely, Atwell had told her that her name was Mary Bliss—he must have known the half-witted girl who had grown up in the asylum in Montreal! The sentence, "My name is Mary Bliss and I grew up in an orphan asylum in Montreal," was not written by Mary Bliss, for she had helped Mary Bliss write in her little book, "Sonya Karesia Kaima," and she had noticed that the handwriting was not the same. They had turned her loose then to wander, knowing that no one would ever recognize her. . . . But that couldn't be! She was simply losing her own mind over a strange resemblance, for they had identified the body found in the lake. It couldn't be; she had been startled, swept off her feet by an uncanny resemblance.

The vicar's daughter was very enthusiastic and appreciative about the new curate, and when she called on an elderly woman of nearly 80 for afternoon tea, she soon turned the conversation in his direction.

"You know," she said, "he is capable in so many ways. But what I like about him most of all is that he is a true altruist."

"Well, I'm surprised to hear that, exclaimed the hostess, "for I heard him singing last Sunday, and I could declare he was a tenor."

Karesia was a good craftswoman; in her intense interest in the story she did not forget the masterly way in which Dascome used words to express his meaning, how he built his sentences and constructed his chapters; Dascome was a natural craftsman; Karesia did not detect a single crudity. A gift such as this lying idle through all those years! The wonderful capacity to give joy to the many!

Karesia had forsaken her divan. When Dascome came in, she was seated on the hearthrug before a red fire, cheeks flushed, eyes intent, and chapters scattered about her; she was still reading. She glanced up vaguely. "I haven't finished," she said, and went on reading.

Dascome rebuilt the fire, moving cautiously, then seated himself. He looked down at her bent head, the foreshortened view of her absorbed face. He watched the swift way in which she laid a chapter down and took up another; her changing expressions, lips now tight, now faintly smiling, occasionally a sound that was not quite a word, something said under her breath. Dascome sat silent and motionless, but he wore the look of the man who has just given of his entire being to a woman and drops his head upon her breast; love's final tribute, a great peace.

Karesia had finished. She laid the last chapter down and sat quite still, looking into the fire for long moments. Then she looked up at Dascome and he looked at her as if he had stirred out of sleep to ask a question of lips bent to his. She simply held out her arms to him and he drew her into his.

"I love it—so will others. You have the great gift."

"You like—it?" he asked very low.

XXXV

It was late when Dascome left her, yet Karesia could not sleep. She was too completely happy, breathless and excited; she had discovered a genius. She felt somewhat as Rossiter had felt when he had discovered Clarice.

The effect upon Karesia was a tremendous urge to work; to prepare for it that night and begin early in the morning. During these days of absence from her typewriter, her brain had not been idle, a story had been growing in it, it was shaping out of the nebulous. It gripped her now; she would get it on paper; there were the long morning hours when she and Dascome were not together.

Karesia cleared her desk of trifles, uncovered her typewriter and dusted it, then began to take out of the desk drawers the things she always had about her when working. Her boxes of typewriter paper were in one of the desk compartments. On top of the boxes was the bundle of papers she had brought from the storehouse, a slovenly package; in her haste to get to Rossiter's dinner, she had put the package in the desk and had not thought of it since; there had been so much else to think about.

Karesia decided to unwrap it and put the contents in a drawer; the papers were ink-stained and soiled, but they were part of a record and should be kept. She opened the package and took out the ink stained newspapers, one by one, and put them in a drawer. Between two of the papers was a square of cardboard, evidently the back of a photograph, and there was something written on it. Karesia read, with a feeling of sadness and pity, its simple message:

To John, with love,
From Elaine.

Evidently its was a photograph his wife had given Dascome. Karesia turned it over. In this photograph, Elaine Dascome looked older than in her portrait, cheeks thinner and eyes not so widely open nor so bright. The ink that had saturated the papers haid stained the photograph, darkening one side of the face. The blot extended from the corner of the mouth over one cheek, across the corner of the eye and up to the temple, giving the face a distorted expression. The photograph had faded, the other side of the face looked bleached, an ivory-white. At first Karesia looked at it blankly, as one looks at an unexpected desecration, then with a creeping sense of shock, then with the impact of a possibility that lifted her to her feet as might a deafening explosion.

There are those who in any stress think first of those they love; of themselves last. Kersia's first feeling was an immense joy mingled with the tensest excitement; could it be? Was it possible? It was possible! It was probable! Mary Bliss—this face more aged and sunken and wrinkled, the distorted expression! The resemblance was there. Oh, had she not told Dascome that in some unexpected way it would be made clear! All those who had not believed in him would be confounded. Thoughts zigzagged like lightning through Karesia's brain; it was a plot against Dascome! That Atwell! They had not killed Elaine, they had dragged her away from the lake and had ill-treated her and disfigured her, driven her mad with fear. Then perhaps she had escaped them and had begun to wander, had grown old and bent, a prematurely old woman? School Court Teams Divide With Lisbon Passers

Frank Carbone Enlists.
Is Now a Horse Soldier.
Also Boxing Instructor.
"Fighting Billy's" Town.
More About Baseball.

By DAMON RUNYON.
Copyright, 1925, International Feature Syndicate.

FRANK CARBONE, hard-bitten middleweight of long experience, has enlisted in the Eighth Cavalry at Fort Bliss, as the writer learns from an El Paso newspaper passing through that interesting city.

One of Carbone's last appearances in New York was against "Punch-'em" Paul Berlenbach. In fact, it was Berlenbach's defeat of Carbone that made the Astoria slugger's reputation. It was his first showing against a fighter of any reputation in Madison Square Garden.

Carbone had stood off some of the best middleweights and light heavyweights in the country. Those who knew his ability were betting on him to beat Berlenbach. The Astoria Ox was crue. He knew little about boxing. The Carbone bout was his big test.

Before the fight the writer asked Dan Hickey, Berlenbach's manager and trainer, what he thought of the outcome.

"Well," Hickey said, "Paul hasn't been learning things rapidly enough to suit me. He's got to box this fellow tonight five rounds, then I'll give him his head."

Immediately after being "given his head" Berlenbach walked out and stopped Carbone. It was an impressive showing for a youngster.

Carbone is to act as instructor and trainer for the boxers of the Eighth Cavalry. It seems that he is through with the ring.

Like the American sailors, our soldiers are keen on boxing. Every outfit has its stars. At Fort Bliss there are a number of fairly good men who are expected to improve under Carbone's direction.

The trouble with the average army and navy boxer is lack of training, no matter how great his natural ability. They have little time for training, to begin with, and no knowledge of HOW to train.

A few professional boxers scattered throughout the army and navy, as during the war, would make a big difference in ringmen of the service.

The train on which the writer is traveling passed through Tucson, Arizona.

This is the seat of a little pugilistic colony of health seekers unless it has quite recently disbanded.

Among them is "Fighting Billy" Murray, a real good middleweight of a few years ago. He was managed by Jack Kearns, now the manager of a world's champion.

Kearns campaigned Murray all over the country. Kearns claims "Fighting Billy" gave Tom Gibbons a slathering in a bout at Hudson, Wis. In any event, Murray was one of the best of his time.

The celebrated Spider Kelly, one of the greatest characters ever connected with the boxing game, also was living in Tucson the last heard from him.

Spider was a noted handler of boxers around San Francisco and proprietor of the famous Tivoli cafe. He years ago, and while in Arizona he went to Tucson for his health some discovered Pat Lester, the heavyweight now boxing on the Pacific coast with some success.

Lester wasn't much when Spider first got him, but he had certain signs of promise that impressed Kelly. He sent him to Tim McGrath, in San Francisco, and under Tim's direction Lester has been whipping some fair men.

When Kelly was handling a fighter he was almost as much of the show as the fighter himself. The spider was accounted one of the shrewdest men in the game as a second.

Boxing is going on all over Arizona.

In the Arizona Republican, of Phoenix, the writer reads that both Young Dutch, of that City, and Allan Whitlow, of Superior, are down to weight, 126 pounds, for an impending eight-round bout.

It is for the Arizona championship of that class. The Republican boxing writer states that both boys are young and improving. Perhaps we of the East will hear of them later on.

By the time this reaches the reader's eye the bout will have been decided. It appears that it is the final of an elimination tournament such as the New York State Athletic Commission held in the same class, resulting in Louis Kid Kaplan being declared champion.

Such boys, the Republican says, "as Battling Siki, Young Arnold, Bobby McIndoo and Rusty Ling have been among those beaten and eliminated.

Of course this is not the Battling Siki of world fame—not the Singular Senegalese. He was bouncing around the South at last accounts.

The winner of the Arizona elimination gets an engraved belt but emblematic of the State championship. Some day the Arizona belt holder may be fighting for the world's title in the class. They have to begin somewhere.

Other fighters named in the Republican's boxing gossip are Miami Joe Rivers, who evidently takes his name from the noted Los Angeles lightweight of another era; Frankie Tucker, of New Orleans, Jimmy Cumston, Soldier Brown, Young Joe Gans, Kid Valdone, Young Sally and Joe Encinas.

They are all boxing around Phoenix. Over in Noagles Francisco Moreno, lightweight champion of the west coast of Mexico, is getting ready to meet Tommy Simmons, "The Phoenix Flash," in an eight-round bout. Morgan lives at Guaymas, Mexico.

The interest everywhere in basketball continues to astonish this writer.

At El. Paso a band of good-looking youngsters boarded the Southern Pacific train on which he is traveling. They were the "Tigers," of El Paso, starting on a basketball invasion of Arizona.

They were to open, they said, at Phoenix against the Arizona State champions, the Mesa "Jackrabbits." Last year the "Tigers" were in the Texas State basketball tournament, in which more than ONE THOUSAND teams started.

Kindly think that over.
More than ONE THOUSAND basketball teams, each team comprising at least five members.
That's over FIVE THOUSAND basketball players in one tournament, and the tornament didn't include ALL the basketball teams in Texas.

Do you wonder that Texas turns out such magnificent physical specimens of manhood when the youth of the State is being prepared in this manner.

BOONE'S BOYS DEFEAT COUNTY SEATERS, 42-32

Local Girls are Losers; Sebring Teams Here Tonight.

Coach O. V. Boone's scholastic passers stayed up in the county basketball race by defeating the Lisbon quintet, 42 to 32, last night on the county seat court.

The honors of the evening, however, did not all come to the Pottery City, for the county seat girls were victorious over the locals in the preliminary winning by the count of 28 to 16.

Both games were fast and hard fought. Chuck McConville retired in the closing stages of the main engagement, which was at that time pretty well sewed up, with his allotted number of personal fouls.

McConville, however, played a hard game, registered two field goals and generally conducted himself as a star guard should. Captain Liebschner dropped in his customary number of field goals, four, and played a good all around game.

Scoring honors were captured by Forward Paul English who hit the bull's eye nine times for two-pointers and twice from the free line.

The Hum brothers were the big cogs in the Lisbon machine. They led the county seaters in all around playing and in scoring.

Tonight Boone's boys will tackle an opponent of algebraic quality, Sebring, which to the locals is rated as X, the unknown. Plenty of rumors have been making the rounds lately concerning the Sebringites but none has caused much of a sensation here. Boone's passers are confident they will be successful in solving the problem.

Reports, among others, have it that Sebring recently won from New Philadelphia. Another, that Sebring lost to New Philly by nine points. Either supposition, if true, would be a credit to Sebring.

The East Liverpool and Sebring girls' teams will play in the preliminary, beginning at 7:45 o'clock.

Manager Bruce Perry has made a request that persons, holding reserved seats, who do not expect to use the seats, notify him as soon as possible before game time.

Lineup Lisbon game:

E. L. H. S. 42		Lisbon 32
E. English	F	Garwood
P. English	F	W. Hum

Withdrawal of Star Fighters Detracts From Ring Tourney

NEW YORK, Feb. 7—Followeds of boxing were almost unanimous today in declaring that the state athletic commission's impending lightweight elimination tourney had lost most of its authority by the withdrawal of Sammy Mandell, Sid Terris, Sid Barbarian and Johnny Dundee from the lists of contenders. Lack of condition was given as Dundee's reason for withdrawal while Barbarian claimed previous engagements with promoters on the Pacific Coast.

Mandell and Terris, it is understood, withdrew from the toruney because the board declined to grant them Byes in the first round of the event. Reports, however, were to the effect that their real objection was based on the fact that the commission has alloted only 7½ per cent of the gate receipts to each contestant.

Laughlin 6, Ford Motors Win Y Games

Laughlin 5 and Trotters Come Out on Losers' Ends.

Laughlin 6 and Ford Motors were "Y" Industrial league basketball winners last night, the Fords downing Laughlin 5 by the score of 34 to 16, while Laughlin 6 defeated Trotters by the score of 13 to 9.

The Fords had an easy time winning from the Laughlin 5 aggregation. They led at the end of the first half by the score of 19 to 7. The second half was only a repetition of the first, the Fords outclassing their foes as they did in the first, easily adding another victory to their list.

Bromby, Furrer and Canne were the scoring stars for the Fords, while Patton and Cox took care of the guard positions well. Sayre, Manypenny and Berg did well for Laughlin 5.

The Trotters-Laughlin 5 contest was a hard fought battle from start to finish and very little scoring was done the first half. The toll at the end of the half was 3 to 2 in the pottery lads favor.

During the second half both teams continued to play their hardest, but the Pottery boys increased their lead during the half field goals by Duffy

Foul goals—Canne 2, Berg 4.

Duffy and Webb were the scoring stars for Laughlin 6 while Watson did all the scoring for the Trotters five.

Lineups and summaries:

Columbiana Quint Ends Season With Victory Over Fords

COLUMBIANA, Feb. 7.—It required an extra five-minute period for the Miller Brothers team of Columbiana to defeat the Ford Motors of East Liverpool, Wednesday night at Columbiana. The score was 41 to 34.

Until the final period it was a rather uninteresting contest, with the Miller Brothers in the lead.

The Columbiana passers have ended their 1925 season, with a record of six victories and three defeats. Their record follows:

Rockne Takes Notre Dame Relay Team to Boston Indoor Meet

BOSTON, Feb. 7.—Knute Rockne, famous coach of Notre Dame, today brought his middle western relay team here for the annual indoor games of the Knights of Columbus tonight.

Because Notre Dame never has appeared in Boston, unusual interest has developed in its relay race with Harvard. Elmer Layden and Adam Walsh, both of Notre Dame football fame, will be in the four to face Harvard tonight.

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

A move that should strengthen the Chicago Cubs about as much as the acquiston of new playing material might, has just been made by manager Bill Killefer in naming George Gibson as his first assistant.

Gibson, former big league catcher, manager and coach, possesses one of the keenest baseball minds extant. He carries to his new job a vast store of baseball learning collected in 18 years in the game. Most of the valuable info was assembled while he was playing "iron man" behind the bat.

And the perusual of his career brings to attention again the fact that from the catcher's box have sprung many—if not most—of the game's leading pilots.

Look over the list of managers.

Lee Fohl of the Red Sox.
Branch Rickey of the Cardinals.
Connie Mack of the Athletics.
Wilbert Robinson of the Dodgers.
Bill Killefer himself.
Clarence Rowland, former White Sox leader.
Fred Mitchell, former manager of the Braves and Cubs.
Bill Carigan, former Red Sox pilot.
Billy Sullivan.
Pat Moran and Franch Chance, now dead.
Red Dooin, former manager of the Phillies.

And that does not include all of them by an means.

Wilbert Robinson first attracted attention with his masterful catching for the famous old Baltimore Orioles which also produced John McGraw and others for the managerial ranks.

Branch Rickey, from the big mitt ranks, has become one of the most unusual managers in the game. Rickey is the leading exponent of psychology as first aid to ball players. His scientific experiments with Ferdy Schuff and others and his latest move in taking Duster Mails into his Cardinal "sanitarium" all have formed interesting "copy." Rickey formerly managed the Browns.

While the late Frank Chance is remembered as premier first baseman and "Peerless Leader" of the old Cubs his life history shows that he catcher when he went to Chicago. Billy Sullivan's great catching played an important part in the winning, by the White Sox, of their second pennant in 1901. He was a star of the 1906 world's series between the Cubs and Sox. He continued to shine for at least two years after that.

Carrigan stands out as one of the greatest winning managers in the game.

Fred Clarke gave Lee Fohl, now manager of the Red Sox, his start. Clarke let him catch a game or two for the Pirates, then sent him to Des Moines.

Killefer was the receiving star of the Phillies for six years before being traded to the Cubs in 1918 with Grover Alexander for two players and $55,000 in cash. He became pilot later.

Pat Moran gave the Phillies a long sought pennant in 1915 and four years later gave Cincinnati a penant—only to see his success clouded by the dastardly machiations of the gamblers and the unscrupulous actions of some of the White Sox players.

Mandell Is Victor Over Dancin' Fool

Outspeeds Sid Terris in 12 Rounds in Gotham Fight and Wins Judges' Decision.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7—"The worst Terris should have got was a draw"—Abe Attell, former featherweight champion. "Terris won," said an appreciable percentage of the fans who viewed the dazzling exhibition of speed furnished by the country's leading lightweights at Madison Square Garden last night.

The writer thinks that Mandell won easily. The judges and the referee agreed with him. The official verdict went to Mandell at the end of 12 rounds, and according to my score sheet, there could be none other. Attel, unquestionably is an authority on the manly art of legalized assault. So are many of the others who disagreed with the official decision. What they saw about the affair that justified a Terris partisianship is above and beyond my feeble resources.

If last night's fight determined the logical successor to Benny Leonard's abandoned laurels, then Sammy Mandell of Rockford, Ills., and not Sid Terris, of the East Side, New York, is the far more deserving candidate. The so-called sheik, out-speeded the "dancin' fool" in seven out of 12 rounds, as I saw it. Two were and three went of Terris.

"Terris made the same mistake Abe Goldstein made against Cannonball Martin," said the button hole makers as they stampeded for the exits. "He thought he had the thing safe and slowed down in the last few rounds."

That comes under the head of horse hair in the porridge. Terris might have won the decision in the last two rounds if Mandell had broken a careless leg.

As it was, the sheik swarmed all over his man in the eleventh and twelfth rounds and thus left the judges no alternative but to declare him the winner. Sammy was off his feet in the third but otherwise carried the pace at all times.

He began at an early moment to give the so-called dancing master a lesson in the art of buck and wing, consistently outspeeding Terris in the first two rounds. So annoyed was Terris by this affront to his dignity that he led with a right to open the third and it clipped Samuel on the chin. He went down as much under Terris' rush as from the force of the blow and was up before the timekeeper would start a count.

Mandell was hurt but managed to convey an impression of nonchalance for the remainder of the round, keeping Terris at his distance by straight lefts, of which Terris scored all too few during the proceedings. The fourth was Mandell's but the fifth again saw Terris cross with his right and Samuel was once more in a bad way. He was almost out on his feet and Terris closed viciously with the idea of finishing the business. Twice more he slapped Sammp silly with rights to the jaw, but the young man remained as was, until the bell.

He won on the chin strap from that moment. Refreshed by the minute's intermission he carried the right to Terris through the sixth and seventh rounds, contrived to get an even break out of the eighth and was consistently outpunched in the ninth. The tenth was even, but the last two were all Mandell.

Zill Signs Holub For Semi-Final go With Eddie Bowen

YOUNGSTOWN, Feb. 7.—With the singing of Max Holub, the Akron bantam, with Eddie Bowen, of Sharon, who is going at his best now, in the simi-final to the Goodman-Anderson go, Promoter Al Zill has practically completed an all-star card for his show on February 11 at Raylen-Wood auditorium.

In recent months it seemed that no Cleveland card was complete without Anderson on the bill. Anderson has much at stake in his coming bout with Goodman. To lose will mean a big drop in prestige for him.

Goodman expects to use Anderson as another stepping stone to further honors. The fact that he knocked out Carl Tremaine in Cleveland some time ago brands him as a fighter. Goodman and Anderson will go 12 rounds at 121 pounds.

In the other bouts George Meenehan, the Farrell fighter, meets Tony Brown, of Jamestown, N. Y., in six rounds while Pal Kansas, the Youngstown boy, will take on Harry McMillen, of Cleveland, in another six rounder.

Runyon Says

Frank Carbone Enlists.
Is Now a Horse Soldier.
Also Boxing Instructor.
"Fighting Billy's" Town.
More About Baseball.

By DAMON RUNYON.
Copyright, 1925, International Feature Syndicate.

FRANK CARBONE, hard-bitten middleweight of long experience, has enlisted in the Eighth Cavalry at Fort Bliss, as the writer learns from an El Paso newspaper passing through that interesting city.

One of Carbone's last appearances in New York was against "Punch-'em" Paul Berlenbach. In fact, it was Berlenbach's defeat of Carbone that made the Astoria slugger's reputation. It was his first showing against a fighter of any reputation in Madison Square Garden.

Carbone had stood off some of the best middleweights and light heavyweights in the country. Those who knew his ability were betting on him to beat Berlenbach. The Astoria Ox was crue. He knew little about boxing. The Carbone bout was his big test.

Before the fight the writer asked Dan Hickey, Berlenbach's manager and trainer, what he thought of the outcome.

"Well," Hickey said, "Paul hasn't been learning things rapidly enough to suit me. He's got to box this fellow tonight five rounds, then I'll give him his head."

Immediately after being "given his head" Berlenbach walked out and stopped Carbone. It was an impressive showing for a youngster.

Carbone is to act as instructor and trainer for the boxers of the Eighth Cavalry. It seems that he is through with the ring.

Like the American sailors, our soldiers are keen on boxing. Every outfit has its stars. At Fort Bliss there are a number of fairly good men who are expected to improve under Carbone's direction.

The trouble with the average army and navy boxer is lack of training, no matter how great his natural ability. They have little time for training, to begin with, and no knowledge of HOW to train.

A few professional boxers scattered throughout the army and navy, as during the war, would make a big difference in ringmen of the service.

The train on which the writer is traveling passed through Tucson, Arizona.

This is the seat of a little pugilistic colony of health seekers unless it has quite recently disbanded.

Among them is "Fighting Billy" Murray, a real good middleweight of a few years ago. He was managed by Jack Kearns, now the manager of a world's champion.

Kearns campaigned Murray all over the country. Kearns claims "Fighting Billy" gave Tom Gibbons a slathering in a bout at Hudson, Wis. In any event, Murray was one of the best of his time.

The celebrated Spider Kelly, one of the greatest characters ever connected with the boxing game, also was living in Tucson the last heard from him.

Spider was a noted handler of boxers around San Francisco and proprietor of the famous Tivoli cafe. He years ago, and while in Arizona he went to Tucson for his health some discovered Pat Lester, the heavyweight now boxing on the Pacific coast with some success.

Lester wasn't much when Spider first got him, but he had certain signs of promise that impressed Kelly. He sent him to Tim McGrath, in San Francisco, and under Tim's direction Lester has been whipping some fair men.

When Kelly was handling a fighter he was almost as much of the show as the fighter himself. The spider was accounted one of the shrewdest men in the game as a second.

Boxing is going on all over Arizona.

In the Arizona Republican, of Phoenix, the writer reads that both Young Dutch, of that City, and Allan Whitlow, of Superior, are down to weigat, 126 pounds, for an impending eight-round bout.

It is for the Arizona championship of that class. The Republican boxing writer states that both boys are young and improving. Perhaps we of the East will hear of them later on.

By the time this reaches the reader's eye the bout will have been decided. It appears that it is the final of an elimination tournament such as the New York State Athletic Commission held in the same class, resulting in Louis Kid Kaplan being declared champion.

Such boys, the Republican says, "as Battling Siki, Young Arnold, Bobby McIndoo and Rusty Ling have been among those beaten and eliminated.

Of course this is not the Battling Siki of world fame—not the Singular Senegalese. He was bouncing around the South at last accounts.

The winner of the Arizona elimination gets an engraved belt but emblematic of the State championship. Some day the Arizona belt holder may be fighting for the world's title in the class. They have to begin somewhere.

Other fighters named in the Republican's boxing gossip are Miami Joe Rivers, who evidently takes his name from the noted Los Angeles lightweight of another era; Frankie Tucker, of New Orleans, Jimmy Cumston, Soldier Brown, Young Joe Gans, Kid Valdone, Young Sally and Joe Encinas.

They are all boxing around Phoenix. Over in Noagles Francisco Moreno, lightweight champion of the west coast of Mexico, is getting ready to meet Tommy Simmons, "The Phoenix Flash," in an eight-round bout. Moreno lives at Guaymas, Mexico.

The interest everywhere in basketball continues to astonish this writer.

At El Paso a band of good-looking youngsters boarded the Southern Pacific train on which he is traveling. They were the "Tigers," of El Paso, starting on a basketball invasion of Arizona.

They were to open, they said, at Phoenix against the Arizona State champions, the Mesa "Jackrabbits." Last year the "Tigers" were in the Texas State basketball tournament, in which more than ONE THOUSAND teams started.

Kindly think that over.
More than ONE THOUSAND basketball teams, each team comprising at least five members.

That's over FIVE THOUSAND basketball players in one tournament, and the tornament didn't include ALL the basketball teams in Texas.

Do you wonder that Texas turns out such magnificent physical specimens of manhood when the youth of the State is being prepared in this manner.

BOONE'S BOYS DEFEAT COUNTY SEATERS, 42-32

Local Girls are Losers; Sebring Teams Here Tonight.

Coach O. V. Boone's scholastic passers stayed up in the county basketball race by defeating the Lisbon quintet, 42 to 32, last night on the county seat court.

The honors of the evening, however, did not all come to the Pottery City, for the county seat girls were victorious over the locals in the preliminary winning by the count of 28 to 16.

Both games were fast and hard fought. Chuck McConville retired in the closing stages of the main engagement, which was at that time pretty well sewed up, with his allotted number of personal fouls.

McConville, however, played a hard game, registered two field goals and generally conducted himself as a star guard should. Captain Liebschner dropped in his customary number of field goals, four, and played a good all around game.

Scoring honors were captured by Forward Paul English who hit the bull's eye nine times for two pointers and twice from the free line.

The Hum brothers were the big cogs in the Lisbon machine. They led the county seaters in all around playing and in scoring.

Tonight Boone's boys will tackle an opponent of algebraic quality, Sebring, which to the locals is rated as X, the unknown. Plenty of rumors have been making the rounds lately concerning the Sebringites but none has caused much of a sensation here. Boone's passers are confident they will be successful in solving the problem.

Reports, among others, have it that Sebring recently won from New Philadelphia. Another, that Sebring lost to New Philly by nine points. Either supposition, if true, would be a credit to Sebring.

The East Liverpool and Sebring girls' teams will play in the preliminary, beginning at 7:45 o'clock.

Manager Bruce Perry has made a request that persons, holding reserved seats, who do not expect to use the seats, notify him as soon as possible before game time.

Lineup Lisbon game:

E. L. H. S. 42		Lisbon 32
E. English	F	Garwood
P. English	F	W. Hum
McGraw	C	Rush
Liebschner	G	Neigh
McConville	G	P. Hum

Withdrawal of Star Fighters Detracts From Ring Tourney

NEW YORK, Feb. 7—Followeds of boxing were almost unanimous today in declaring that the state athletic commission's impending lightweight elimination tourney had lost most of its authority by the withdrawal of Sammy Mandell, Sid Terris, Sid Barbarian and Johnny Dundee from the lists of contenders. Lack of condition was given as Dundee's reason for withdrawal while Barbarian claimed previous engagements with promoters on the Pacific Coast.

Mandell and Terris, it is understood, withdrew from the teruney because the board declined to grant them Byes in the first round of the event. Reports, however, were to the effect that their real objection was based on the fact that the commission has alloted only 7½ per cent of the gate receipts to each contestant.

THEY "CAUGHT ON" WHILE CATCHING

Laughlin 6, Ford Motors Win Y Games

Laughlin 5 and Trotters Come Out on Losers' Ends.

Laughlin 6 and Ford Motors were "Y" Industrial league basketball winners last night, the Fords downing Laughlin 5 by the score of 34 to 16, while Laughlin 6 defeated Trotters by the score of 13 to 9.

The Fords had an easy time winning from the Laughlin 5 aggregation. They led at the end of the first half by the score of 19 to 7. The second half was only a repetition of the first, the Fords outclassing their foes as they did in the first, easily adding another victory to their list.

Bromby, Furrer and Canne were the scoring stars for the Fords, while Patton and Cox took care of the guard positions well. Sayre, Manypenny and Berg did well for Laughlin 5.

The Trotters-Laughlin 5 contest was a hard fought battle from start to finish and very little scoring was done the first half. The toll at the end of the half was 3 to 2 in the pottery lads favor.

During the second half both teams continued to play their hardest, but the Pottery boys increased their lead during the half field goals by Duffy.

Foul goals—Canne 2, Berg 4.

Duffy and Webb were the scoring stars for Laughlin 6 while Watson did all the scoring for the Trotters five.

Lineups and summaries:

Nurmi Will Attempt To Run Two Miles in 9 Minutes or Better

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Paavo Nurmi, greatest runner of all time, will make his supreme effort of his American tour at the annual games of the Wilco A. A. tonight. The great Finn, running on a carefully plotted time schedule, will attempt to run two miles in nine minutes or better and Athletic experts today were almost unanimous in conceding him a new record for the distance. The present mark is 9:08 2-5, held by Joie Ray, the record being one of Ray's still remaining on the books following Nurmi's record-shattering performances on American indoor tracks.

SPORT SPARKS

The hold-out, a baseball manager's greatest worry outside of baldness, is with us again, and there is much weeping and wailing in the gilded offices of the magnates. With half their stars unsigned, teams which looked like sure winners last fall now resemble pieces of Limburger cheese raked by machine gun fire.

If mercenary magnates grant salary demands, they face enormous treasury deficit. If they refuse, they must hie themselves to the bush leagues and import several carloads of ivory.

Hold-outs are long green with envy. Why should magnates ride in luxurious limousines while they bump along in flivvers?

If a star demanded $5,000 a year in the old days, the club owner told him he was crazy. If he asks only that much now, the other players tell him the same thing.

A manager has a harder time getting his stars signed than a colored minister does in getting erring brothers back in the fold. And tough part of it is that player's wife has to be brought into line after player has agreed to sign.

Hold-out evil is caused by sport writers who turn out daily assignment by scribbing long yarns telling how good certain stars are. After reading several columns telling how good he is, a player begins to believe it.

Hold-outs should remember one thing, however—if they get too unreasonable, they may be numbered among the left-outs when the season starts.

12-Foot Putt Starts Champ on Lucky Year

MRS D C HURD

Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, national women's golf champ in 1924, is sure that that 12-foot putt which she sunk on the home green at Belleair Heights, Fla., the other day, heralds a successful season for her. She needed the putt to defeat Mrs. Alex Smith of Clearwater, Fla., in the finals of a tourney. Mrs. Hurd turned in a 79 score despite a fickle wind. Her play was consistent and firm.

Nurmi vs Horse In Special Race, Coffroth's Plan

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—According to a report today, James W. Coffroth, president of the Tia Juana Jockey club, is negotiating with Paavo Nurmi, Finland's running star, for a race against a horse. The animal in question is said to be Osprey, a thoroughbred which once raced in the colors of the late August Belmont, and the conditions of the proposed race would require Nurmi to run a half mile against a full mile for the horse.

POEMS THAT LIVE

Song.

In Love, if Love be Love, if Love be ours,
Faith and unfaith can ne'er be equal powers;
Unfaith in aught is want of faith in all.
It is the little rift within the lute,
That by and by will make the music mute;
And ever widening slowly silence all.
The little rift within the lover's lute
Or little pitted speck in garnered fruit,
That rotting inward slowly moulders all.
It is not worth the keeping; let it go:
But shall it? answer, darling, answer, no.
And trust me not at all or all in all.
—Tennyson.

Nurmi Will Attempt To Run Two Miles in 9 Minutes or Better

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Paavo Nurmi, greatest runner of all time, will make his supreme effort of his American tour at the annual games of the Wilco A. A. tonight. The great Finn, running on a carefully plotted time schedule, will attempt to run two miles in nine minutes or better and Athletic experts today were almost unanimous in conceding him a new record for the distance. The present mark is 9:08 2-5, held by Joie Ray, the record being one of Ray's still remaining on the books following Nurmi's record-shattering performances on American indoor tracks.

SPORT SPARKS

The hold-out, a baseball manager's greatest worry outside of baldness, is with us again, and there is much weeping and wailing in the gilded offices of the magnates. With half their stars unsigned, teams which looked like sure winners last fall now resemble pieces of Limburger cheese raked by machine gun fire.

If mercenary magnates grant salary demands, they face enormous treasury deficit. If they refuse, they must hie themselves to the bush leagues and import several carloads of ivory.

Hold-outs are long green with envy. Why should magnates ride in luxurious limousines while they bump along in flivvers?

If a star demanded $5,000 a year in the old days, the club owner told him he was crazy. If he asks only that much now, the other players tell him the same thing.

A manager has a harder time getting his stars signed than a colored minister does in getting erring brothers back in the fold. And tough part of it is that player's wife has to be brought into line after player has agreed to sign.

Hold-out evil is caused by sport writers who turn out daily assignment by scribbling long yarns telling how good certain stars are. After reading several columns telling how good he is, a player begins to believe it.

Hold-outs should remember one thing, however—if they get too unreasonable, they may be numbered among the left-outs when the season starts.

12-Foot Putt Starts Champ on Lucky Year

MRS D C HURD

Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, national women's golf champ in 1924, is sure that that 12-foot putt which she sunk on the home green at Belleair Heights, Fla., the other day, heralds a successful season for her. She needed the putt to defeat Mrs. Alex Smith of Clearwater, Fla., in the finals of a tourney. Mrs. Hurd turned in a 79 score despite a fickle wind. Her play was consistent and firm.

Nurmi vs Horse In Special Race, Coffroth's Plan

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—According to a report today, James W. Coffroth, president of the Tia Juana Jockey club, is negotiating with Paavo Nurmi, Finland's running star, for a race against a horse. The animal in question is said to be Osprey, a thoroughbred which once raced in the colors of the late August Belmont, and the conditions of the proposed race would require Nurmi to run a half mile against a full mile for the horse.

POEMS THAT LIVE

Song.

In Love, if Love be Love, if Love be ours,
Faith and unfaith can ne'er be equal powers;
Unfaith in aught is want of faith in all.
It is the little rift within the lute,
That by and by will make the music mute,
And ever widening slowly silence all.
The little rift within the lover's lute
Or little pitted speck in garnered fruit,
That rotting inward slowly moulders all.
It is not worth the keeping; let it go:
But shall it? answer, darling, answer, no.
And trust me not at all or all in all.
—Tennyson.

A Hint for Beginners

The cross-word puzzle djagram is merely a means of concealing words which are synonymous to those listed and which will interlock perfectly and so read equally well crosswise or downwards. Always look for the number of the synonym on the diagram. If horizontal, you must find a word to fit between that number and the first shaded stop to the right; if vertical, you must fit your word between the number and the first shaded stop below.

Workin' away when th' rest bey gone

Gladly an' cheerfully toilin' on,
Never a thought fer t' want er ask
More of reward fer her pains than this,
When work is ended; a baby kiss.

It is thet never her arms kin know
Aches, er thet sleep never tempts her stron?
Mothers—do they never tire er grow
Wearied from ploddin' both had an' long
Er is it love in their hearts thet keeps Them pluggin' on while th' whole world sleeps?

Mendin' a garment er washin' things;
Knittin' a pink little sumpthin' there:
Toilin' away as she croons er sings,
Glad fer th' lot thet is hers t' share,
List'nin' th' while fer a baby call—

A Hint for Beginners

The cross-word puzzle diagram is merely a means of concealing words which are synonymous to those listed and which will interlock perfectly and so read equally well crosswise or downwards. Always look for the number of the synonym on the diagram. If horizontal, you must find a word to fit between that number and the first shaded stop to the right; if vertical, you must fit your word between the number and the first shaded stop below.

VERSE AND WORSE

By Larry Flint

The Midnight Toiler.

Workin' away when th' rest bey gone
Off t' their beds is a mother's task;
Gladly an' cheerfully toilin' on,
Never a thought fer t' want er ask
More of reward fer her pains than this,
When work is ended; a baby kiss.

It is thet never her arms kin know
Aches, er thet sleep never tempts her stron?
Mothers—do they never tire er grow
Wearied from ploddin' both had an' long
Er is it love in their hearts thet keeps
Them pluggin' on while th' whole world sleeps?

Mendin' a garment er washin' things;
Knittin' a pink little sumpthin' there:
Toilin' away as she croons er sings,
Glad fer th' lot thet is hers t' share,
List'nin' th' while fer a baby call—
Reckon t' her it ain't t' work at all.

Taxes on business of large volume in Poland are so heavy that the smaller dealer, who avoids these, is really more prosperous than the big one.

Ten of the twelve members of a jury that tried an English prisoner at a court in Carnarvonshire, Wales, took the oath in Welsh.
